Truman Calls For Prompt Action To Stop Inflation In U.S.

Asks For Relief Of Hungry, Cold In Foreign Land

Broadcasts After Calling Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Truman called tonight for "prompt and courageous action" to stop inflation at home and to protect France and Italy against "totalitarian pressures."

He stopped short, however, of saying at this time what measures other than voluntary he will ask of Congress in the special session he has called to meet November 17.

Mr. Truman broadcast to the nation one day after issuing the proclamation which will bring the lawmakers back to Washington a month and a half ahead of their regular session in January.

"When it meets," he said of Congress, "I shall recommend a program for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high cost of living. Adequate measures—enacted in time—are necessary to correct the present situation."

Cites U. S. Policy

Turning to foreign relief needs, he declared the United States policy has been and is "to assist free men and free nations to recover from the devastation of war, to stand on their own feet, to help one another, and to contribute their full share to a stable and lasting peace."

"Timely and forthright action," he said, is needed to relieve "hunger and cold abroad."

Mr. Truman gave this picture of emergency needs as he sees them:

France—$357,000,000 to carry her throug until next March 31.

Italy—$142,000,000 to last through December 31 and an additional $143,000,000 to run through March 31.

Occupied areas in Germany, Japan and Korea—"serious difficulties" require additional funds in an amount he did not specify.

The President summed up:

"The two problems I have been discussing with you tonight—high prices at home and hunger and cold abroad—present a challenge to the American people.

"We could choose the course of inaction. We could wait until depression caught up with us, until our living standards sank, and our people tramped the streets looking for jobs. Other Democratic nations would lose hope, and become easy victims of totalitarian aggression. That would be the course of defeatism and cowardice."

In saying that "inflation must be stopped before it is too late," Mr. Truman described high prices at home and emergency aid abroad as obstacles which must be overcome by prompt action, He added:

"Legislation by the Congress is essential. The need is too pressing—the results of delay too grave—for Congressional action to wait until next (regular) session in January.

Before Mr. Truman took to the radio, two high-ranking Republican lawmakers raised the cry that he was "playing politics" by linking rising living costs with foreign aid in his special session call.

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind), House Majority Leader and Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), chairman of the House Banking Committee, were joined by Carroll Reece, GOP National Chairman, in sounding the "politics" theme.

Termed Political Move

Halleck said "it is now obvious that he is trying to shift the emphasis from foreign aid to prices. Wolcott, after talking with House Speaker Martin (R-Mass), said he

Hearing On 1946 Md. Election Dispute Set

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Members of the Senate Rules Subcommittee supervising the recount in Maryland's disputed 1946 Senatorial election have been summoned to a meeting here November 17.

A spokesman for Senator Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of the subcommittee, said that date was chosen before the President's selection of the same day for the beginning of a special session.

He said the meeting of the subcommittee "probably will stand as it is."

Staff Of Brazilian Embassy In Russia Taken In Custody

Held To Assure Safe Return Of Diplomats

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Soviet Russia announced through the Moscow radio tonight that she had placed the Brazilian Ambassador and his staff under a "protective" surveillance and said they would be held in Moscow until the safe departure of the Soviet Embassy Staff from Brazil had been assured.

Brazil severed relations with Russia on Tuesday because of Russia's failure to apologize for attacks in the Soviet press on Brazilian President Eurico Gaspar Dutra calling him a "lackey" of the United States.

The Moscow Radio said Brazilian Ambassador Mario De Pimental Brandao and his staff had been taken "under surveillance" and would be held under guard—presumably within the embassy grounds although that was not specified—because the Soviet public was incensed at "hooligan acts" against Russian diplomats in Rio de Janeiro.

The broadcast declared the five-year-old son of Soviet Charge D'Affaires Sokoloo was injured in the stoning of an embassy automobile in Rio de Janeiro's streets in which "bad eggs" also were thrown.

Dispatches from Rio de Janeiro have made no mention of such an incident. A crowd attacked the communist newspaper plant of the Communist newspaper Tribuna Popular on Tuesday night, however, wrecking the place. The paper said eight persons were injured in the mob attack.

Reduction In Use Of Wheat Is Noted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today that it has found an important reduction in the domestic use of wheat started even before the save-grain-for-Europe campaign began.

It said that domestic use of wheat for the first quarter of the crop year—July through September—was about 15,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. It apparently reflected a lower rate of feeding wheat to livestock than in the same period in 1946.

The department estimated July-August-September domestic use at 215,000,000 bushels of wheat. If domestic use can be held to an average of 225,000,000 bushels a quarter the remainder of the crop year, the export goal of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat could be reached.

The effort now will be to hold to that average of 225,000,000 bushels—and this runs into the fact that domestic use of wheat is heavier in the winter quarter than in the spring and summer quarters.

A month ago the Cabinet Food Committee reported that at the then current rates of consumption, the United States could export 400,000,000 bushels of wheat and 70,000,000 bushels of other grain.

Turkey Files Protest In UN Against Russia

Vishinsky Again Blasts At U. S.

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Turkey, a recipient of American aid under the Truman Program, accused the Russian Government Radio and the Moscow Press today of "psychological aggression" against the Turkish people and of "warmongering" attacks on the Turkish Government.

Selim Sarper, Turkish chief delegate, appealed to the United Nations Assembly to stop "this nefarious propaganda."

He spoke in the 57-Nation Political Committee of the assembly in answer to charges made by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, that "warmongering" and "criminal war propaganda" are being carried on in the United States, Turkey and Greece.

Vishinsky took the floor late this afternoon for another long blast at the United States. The Russian Chief Delegate declared yesterday's speech by U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin "made it clear that the United States is in favor of warmongers."

Reminded Of "Prussianism"

"It is worse than negligence," Vishinsky said, referring to Austin's speech. "It is an appeal for war."

Vishinsky then said the United States reminded him of "Prussianism" and "Hitlerism."

The committee is considering a Russian anti-"warmonger" resolution.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, meanwhile, demanded that the 57-Nation Social Committee of the assembly vote down a Yugoslav resolution hitting at dissemination of "slanderous reports." She said it is "remarkably similar" to Vishinsky's proposal and that it will be discussed at the proposed World Conference on Freedom of Information next year.

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her third speech in the Social Committee on Freedom of Information, said the U. S. Government is gravely concerned at "the growing practice of erecting tight, governmental monopolies over the information disseminated in many nations of the world."

The Yugoslav resolution would prevent "dissemination with regard to foreign states of slanderous reports which are harmful to good relations between states and contrary to the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

The Soviet Ukrainian Delegate, Foreign Minister Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, carried on the Soviet campaign with an accusation that the United States is conducting "an economic and political war for capitalistic domination." Manuilsky also attacked Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, who was listed by Vishinsky yesterday as a "warmonger."

Lists 15 Instances

Sarper listed 15 separate instances in which he said the official radio and the Russian Press struck at Turkey. He charged that the Russians attempted early in 1947 to "incite" the Turkish people against the United States by printing "misleading" reports that the Americans were trying to take over military bases in Turkey.

He charged that the Soviet Press and Soviet Radios "have continued up to this day to publish and broadcast all sorts of libelous and slanderous reports, articles, talks, and all kinds of threats and provocations constantly and with an incredible force which had no paral-

Stassen Advances 5-Point Program

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen, a candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, tonight advanced a five-point program on which he urged the nation to unite "regardless of party or other differences."

In an address before a meeting sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Stassen said if the goal of unity were obtained "there are grounds for sober optimism that we can win a future of expanding freedom and steady progress for ourselves and others without the tragedy of a third World War."

His proposals were:

"1—Maintain a strong domestic economy with high production and fair distribution on the basis of individual freedom made possible through modern capitalism.

"2—Take essential steps to prevent economic crisis and crashes in America.

"3—Clear up Communist infiltration in our country with full respect for Constitutional rights and civil liberties.

"4—Grant generous aid to the stricken peoples of other parts of the world, and do it in a sound and practical and business-like manner.

"5—Keep America strong in a military sense during these critical and unstable post-war years."

Russia Announces Ambassadors To U. S. Are Changed

Diplomats Uncertain Of Possible Meaning

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Soviet Russia announced today a switch in its ambassadors to the United States, a move which left diplomats both here and in Washington uncertain as to its possible significance.

The Moscow Radio said Ambassador Nikolai Novikov, who took over Russia's top diplomatic post only last year, succeeding Andrei Gromyko, had been relieved of his duties and would be replaced by Alexander S. Panyushkin, former Ambassador to China.

Returned To Russia

Novikov, who became Ambassador when Gromyko was named permanent Russian Delegate to the United Nations, returned to Russia last July and is now in the Soviet Union. He was known as an advocate of Soviet-American friendship and co-operation because of some speeches he has made along that line.

On June 19, he told the Chicago Council of American-Soviet friendship that the United States and Russia can live together peacefully despite differing economic systems.

This expression was similar to that reported voiced recently by Prime Minister Joseph Stalin to a visiting delegation of British Left-Wing Parliament members.

Washington diplomats who had acquaintance with Panyushkin said he also was an agreeable individual.

Washington officials, pointing out that it was too early to say whether the change had any political significance, said they had had no indication as yet of any change in Soviet policy.

May Mean Policy Change

A shift in Soviet diplomatic representatives very often is the herald, however, of a tougher or softer Soviet policy.

State Department officials said they had been advised by the Soviet government that Novikov was ill and that his replacement was necessary. Panyushkin was proposed by the Soviet government for the post and was reclared acceptable by the American government.

The Washington officials said so far as they knew Novikov was in good health when he left Washington on July 26 for Moscow to consult with his government shortly after Secretary of State George C. Marshall had offered the "Marshall Plan."

Baltimore Honors World War Dead

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24 (AP) — An hour-long procession with the 51st Army band playing Chopin's funeral march marked the return today of the first of Baltimore's war dead from overseas cemeteries.

The flag-covered bier of Baltimore's first son to return was borne through the downtown section to symbolize all who gave their lives in World War II.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro paid homage to the unknown soldier as several thousand gathered for the ceremonies at City Hall.

This man and his comrades were among "the glorious band of those who died that liberty might live," he said.

Denham Declares Labor Act Checked

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, told a union gathering today that there are checks and balances in the Taft-Hartley Act "designed to keep it from being a union-busting instrument or a slave labor law."

Denham and the NLRB are responsible for administering the act, which some union leaders have labelled a "slave statute" for labor.

In a speech at a meeting of the Confederated Unions of America, a group of organizations not affiliated with either the CIO or AFL, Denham said:

"It is no secret that many of the leaders of organized labor in the United States have violently criticized the xxx act. They have called it vicious and they have sworn to leave no stone unturned to effect its repeal. I can account for these people only with the well known saying that 'there is none so blind as he who will not see.'"

Denham said the Wagner Act of 1935 was designed to work in one direction only, but that the Taft-Hartley Act which amends it is intended "to operate in two directions."

Without mentioning the International Typographical Union's plan to force a closed shop in newspapers and print shops without a formal written contract, Denham indicated clearly that he thought such procedure would violate the act.

Already he has instituted a complaint against the Baltimore Local of the ITU on charges of the Graphic Arts League that the ITU failed to bargain collectively toward a new contract.

Disney Testifies Sorrell Boasted Of 'Using' NLRB

Women Voters Group Mentioned With Reds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Walt Disney told Congressional Investigators today that Hollywood Labor Leader Herbert K. Sorrell, whom he "believes" to be a Communist, had boasted of using the National Labor Relations Board "as it suited him."

The daddy of "Donald Duck" and "Mickey Mouse" movies testified at hearings on Communism in Hollywood by the House Committee on un-American Activities.

Makes Audience Gasp

Disney sent a gasp through the audience when he included the League of Women Voters among Communist Front organizations.

Also during today's hearing:

1. Oliver Carlson, who said he once was a Communist and now teaches in the University of California Extension Division, testified that Actress Karen Morley and two lawyers who are keeping an eye on the Congressional inquiry taught in what he described as a Red school in Hollywood. He also said the Communists had attempted to take control of the Los Angeles Public Schools and in a recent school board election there polled 24,543 votes for an unsucsessful Communist candidate.

2. Mrs. Lela Rogers, mother of Actor Ginger Rogers, said Communist activities are increasing in Hollywood, that Reds have been able to "deceive" some executives, but "I think the Communist gets his best work in the field of writing."

The lawyers Carlson mentioned are Benjamin and Charles J. Katz, two of a group representing 19 witnesses billed for next week. Katz was tossed out of the hearing Tuesday when he tried to cross-examine a witness.

Carlson Makes Study

Carlson said he had studied and written extensively on Communism and Communist propaganda methods.

He said Sorrell is on the board of directors of the Communist school

Special Session May Help France

PARIS, Oct. 24—(AP)—A spokesman for Premier Paul Ramadier said tonight that President Truman's call to Congress for a special session November 17 may strengthen the hand of the French Government in its appeal for a vote of confidence from the National Assembly next week.

The Socialist Premier's policy of "playing the American card" has been under violent attack from the Communists ever since the Russians refused to participate in the Paris Marshall Plan Conference. Some Rightists, too, have expressed scepticism whether Ramadier could "produce the goods" in the shape of American aid.

The French Premier, however, has based his economic policy more and more on receiving American financial help, and French opinion today interpreted the calling of a special session of Congress as a step toward that aid.

Franc-Tireur, an extreme left newspaper, said the summoning of Congress meant President Truman "has made his choice between Ramadier and De Gaulle."

Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the paper said, "was staking on the impossibility for Congress to make a decision before next spring, which would have let him pluck, after a severe winter of hardships, the ripe fruit of American credits." A French general election is due next spring.

Taft Assured Ohio Support As Presidential Candidate

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24——(AP)—U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft today opened a cellophane-wrapped surprise package—an announcement that he was a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Most of his friends and a part of the public had suspected this for months.

The 58-year-old Cincinnati lawyer, son of the late President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft, was quickly assured the support of Ohio Republican leaders, and said he would leave to them most of the work of getting the nomination.

Business in the Senate, where he has represented Ohio for nine years, will demand most of his attention, Taft explained.

The Ohio Republican organization asked him to run last July 31, but he deferred announcement of a decision until he had made "a check of public sentiment."

After Taft's candidacy was formally announced in Washington and Columbus, he held a news conference here but firmly declined to talk about other Republican aspirants to the Presidency.

In fact, he named no names and finally by acknowledging questions about Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, New York, and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, Minnesota, said that they too might want to be the party standard bearers in 1948. Dewey was the 1944 candidate and Stassen announced his candidacy last December.

Asked whether Stassen would be acceptable as the vice presidential candidate, Taft replied emphatically:

"I won't comment about candidates at any time during the campaign. That goes for Presidential or Vice Presidential.

Both Taft and Fred H. Johnson, State Republican Chairman, said there had been no discussion of a running "mate for him in the Ohio primary election next May."

Taft defined possible issues of the 1948 election campaign as:

1—"The general issue between people who want federal power and action and the people who want less."

2—Foreign questions, such as the Marshall plan for European relief.

3—High prices.

Baruch Says Russian War Unlikely But Warns 'Country Must Be Ready'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch said today he does not expect war between Russia and the United States, but he declared that this country must be ready for anything "forced upon us."

"Although the shooting war is over we are in the midst of a cold war which is getting warmer," Baruch said as he told the Senate War Investigating Committee that it is time to quit talking about the mistakes of the past two wars and face present problems.

The Senate Group has been asking a number of questions of World War II officials why a detailed industrial mobilization plan — which Baruch, financier and adviser to several Presidents, drew up in World War I and helped revise later—was not put into operation.

Baruch testified that failure to adopt and quickly apply mobilization controls in World War II "cost us unnecessarily, thousands of lives, extra billions of dollars and months of time."

He also blamed the present upward surge in prices upon mistakes made in not applying full wartime control and removal of others too early.

Forest Fires Claim Lives Of 17 Persons

Loss In New England Set At $26,000,000

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 25 (SATURDAY) (AP)—Maine officials sought an arsonist early today as they investigated the origin of forest fires that have wiped out whole communities and caused property damage of $25,000,000.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 24 (AP)—Like refugees of war, thousands of persons today fled this flame-wasted island colony of millionaire summer mansions to escape another night of the terror of raiding forest fires which took 17 lives in the nation and burned a loss upwards of $26,000,000 across New England.

Maine — with six communities wiped out in addition to this devastated section of Mount Desert Island, vacation playground of the rich — was still under attack by four fire fronts which were out of control.

As the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Red Cross rushed aid by plane, all available local agencies and persons were rallying to help 3,500 evacuees who streamed out of Bar Harbor and other island areas in swiftly-gathered boats like a small-scale Dunkerque.

Outbreaks of woodland blazes flared elsewhere in the nation, in New York, New Jersey and Michigan and ranged up north of Maine into the Canadian province of New Brunswick. Closing of woods was ordered in parts of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Worn firefighters in the New England bad spots fought through their fifth day counting chiefly on a drop in 20-mile an hour winds as their best aid. Rain still remained only a hope in the six state area, drought-gripped for 24 days. The weather bureau said only a "sprinkle" was due Saturday night.

The hottest areas of Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire took on combat zone appearance. National Guardsmen and Legionnaires joined in aiding families fleeing the blackened and smoke-hung streets of the sudden ghost towns.

Survivors told of huge flamebursts that flashed down upon them without warning. Others said they saw a lightning shift in the wind spare one house as flames roared through houses around it.

An evacuation center at Ellsworth estimated 2,500 refugees thronging there from Mt. Desert Island. Winds held during the day and drove fresh threats and evacuation alarms to Jonesboro, Me.

Maine's death toll stood at 10 and its loss was officially estimated at $25,000,000. Three fire-caused deaths were listed in Massachusetts, three in Michigan and one in Connecticut.

Richest target of the flames in the state was the plush Bar Harbor expanse where damage alone was set at $8,000,000 in property, exclusive of costly furnishings and art treasures.

Sales Tax Is Third Of Income

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24. (AP)—The state retail sales tax accounted for more than one-third of the revenues collected by Maryland during the first three months of the fiscal year which began July 1.

Comptroller James J. Lacy announced today the state had taken in a total of $9,482,876 in general fund revenues, of which $3,498,238 came from the sales tax.

Lacy said the general fund revenue estimate for the fiscal year is $49,590,544. This fund is used for general operations of the state government.

Taxes listed as special fund revenues which are devoted to particular expenditures such as roads amounted to $9,328,524 during the first quarter. The total estimated for the year is $43,616,374.

Bodies, Wreckage Scattered Over Wide Area After Crash

DC-6 Trails Smoke, Flames For 10 Miles

BRYCE CANYON, Utah, Oct. 24. (AP) — A United Airlines Transportation DC-6 plane carrying 52 persons smashed against a sloping hillside here today, at 3 p. m. (EST) scattering the shattered bodies and wreckage over a wide area.

The four-engined craft, trailing smoke and flames for at least 10 miles before it crashed, virtually disintegrated. A strip of sagebrush over 100 yards long and 50 yards wide was burned.

The four engines, scorched and twisted, were thrown 200 to 300 feet beyond the burned area.

The largest piece of the plane was a section of the tail, only 15 or 20 feet long. It was near the forward portion of the burned area.

All the bodies were mangled and burned. Most were unrecognizable.

The transport was en route from Los Angeles to New York City with only one stop—at Chicago—scheduled.

Shortly before the crash the pilot reported by radio that fire had broken out in the plane's baggage compartment. He said he was turning back and would land at the emergency landing field here, adjacent to Bryce Canyon National Park in Southern Utah, about 275 miles south of Salt Lake City.

The craft barely cleared the precipitous wall of a branch of Bryce Canyon. Then it plowed into the sloping, sage-covered hillside, apparently exploded and burned.

Ten miles to the east, at Tropic, a service station operator said she saw the plane burning as it flew over that community.

J. A. Simpson, Puyallup, Wash., hunting deer in the area east of Tropic, said he saw a fire under the plane's left wing.

After the craft passed he said he saw some object fall from it, and a little farther along he saw something else drop. He said he had no idea what the objects might have been.

O. C. Richerson, assistant vice president in charge of operations for United Airlines at San Francisco, said he had no theory as to the cause of the fire. He said careful investigation would be made.

The plane carried 47 passengers—including two infants—and a crew of five. First reports said only 50 persons were aboard, but the total did not include the two infants. A dozen or more of the victims were women.

Jack Guenther, managing editor of Look Magazine, was aboard. The 33-year-old executive was returning to New York City after three weeks on the West Coast.

Another passenger was Clement D. Ryan, president of Whitney's Department Store in San Diego and former president of Montgomery Ward.

Civil Aeronautics Authority employes here were notified of the plane's trouble and prepared for the emergency landing, but the plane dropped out of sight behind a slight rise of land and the CAA men did not see the crash.

"We saw the flames and smoke," said one of them, H. A. Sutton, "and rushed to the scene. We couldn't do much with our hand fire extinguishers."

Two attendants at the service station at Tropic, Weldon Le Fevre and Robert Middleton, drove quickly to the crash scene.

"When we got there and saw what it was," LeFevre said, "it made us both kind of sick. It was a big plane, or it was until it hit the ground."

The fire was well under control then, he said, adding:

"The sight was terrible. There were pieces of airplane scattered all over the area, which was just on the rim of the canyon. Pieces of paper and other stuff was all over.

GOP Convention Will Be Televised In June

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Republican National Convention in Philadelphia next June will be televised for the first time under gigantic news and radio coverage plans disclosed today.

A committee making preliminary convention plans heard from spokesmen for newspapers, newsreels, magazines and radio and television stations that close to 2,000 seats will be needed for their operatives. This compares with 800 seats allotted in 1940.

Call For Special Congressional Session Causes Sharp Market Drop

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—A Presidential call for a special session of Congress caused sharp price declines in many commodity and securities markets throughout the country today.

Leading the downturn were the recently skyrocketing grains, but heavy losses also were recorded by cotton, soybeans, eggs, sugar, coffee, cottonseed oil and lard. Livestock prices showed little change.

Markets not directly connected with food also weakened. Stocks suffered one of the sharpest spills in the past month. Bonds slumped. Steel scrap, an important item in the cost of steel, dropped sharply. Rubber and hide futures dipped.

For the first time in the past nine days, the Associated Press composite index of 35 wholesale commodities turned downward. The index was 200.01 today against a record high of 200.67 yesterday. Prices in 1926 equal 100.00.

On the Chicago Board of Trade, nerve center of the nation's grain trade, futures prices fell the limit permitted in a single session.

Truman Calls For Prompt Action To Stop Inflation In U.S.

Broadcasts After Calling Congress

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—President Truman called tonight for "prompt and courageous action" to stop inflation at home and to protect France and Italy against "totalitarian pressures."

He stopped short, however, of saying at this time what measures other than voluntary he will ask of Congress in the special session he has called to meet November 17.

Mr. Truman broadcast to the nation one day after issuing the proclamation which will bring the lawmakers back to Washington a month and a half ahead of their regular session in January.

"When it meets," he said of Congress, "I shall recommend a program for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high cost of living. Adequate measures—enacted in time—are necessary to correct the present situation."

Cites U. S. Policy

Turning to foreign relief needs, he declared the United States policy has been and is "to assist free men and free nations to recover from the devastation of war, to stand on their own feet, to help one another, and to contribute their full share to a stable and lasting peace."

"Timely and forthright action," he said, is needed to relieve "hunger and cold abroad."

Mr. Truman gave this picture of emergency needs as he sees them:

France—$357,000,000 to carry her throug until next March 31.

Italy—$142,000,000 to last through December 31 and an additional $143,000,000 to run through March 31.

Occupied areas in Germany, Japan and Korea—"serious difficulties" require additional funds in an amount he did not specify.

The President summed up:

"The two problems I have been discussing with you tonight—high prices at home and hunger and cold abroad—present a challenge to the American people.

"We could choose the course of inaction. We could wait until depression caught up with us, until our living standards sank, and our people tramped the streets looking for jobs. Other Democratic nations would lose hope, and become easy victims of totalitarian aggression. That would be the course of defeatism and cowardice."

In saying that "inflation must be stopped before it is too late," Mr. Truman described high prices at home and emergency aid abroad as obstacles which must be overcome by prompt action, He added:

"Legislation by the Congress is essential. The need is too pressing—the results of delay too grave—for Congressional action to wait until next (regular) session in January.

Before Mr. Truman took to the radio, two high-ranking Republican lawmakers raised the cry that he was "playing politics" by linking rising living costs with foreign aid in his special session call.

Staff Of Brazilian Embassy In Russia Taken In Custody

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Soviet Russia announced through the Moscow radio tonight that she had placed the Brazilian Ambassador and his staff under a "protective" surveillance and said they would be held in Moscow until the safe departure of the Soviet Embassy Staff from Brazil had been assured.

Brazil severed relations with Russia on Tuesday because of Russia's failure to apologize for attacks in the Soviet press on Brazilian President Eurico Gaspar Dutra calling him a "lackey" of the United States.

Reduction In Use Of Wheat Is Noted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today that it has found an important reduction in the domestic use of wheat started even before the save-grain-for-Europe campaign began.

It said that domestic use of wheat for the first quarter of the crop year—July through September—was about 15,000,000 bushels less than a year ago. It apparently reflected a lower rate of feeding wheat to livestock than in the same period in 1946.

The department estimated July-August-September domestic use at 215,000,000 bushels of wheat. If domestic use can be held to an average of 225,000,000 bushels a quarter the remainder of the crop year, the export goal of 500,000,000 bushels of wheat could be reached.

The effort now will be to hold to that average of 225,000,000 bushels—and this runs into the fact that domestic use of wheat is heavier in the winter quarter than in the spring and summer quarters.

A month ago the Cabinet Food Committee reported that at the then current rates of consumption, the United States could export 400,000,000 bushels of wheat and 70,000,000 bushels of other grain.

Turkey Files Protest In UN Against Russia

Vishinsky Again Blasts At U. S.

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Turkey, a recipient of American aid under the Truman Program, accused the Russian Government Radio and the Moscow Press today of "psychological aggression" against the Turkish people and of "warmongering" attacks on the Turkish Government.

Selim Sarper, Turkish chief delegate, appealed to the United Nations Assembly to stop "this nefarious propaganda."

He spoke in the 57-Nation Political Committee of the assembly in answer to charges made by Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, that "warmongering" and "criminal war propaganda" are being carried on in the United States, Turkey and Greece.

Vishinsky took the floor late this afternoon for another long blast at the United States. The Russian Chief Delegate declared yesterday's speech by U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin "made it clear that the United States is in favor of warmongers."

Reminded Of "Prussianism"

"It is worse than negligence," Vishinsky said, referring to Austin's speech. "It is an appeal for war."

Vishinsky then said the United States reminded him of "Prussianism" and "Hitlerism."

The committee is considering a Russian anti-"warmonger" resolution.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, meanwhile, demanded that the 57-Nation Social Committee of the assembly vote down a Yugoslav resolution hitting at dissemination of "slanderous reports." She said it is "remarkably similar" to Vishinsky's proposal and that it will be discussed at the proposed World Conference on Freedom of Information next year.

Mrs. Roosevelt, in her third speech in the Social Committee on Freedom of Information, said the U. S. Government is gravely concerned at "the growing practice of erecting tight, governmental monopolies over the information disseminated in many nations of the world."

The Yugoslav resolution would prevent "dissemination with regard to foreign states of slanderous reports which are harmful to good relations between states and contrary to the purposes and principles of the United Nations."

The Soviet Ukrainian Delegate, Foreign Minister Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, carried on the Soviet campaign with an accusation that the United States is conducting "an economic and political war for capitalistic domination." Manuilsky also attacked Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, who was listed by Vishinsky yesterday as a "warmonger."

Lists 15 Instances

Sarper listed 15 separate instances in which he said the official radio and the Russian Press struck at Turkey. He charged that the Russians attempted early in 1947 to "incite" the Turkish people against the United States by printing "misleading" reports that the Americans were trying to take over military bases in Turkey.

He charged that the Soviet Press and Soviet Radios "have continued up to this day to publish and broadcast all sorts of libelous and slanderous reports, articles, talks, and all kinds of threats and provocations constantly and with an incredible force which had no paral-

Stassen Advances 5-Point Program

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24 (AP) — Harold E. Stassen, a candidate for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination, tonight advanced a five-point program on which he urged the nation to unite "regardless of party or other differences."

In an address before a meeting sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Stassen said if the goal of unity were obtained "there are grounds for sober optimism that we can win a future of expanding freedom and steady progress for ourselves and others without the tragedy of a third World War."

His proposals were:

"1—Maintain a strong domestic economy with high production and fair distribution on the basis of individual freedom made possible through modern capitalism.

"2—Take essential steps to prevent economic crisis and crashes in America.

"3—Clear up Communist infiltration in our country with full respect for Constitutional rights and civil liberties.

"4—Grant generous aid to the stricken peoples of other parts of the world, and do it in a sound and practical and business-like manner.

Diplomats Uncertain Of Possible Meaning

LONDON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Soviet Russia announced today a switch in its ambassadors to the United States, a move which left diplomats both here and in Washington uncertain as to its possible significance.

The Moscow Radio said Ambassador Nikolai Novikov, who took over Russia's top diplomatic post only last year, succeeding Andrei Gromyko, had been relieved of his duties and would be replaced by Alexander S. Panyushkin, former Ambassador to China.

Returned To Russia

Novikov, who became Ambassador when Gromyko was named permanent Russian Delegate to the United Nations, returned to Russia last July and is now in the Soviet Union. He was known as an advocate of Soviet-American friendship and co-operation because of some speeches he has made along that line.

On June 19, he told the Chicago Council of American-Soviet friendship that the United States and Russia can live together peacefully despite differing economic systems.

This expression was similar to that reported voiced recently by Prime Minister Joseph Stalin to a visiting delegation of British Left-Wing Parliament members.

Washington diplomats who had acquaintance with Panyushkin said he also was an agreeable individual.

Washington officials, pointing out that it was too early to say whether the change had any political significance, said they had had no indication as yet of any change in Soviet policy.

May Mean Policy Change

A shift in Soviet diplomatic representatives very often is the herald, however, of a tougher or softer Soviet policy.

State Department officials said they had been advised by the Soviet government that Novikov was ill and that his replacement was necessary. Panyushkin was proposed by the Soviet government for the post and was reclared acceptable by the American government.

The Washington officials said so far as they knew Novikov was in good health when he left Washington on July 26 for Moscow to consult with his government shortly after Secretary of State George C. Marshall had offered the "Marshall Plan."

Baltimore Honors World War Dead

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24 (AP) — An hour-long procession with the 51st Army band playing Chopin's funeral march marked the return today of the first of Baltimore's war dead from overseas cemeteries.

The flag-covered bier of Baltimore's first son to return was borne through the downtown section to symbolize all who gave their lives in World War II.

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro paid homage to the unknown soldier as several thousand gathered for the ceremonies at City Hall.

This man and his comrades were among "the glorious band of those who died that liberty might live," he said.

Denham Declares Labor Act Checked

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, told a union gathering today that there are checks and balances in the Taft-Hartley Act "designed to keep it from being a union-busting instrument or a slave labor law."

Denham and the NLRB are responsible for administering the act, which some union leaders have labelled a "slave statute" for labor.

In a speech at a meeting of the Confederated Unions of America, a group of organizations not affiliated with either the CIO or AFL, Denham said:

"It is no secret that many of the leaders of organized labor in the United States have violently criticized the xxx act. They have called it vicious and they have sworn to leave no stone unturned to effect its repeal. I can account for these people only with the well known saying that 'there is none so blind as he who will not see.'"

Denham said the Wagner Act of 1935 was designed to work in one direction only, but that the Taft-Hartley Act which amends it is intended "to operate in two directions."

Without mentioning the International Typographical Union's plan to force a closed shop in newspapers and print shops without a formal written contract, Denham indicated clearly that he thought such procedure would violate the act.

Already he has instituted a complaint against the Baltimore Local of the ITU on charges of the Graphic Arts League that the ITU failed to bargain collectively toward a new contract.

Disney Testifies Sorrell Boasted Of 'Using' NLRB

Women Voters Group Mentioned With Reds

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Walt Disney told Congressional Investigators today that Hollywood Labor Leader Herbert K. Sorrell, whom he "believes" to be a Communist, had boasted of using the National Labor Relations Board "as it suited him."

The daddy of "Donald Duck" and "Mickey Mouse" movies testified at hearings on Communism in Hollywood by the House Committee on un-American Activities.

Makes Audience Gasp

Disney sent a gasp through the audience when he included the League of Women Voters among Communist Front organizations.

Also during today's hearing:

1. Oliver Carlson, who said he once was a Communist and now teaches in the University of California Extension Division, testified that Actress Karen Morley and two lawyers who are keeping an eye on the Congressional inquiry taught in what he described as a Red school in Hollywood. He also said the Communists had attempted to take control of the Los Angeles Public Schools and in a recent school board election there polled 24,543 votes for an unsuccessful Communist candidate.

2. Mrs. Lela Rogers, mother of Actor Ginger Rogers, said Communist activities are increasing in Hollywood, that Reds have been able to "deceive" some executives, but "I think the Communist gets his best work in the field of writing."

The lawyers Carlson mentioned are Benjamin and Charles J. Katz, two of a group representing 19 witnesses billed for next week. Katz was tossed out of the hearing Tuesday when he tried to cross-examine a witness.

Carlson Makes Study

Carlson said he had studied and written extensively on Communism and Communist methods.

He said Sorrell is on the board of directors of the Communist school

Special Session May Help France

PARIS, Oct. 24—(AP)—A spokesman for Premier Paul Ramadier said tonight that President Truman's call to Congress for a special session November 17 may strengthen the hand of the French Government in its appeal for a vote of confidence from the National Assembly next week.

The Socialist Premier's policy of "playing the American card" has been under violent attack from the Communists ever since the Russians refused to participate in the Paris Marshall Plan Conference. Some Rightists, too, have expressed scepticism whether Ramadier could "produce the goods" in the shape of American aid.

The French Premier, however, has based his economic policy more and more on receiving American financial help, and French opinion today interpreted the calling of a special session of Congress as a step toward that aid.

Franc-Tireur, an extreme left newspaper, said the summoning of Congress meant President Truman "has made his choice between Ramadier and De Gaulle."

Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the paper said, "was staking on the impossibility for Congress to make a decision before next spring, which would have let him pluck, after a severe winter of hardships, the ripe fruit of American credits." A French general election is due next spring.

Taft Assured Ohio Support As Presidential Candidate

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 24——(AP)—U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft today opened a cellophane-wrapped surprise package—an announcement that he was a candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Most of his friends and a part of the public had suspected this for months.

The 58-year-old Cincinnati lawyer, son of the late President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft, was quickly assured the support of Ohio Republican leaders, and said he would leave to them most of the work of getting the nomination.

Business in the Senate, where he has represented Ohio for nine years, will demand most of his attention, Taft explained.

The Ohio Republican organization asked him to run last July 31, but he deferred announcement of a decision until he had made "a check of public sentiment."

After Taft's candidacy was formally announced in Washington and Columbus, he held a news conference here but firmly declined to talk about other Republican aspirants to the Presidency.

In fact, he named no names and finally by acknowledging questions about Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, New York, and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, Minnesota, said that they too might want to be the party standard bearers in 1948. Dewey was the 1944 candidate and Stassen announced his candidacy last December.

Asked whether Stassen would be acceptable as the vice presidential candidate, Taft replied emphatically:

"I won't comment about candidates at any time during the campaign. That goes for Presidential or Vice Presidential.

Both Taft and Fred H. Johnson, State Republican Chairman, said there had been no discussion of a running "mate for him in the Ohio primary election next May."

Taft defined possible issues of the 1948 election campaign as:

1—"The general issue between people who want federal power and action and the people who want less."

2—Foreign questions, such as the Marshall plan for European relief.

3—High prices.

Baruch Says Russian War Unlikely But Warns 'Country Must Be Ready'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch said today he does not expect war between Russia and the United States, but he declared that this country must be ready for anything "forced upon us."

"Although the shooting war is over we are in the midst of a cold war which is getting warmer," Baruch said as he told the Senate War Investigating Committee that it is time to quit talking about the mistakes of the past two wars and face present problems.

The Senate Group has been asking a number of questions of World War II officials why a detailed industrial mobilization plan — which Baruch, financier and adviser to several Presidents, drew up in World War I and helped revise later—was not put into operation.

Baruch testified that failure to adopt and quickly apply mobilization controls in World War II "cost us unnecessarily, thousands of lives, extra billions of dollars and months of time."

He also blamed the present upward surge in prices upon mistakes made in not applying full wartime control and removal of others too early.

Forest Fires Claim Lives Of 17 Persons

Loss In New England Set At $26,000,000

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 25 (SATURDAY) (AP)—Maine officials sought an arsonist early today as they investigated the origin of forest fires that have wiped out whole communities and caused property damage of $25,000,000.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Oct. 24 (AP)—Like refugees of war, thousands of persons today fled this flame-wasted island colony of millionaire summer mansions to escape another night of the terror of raiding forest fires which took 17 lives in the nation and burned a loss upwards of $26,000,000 across New England.

Maine — with six communities wiped out in addition to this devastated section of Mount Desert Island, vacation playground of the rich — was still under attack by four fire fronts which were out of control.

As the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Red Cross rushed aid by plane, all available local agencies and persons were rallying to help 3,500 evacuees who streamed out of Bar Harbor and other island areas in swiftly-gathered boats like a small-scale Dunkerque.

Outbreaks of woodland blazes flared elsewhere in the nation, in New York, New Jersey and Michigan and ranged up north of Maine into the Canadian province of New Brunswick. Closing of woods was ordered in parts of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Worn firefighters in the New England bad spots fought through their fifth day counting chiefly on a drop in 20-mile an hour winds as their best aid. Rain still remained only a hope in the six state area, drought-gripped for 24 days. The weather bureau said only a "sprinkle" was due Saturday night.

The hottest areas of Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire took on combat zone appearance. National Guardsmen and Legionnaires joined in aiding families fleeing the blackened and smoke-hung streets of the sudden ghost towns.

Survivors told of huge flamebursts that flashed down upon them without warning. Others said they saw a lightning shift in the wind spare one house as flames roared through houses around it.

An evacuation center at Ellsworth estimated 2,500 refugees thronging there from Mt. Desert Island. Winds held during the day and drove fresh threats and evacuation alarms to Jonesboro, Me.

Maine's death toll stood at 10 and its loss was officially estimated at $25,000,000. Three fire-caused deaths were listed in Massachusetts, three in Michigan and one in Connecticut.

Richest target of the flames in the state was the plush Bar Harbor expanse where damage alone was set at $8,000,000 in property, exclusive of costly furnishings and art treasures.

Sales Tax Is Third Of Income

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24. (AP)—The state retail sales tax accounted for more than one-third of the revenues collected by Maryland during the first three months of the fiscal year which began July 1.

Comptroller James J. Lacy announced today the state had taken in a total of $9,482,876 in general fund revenues, of which $3,498,238 came from the sales tax.

Lacy said the general fund revenue estimate for the fiscal year is $49,590,544. This fund is used for general operations of the state government.

Taxes listed as special fund revenues which are devoted to particular expenditures such as roads amounted to $9,328,524 during the first quarter. The total estimated for the year is $43,616,374.

DC-6 Trails Smoke, Flames For 10 Miles

BRYCE CANYON, Utah, Oct. 24. (AP) — A United Airlines Transportation DC-6 plane carrying 52 persons smashed against a sloping hillside here today, at 3 p. m. (EST) scattering the shattered bodies and wreckage over a wide area.

The four-engined craft, trailing smoke and flames for at least 10 miles before it crashed, virtually disintegrated. A strip of sagebrush over 100 yards long and 50 yards wide was burned.

The four engines, scorched and twisted, were thrown 200 to 300 feet beyond the burned area.

The largest piece of the plane was a section of the tail, only 15 or 20 feet long. It was near the forward portion of the burned area.

All the bodies were mangled and burned. Most were unrecognizable.

The transport was en route from Los Angeles to New York City with only one stop—at Chicago—scheduled.

Shortly before the crash the pilot reported by radio that fire had broken out in the plane's baggage compartment. He said he was turning back and would land at the emergency landing field here, adjacent to Bryce Canyon National Park in Southern Utah, about 275 miles south of Salt Lake City.

The craft barely cleared the precipitous wall of a branch of Bryce Canyon. Then it plowed into the sloping, sage-covered hillside, apparently exploded and burned.

Ten-miles to the east, at Tropic, a service station operator said she saw the plane burning as it flew over that community.

J. A. Simpson, Puyallup, Wash., hunting deer in the area east of Tropic, said he saw a fire under the plane's left wing.

After the craft passed he said he saw some object fall from it, and a little farther along he saw something else drop. He said he had no idea what the objects might have been.

O. C. Richerson, assistant vice president in charge of operations for United Airlines at San Francisco, said he had no theory as to the cause of the fire. He said careful investigation would be made.

The plane carried 47 passengers—including two infants—and a crew of five. First reports said only 50 persons were aboard, but the total did not include the two infants. A dozen or more of the victims were women.

Jack Guenther, managing editor of Look Magazine, was aboard. The 33-year-old executive was returning to New York City after three weeks on the West Coast.

Another passenger was Clement D. Ryan, president of Whitney's Department Store in San Diego and former president of Montgomery Ward.

Civil Aeronautics Authority employes here were notified of the plane's trouble and prepared for the emergency landing, but the plane dropped out of sight behind a slight rise of land and the CAA men did not see the crash.

"We saw the flames and smoke," said one of them, H. A. Sutton, "and rushed to the scene. We couldn't do much with our hand fire extinguishers."

Two attendants at the service station at Tropic, Weldon Le Fevre and Robert Middleton, drove quickly to the crash scene.

"When we got there and saw what I was," LeFevre said, "it made us both kind of sick. It was a big plane, or it was until it hit the ground."

The fire was well under control then, he said, adding:

"The sight was terrible. There were pieces of airplane scattered all over the area, which was just on the rim of the canyon. Pieces of paper and other stuff was all over.

GOP Convention Will Be Televised In June

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 (AP) — The Republican National Convention in Philadelphia next June will be televised for the first time under gigantic news and radio coverage plans disclosed today.

Call For Special Congressional Session Causes Sharp Market Drop

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—A Presidential call for a special session of Congress caused sharp price declines in many commodity and securities markets throughout the country today.

Leading the downturn were the recently skyrocketing grains, but heavy losses also were recorded by cotton, soybeans, eggs, sugar, coffee, cottonseed oil and lard. Livestock prices showed little change.

Markets not directly connected with food also weakened. Stocks suffered one of the sharpest spills in the past month. Bonds slumped. Steel scrap, an important item in the cost of steel, dropped sharply. Rubber and hide futures dipped.

For the first time in the past nine days, the Associated Press composite index of 35 wholesale commodities turned downward. The index was 200.01 today against a record high of 200.67 yesterday. Prices in 1926 equal 100.00.

On the Chicago Board of Trade, nerve center of the nation's grain trade, futures prices fell the limit permitted in a single session.

NLRB Hearing In ITU Case Slated To End Today

Hour's Testimony Precedes Arguments

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24. (AP)—The nine-day-old National Labor Relations Board hearing on charges that the International Typographical Union and its Baltimore Local failed to bargain collectively with the Graphic Arts League is scheduled to end tomorrow.

But one more hour of testimony and oral arguments of counsel remain before Trial Examiner William R. Ringer will b gin his study of more than 55 exhibits and thousands of pages of testimony produced in the unprecedented case.

His ruling—not expected to be handed down for several weeks—may be one of these:

It could find the league—an association of 22 Baltimore print shops—and the NLRB have substantiated their charge that the ITU refused to bargain collectively in good faith.

In that case, he would recommend a "cease and desist" order to the full NLRB.

Or, Ringer may find, on a number of grounds, that the union was correct in its contention that it did bargain, and dismiss the charges — the first of their kind filed under the Taft-Hartley Act. There are also a number of others, technical grounds on which the complaint against the unions could be dismissed.

Both sides had hoped for conclusion tonight after Sidney Barban, board counsel, rested the agency's case, but it developed that cross-examination of the last witness, Local President Charles V. Brannock, would consume more time than expected.

League Counsel Earle K. Shawe declared towards the close of the session that "I will not be rushed in examining this important witness."

Ethridge Finds All Social Force Gone

DETROIT, Oct. 24 (AP) — Democratic nations have gained ground the past year in checking the spread of Communism in Europe, Mark F. Ethridge presented to the 14th AP Managing Editors Convention in "a newspaperman's report on a United Nations mission," detailing a step-by-step pattern which he said the Communists used to seize control of Russia's borderland neighbors.

The Louisville Publisher, who served on the UN commission that investigated Balkan conditions, said democracies have made considerable progress in recent months in Greece, Italy and France.

"A year ago I would have said we had about a 40 per cent chance of keeping Greece from going communistic; today it's up to 60 per cent," he said.

Ethridge, who said he believed his newspaper was the first in the United States to advocate recognition of the Russian government, declared "all social force has gone out of communism and it now must perpetuate itself by brutality and by making people beasts."

Kent Cooper, Associated Press executive director and general manager, emphasized need of factual reporting in areas behind and near Russia's so-called "iron curtain."

"I want to give you absolute assurance that the Associated Press in no country at any time has ever sought favors in return for promises that it would not adversely report that country's affairs," Cooper said.

AP Correspondent Daniel de Luce, who recently returned from a tour of the Balkans, told the editors he believed Russia's "iron countain" is a "misnomer."

"Actually," he said, "it might better be described in terms of meteorology." There are high pressure areas, medium pressure areas and low pressure areas. It isn't walled in with anything resembling ferrous metals."

The state produced the 89-year-old map as evidence the survey gave the state a 40-foot privilege.

Thomas O. Flynn Resigns As Editor

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 24. (AP) —The resignation of Thomas O'Brien Flynn as editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer and the appointment of Herman Everett Gieske, editor of the Parkersburg News, as the successor to Flynn were announced tonight.

Flynn announced that he would become associated with William G. Lias, owner and operator of Wheeling Downs race track. He will become an executive director of Wheeling Downs, Inc., and Wheeling Downs Racing Association.

The Parkersburg News announced Gieske's appointment to the editorship of the Intelligencer, effective November 1. Both are morning publications of the Ogden chains of newspapers.

Gieske became editor of the News in July, 1944, leaving a news editor's post on the Charleston Gazette. He formerly worked as a reporter for the New York American, the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and the New Orleans Item, and managing editor of the Huntington Herald Dispatch.

He will be succeeded on the News by Francis P. (Bus) Fisher, who recently was released as a lieutenant colonel of the Army. Fisher is a former sports editor of the News and had returned to the post of city editor.

Flynn is now a member of the West Virginia State Racing Commission, serving a term expiring in 1949.

Flynn began his newspaper career with the old Wheeling Telegraph in 1912. He became city editor of the Wheeling Register in 1917 and subsequently was associated with a local labor paper, the Wheeling News, the New Castle, Pa., Herald, and the Pittsburgh Press, coming to the Intelligencer 21 years ago.

As to the situation abroad, Mr. Truman said:

"This is the problem of hunger and cold and human suffering abroad. It is the problem of men and women and children who look to us for help at this crucial time."

He said the "period of crisis is now at hand" and the "perils of hunger and cold in Europe make this winter a decisive time in history."

"All the progress of reconstruction and all the promise of future plans are endangered," he continued.

"If European nations are to continue their recovery, they must get through this winter without being crippled by economic paralysis and resulting chaos.

"In advance of our decision on the long-range European recovery plan, we must help some nations through this immediate crisis. The most imminent danger exists in France and Italy.

"If the economies of these countries collapse and the people succumb to totalitarian pressures, there will be no opportunity for them or for us to look forward to their recovery so essential to world peace."

Bodies, Wreckage

Bob and I saw five or six bodies — all naked— which, I guess, had been thrown out of the plane."

It was the first crash of a DC-6, a new type of plane.

Only three commercial aviation crashes have taken a larger death toll. Fifty-three persons were killed last May at Fort Deposit, Md., and the same number died in two crashes at Bogota, Colombia, on July 24, 1938, and Feb. 15, 1947.

National Park Service officials at Grand Canyon, Ariz., said they were informed by forest service radio that 14 bodies had been recovered from the charred wreckage.

The plane left Los Angeles at 9:23 a. m., Pacific Standard Time. (12:23 p. m., EST). It had only one scheduled stop, at Chicago, on its transcontinental flight. The takeoff from Los Angeles was nearly an hour behind schedule, but UAL officials declined to comment on the reason for the delay.

NLRB Hearing In ITU Case Slated To End Today

Hour's Testimony Precedes Arguments

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24. (AP)—The nine-day-old National Labor Relations Board hearing on charges that the International Typographical Union and its Baltimore Local failed to bargain collectively with the Graphic Arts League is scheduled to end tomorrow.

But one more hour of testimony and oral arguments of counsel remain before Trial Examiner William R. Ringer will begin his study of more than 55 exhibits and thousands of pages of testimony produced in the unprecedented case.

His ruling—not expected to be handed down for several weeks—may be one of these:

It could find the league—an association of 22 Baltimore print shops—and the NLRB have substantiated their charge that the ITU refused to bargain collectively in good faith.

In that case, he would recommend a "cease and desist" order to the full NLRB.

Or, Ringer may find, on a number of grounds, that the union was correct in its contention that it did bargain, and dismiss the charges — the first of their kind filed under the Taft-Hartley Act. There are also a number of others, technical grounds on which the complaint against the unions could be dismissed.

Both sides had hoped for conclusion tonight after Sidney Barban, board counsel, rested the agency's case, but it developed that cross-examination of the last witness, Local President Charles V. Brannock, would consume more time than expected.

League Counsel Earle K. Shawe declared towards the close of the session that "I will not be rushed in examining this important witness."

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24 (AP) — St. John's College, founded in 1696 as King William's School, will have its 17th president tomorrow when John S. Kieffer, 43-year-old native of Hagerstown, is inaugurated at ceremonies on the college green.

37 Escape Injury

Democracies Gain Ground Against Communists, News Editors Told

Ethridge Finds All Social Force Gone

DETROIT, Oct. 24 (AP) — Democratic nations have gained ground the past year in checking the spread of Communism in Europe, Mark F. Ethridge presented to the 14th AP Managing Editors Convention in "a newspaperman's report on a United Nations mission," detailing a step-by-step pattern which he said the Communists used to seize control of Russia's borderland neighbors.

The Louisville Publisher, who served on the UN commission that investigated Balkan conditions, said democracies have made considerable progress in recent months in Greece, Italy and France.

"A year ago I would have said we had about a 40 per cent chance of keeping Greece from going communistic; today it's up to 60 per cent," he said.

Ethridge, who said he believed his newspaper was the first in the United States to advocate recognition of the Russian government, declared "all social force has gone out of communism and it now must perpetuate itself by brutality and by making people beasts."

Kent Cooper, Associated Press executive director and general manager, emphasized need of factual reporting in areas behind and near Russia's so-called "iron curtain."

"I want to give you absolute assurance that the Associated Press in no country at any time has ever sought favors in return for promises that it would not adversely report that country's affairs," Cooper said.

AP Correspondent Daniel de Luce, who recently returned from a tour of the Balkans, told the editors he believed Russia's "iron countain" is a "misnomer."

"Actually," he said, "it might better be described in terms of meteorology." There are high pressure areas, medium pressure areas and low pressure areas. It isn't walled in with anything resembling ferrous metals."

Son Talks His Father Into Toils Of Law

MANITOWOC, Wis. — Joseph Kanugh wishes his son Gerald would learn that silence is golden.

Gerald was stalking pheasants in a cornfield when a game warden asked him if he had shot any. Gerald replied he had had poor luck, but that his father had bagged five the previous day.

The official found the dressed birds in the Kanugh icebox.

The elder Kanugh was fined $100 for shooting the birds out of season and $10 for hunting without a license.

Use Old Map

BUTLER (AP) — A highway survey map of 1858 was used in a Butler county court today in an attempt to settle a land dispute. S. The state produced the 89-year-old map as evidence the survey gave the state a 40-foot privilege.

Thomas O. Flynn Resigns As Editor

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 24. (AP) —The resignation of Thomas O'Brien Flynn as editor of the Wheeling Intelligencer and the appointment of Herman Everett Gieske, editor of the Parkersburg News, as the successor to Flynn were announced tonight.

Flynn announced that he would become associated with William G. Lias, owner and operator of Wheeling Downs race track. He will become an executive director of Wheeling Downs, Inc., and Wheeling Downs Racing Association.

The Parkersburg News announced Gieske's appointment to the editorship of the Intelligencer, effective November 1. Both are morning publications of the Ogden chains of newspapers.

Gieske became editor of the News in July, 1944, leaving a news editor's post on the Charleston Gazette. He formerly worked as a reporter for the New York American, the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin and the New Orleans Item, and managing editor of the Huntington Herald Dispatch.

He will be succeeded on the News by Francis P. (Bus) Fisher, who recently was released as a lieutenant colonel of the Army. Fisher is a former sports editor of the News and had returned to the post of city editor.

Flynn is now a member of the West Virginia State Racing Commission, serving a term expiring in 1949.

Flynn began his newspaper career with the old Wheeling Telegraph in 1912. He became city editor of the Wheeling Register in 1917 and subsequently was associated with a local labor paper, the Wheeling News, the New Castle, Pa., Herald, and the Pittsburgh Press, coming to the Intelligencer 21 years ago.

saw "a little political racket" being worked.

As to the situation abroad, Mr. Truman said:

"This is the problem of hunger and cold and human suffering abroad. It is the problem of men and women and children who look to us for help at this crucial time."

He said the "period of crisis is now at hand" and the "perils of hunger and cold in Europe make this winter a decisive time in history."

"All the progress of reconstruction and all the promise of future plans are endangered," he continued.

"If European nations are to continue their recovery, they must get through this winter without being crippled by economic paralysis and resulting chaos.

"In advance of our decision on the long-range European recovery plan, we must help some nations through this immediate crisis. The most imminent danger exists in France and Italy.

"If the economies of these countries collapse and the people succumb to totalitarian pressures, there will be no opportunity for them or for us to look forward to their recovery so essential to world peace."

The President said that the "first need is food," and that the "other major shortage is fuel."

Without staying what legislation he plans to recommend to Congress later, the President remarked that even with the proposed aid from this country, the people of Europe this winter "will be on short rations."

"They will be cold, and they will be without many necessities," he said.

Court Completes Criminal Trials Of Current Term

Prisoners Will Be Sentenced Monday

The Otober petit jury was excused yesterday with instructions to report for duty Monday at 9:15 a. m., according to Chief Judge William A. Huster, who stated criminal trials have been completed and criminal appeal cases will come befgore the Court next week.

On Monday, the jurist also indicated, four persons are to come before the Court for sentencing. These include Mervin C. "Buck" Wills, 20, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of his year and a half-old son, Junior Clinton Wills.

William and Mary Ware, found guilty of selling intoxicants to minors at their place of business at Red Hill, Route 40, and Norman Dee Beglin, this city, who entered a puea of guilty to possession of 15 slot machines found by sheriff's deputies after a raid two months ago at a house on Williams Read where the machines were stored.

The Court completed most of its work yesterday by about noon, with all cases of a minor nature.

George Nolan, Midland, was paroled for three years on his plea of guilty to larceny of metal junk from the property of the Jenkins and McNitt Coal Company. The junk, valued at about $50, was recovered. Nolan contended he purchased the metal from a youth he could not identify.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for Nolan, told the court Nolan used bad judgment in buying the junk for $5 from a boy without checking on the ownership.

Nolan is a veteran of nine years Army service and had no prior record, either in the Army or as a civilian, Ryan pointed out. Chief Judge William A. Huster told Nolan to be of good behavior and to refrain from intoxicants.

Charles Seibert, this city, was found not guilty by the court on a paternity charge. A veteran of the 29th Division's invasion of Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, Purple Heart and other decorations. The case was tried in chambers, with William H. Geppert, attorney for the defendant. It was the first paternity case the State has lost since Morgan C. Harris has been state's attorney.

False Pretense Case

When the trial of Garland Barnard, Springfield, W. Va., opened it started out like an ordinary case involving false pretense, but in a short time the judges, attorneys, Barnard and witnesses were in a state of confusion.

The false pretense charge against Barnard grew out of financing with the Cessna Finance Company in which the accused allegedly used false pretense in obtaining a loan on a truck he did not own.

As explained by State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris the accused went to the finance company last fall and asked for a loan on a truck. He exhibited the title to a 1941 Ford truck and took a representative of the parking lot to inspect the vehicle. After this the loan, amounting to approximately $400, was made.

Barnard became unemployed after several months and failed to make payments. The finance company started to repossess the truck, but discovered the truck in question was not owned by Barnard.

It was admitted by the finance company that the engine number on the truck at the parking lot and on the title given by Barnard were not checked as they made the loan in good faith on the man's representation. The title which Barnard gave the company was for a similar model Ford truck he owned, but which had been destroyed by fire.

Barnard told the court he had used the $400 on a down payment for another truck and that the Cessna company repossessed this truck for non-payment of installments.

Confused Situation

Associate Judge George Henderson at this point inquired of Barnard how they repossessed the truck and other data concerning the deal. The accused attempted to explain the situation and for several minutes the story was snarled, with the burned truck, new truck and the one involved in the original loan being "traced" by the court in order to get a clear picture of just what did occur.

Court attaches, judges, and others in the court room laughed at the evident confusion of the situation.

Finally, the true picture emerged and the court gave Barnard a year in the Maryland House of Correction but suspended the term on condition he make restitution of $353.12 still due the finance company at the rate of $10 monthly.

Judge Henderson advised Barnard to avoid "high financing" in the future.

Ryan told the court that his client was "an honest but dumb man" and had every intention of paying off the original loan.

"If he had not become unemployed and failed to make several payments the finance company would never have discovered that the loan they made was not on the truck inspected at the parking lot," Ryan declared.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Her Mother Interferes In Her Romance With Serviceman

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am going with a very nice boy who is now in the Amy, but my mother always wants to make trouble between me and every boy I go with. She doesn't want me to do anything she can't do.

She wrote a letter to my boy friend telling him all our personal troubles here in the home. What Should I do? I love him very much and he wants me to be his wife some day when he is out of the service for good. I think my mother is being very rude, but I can't do anything about it. Please tell me what I should do.

"D. P."

Dear "D. P."

It is too bad that your mother behaves in such a difficult way, but if you and your boy friend are on good terms and understand each other, it should not affect your relationship. Why not just take it in your stride, tell your boy friend that your mother has her little peculiarities and to think nothing of them? If he is as serious about you as to have said he wants to marry you some day, he will stick by you, no matter what your mother does.

Don't Be a Clinging Vine

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 and very much in love with a fellow 16. Maybe it is just "puppy love," but it doesn't seem like it. This fellow beans a lot to me and at one time he was crazy about me. He asked me out a couple of times and I accepted.

Lately he hasn't paid as much attention to me as he used to. I asked one of his friends to find out if he still liked me and he told me he does still like me but not as much as he used to. My girl friend said I shouldn't do this but should try to avoid him. I have tried, but it doesn't work, and anyway I can't stay away. Do you thing there is any way I can get him to like me as he used to?

"HOPEFUL."

Dear "Hopeful":

Don't make a clinging vine of yourself. No boy likes a girl who does that. Have the gumption to stand on your own feet and act as if you were a girl who didn't need to depend on one boy for her happiness. You're never going to get any chap back by letting him think he is your whole world. Instead, let him see that you can have a lot of fun without him and he may decide he is missing something when he is not with you.

Prisoners Will Be Sentenced Monday

The Otober petit jury was excused yesterday with instructions to report for duty Monday at 9:15 a. m., according to Chief Judge William A. Huster, who stated criminal trials have been completed and criminal appeal cases will come befgore the Court next week.

On Monday, the jurist also indicated, four persons are to come before the Court for sentencing. These include Mervin C. "Buck" Wills, 20, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of his year and a half-old son, Junior Clinton Wills.

William and Mary Ware, found guilty of selling intoxicants to minors at their place of business at Red Hill, Route 40, and Norman Dee Beglin, this city, who entered a puea of guilty to possession of 15 slot machines found by sheriff's deputies after a raid two months ago at a house on Williams Road where the machines were stored.

The Court completed most of its work yesterday by about noon, with all cases of a minor nature.

George Nolan, Midland, was paroled for three years on his plea of guilty to larceny of metal junk from the property of the Jenkins and McNitt Coal Company. The junk, valued at about $50, was recovered. Nolan contended he purchased the metal from a youth he could not identify.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for Nolan, told the court Nolan used bad judgment in buying the junk for $5 from a boy without checking on the ownership.

Nolan is a veteran of nine years Army service and had no prior record, either in the Army or as a civilian, Ryan pointed out. Chief Judge William A. Huster told Nolan to be of good behavior and to refrain from intoxicants.

Charles Seibert, this city, was found not guilty by the court on a paternity charge. A veteran of the 29th Division's invasion of Distinguished Service Cross, Silver Star, Purple Heart and other decorations. The case was tried in chambers, with William H. Geppert, attorney for the defendant. It was the first paternity case the State has lost since Morgan C. Harris has been state's attorney.

False Pretense Case

When the trial of Garland Barnard, Springfield, W. Va., opened it started out like an ordinary case involving false pretense, but in a short time the judges, attorneys, Barnard and witnesses were in a state of confusion.

The false pretense charge against Barnard grew out of financing with the Cessna Finance Company in which the accused allegedly used false pretense in obtaining a loan on a truck he did not own.

As explained by State's Attorney Morgan C. Harris the accused went to the finance company last fall and asked for a loan on a truck. He exhibited the title to a 1941 Ford truck and took a representative of the parking lot to inspect the vehicle. After this the loan, amounting to approximately $400, was made.

Barnard became unemployed after several months and failed to make payments. The finance company started to repossess the truck, but discovered the truck in question was not owned by Barnard.

It was admitted by the finance company that the engine number on the truck at the parking lot and on the title given by Barnard were not checked as they made the loan in good faith on the man's representation. The title which Barnard gave the company was for a similar model Ford truck he owned, but which had been destroyed by fire.

Barnard told the court he had used the $400 on a down payment for another truck and that the Cessna company repossessed this truck for non-payment of installments.

Confused Situation

Associate Judge George Henderson at this point inquired of Barnard how they repossessed the truck and other data concerning the deal. The accused attempted to explain the situation and for several minutes the story was snarled, with the burned truck, new truck and the one involved in the original loan being "traced" by the court in order to get a clear picture of just what did occur.

Court attaches, judges, and others in the court room laughed at the evident confusion of the situation.

Finally, the true picture emerged and the court gave Barnard a year in the Maryland House of Correction but suspended the term on condition he make restitution of $353.12 still due the finance company at the rate of $10 monthly.

Judge Henderson advised Barnard to avoid "high financing" in the future.

Ryan told the court that his client was "an honest but dumb man" and had every intention of paying off the original loan.

"If he had not become unemployed and failed to make several payments the finance company would never have discovered that the loan they made was not on the truck inspected at the parking lot," Ryan declared.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Her Mother Interferes In Her Romance With Serviceman

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am going with a very nice boy who is now in the Amy, but my mother always wants to make trouble between me and every boy I go with. She doesn't want me to do anything she can't do.

She wrote a letter to my boy friend telling him all our personal troubles here in the home. What Should I do? I love him very much and he wants me to be his wife some day when he is out of the service for good. I think my mother is being very rude, but I can't do anything about it. Please tell me what I should do.

"D. P."

Dear "D. P."

It is too bad that your mother behaves in such a difficult way, but if you and your boy friend are on good terms and understand each other, it should not affect your relationship. Why not just take it in your stride, tell your boy friend that your mother has her little peculiarities and to think nothing of them? If he is as serious about you as to have said he wants to marry you some day, he will stick by you, no matter what your mother does.

Don't Be a Clinging Vine

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 and very much in love with a fellow 16. Maybe it is just "puppy love," but it doesn't seem like it. This fellow beans a lot to me and at one time he was crazy about me. He asked me out a couple of times and I accepted.

Lately he hasn't paid as much attention to me as he used to. I asked one of his friends to find out if he still liked me and he told me he does still like me but not as much as he used to. My girl friend said I shouldn't do this but should try to avoid him. I have tried, but it doesn't work, and anyway I can't stay away. Do you thing there is any way I can get him to like me as he used to?

"HOPEFUL."

Dear "Hopeful":

Don't make a clinging vine of yourself. No boy likes a girl who does that. Have the gumption to stand on your own feet and act as if you were a girl who didn't need to depend on one boy for her happiness. You're never going to get any chap back by letting him think he is your whole world. Instead, let him see that you can have a lot of fun without him and he may decide he is missing something when he is not with you.

United States Policy In China—If It Has Any

For five weeks Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer's report on China has been buried in State Department files. It will not be made public because the department—meaning Secretary Marshall—thinks it might be "actually harmful to the interests of the countries concerned, including the United States."

If there were concrete evidence that the United States has any China policy at all, this explanation might be accepted at face value. But we have been doing nothing about China for months, aside from twiddling our diplomatic thumbs, as the economic crisis at Nanking has changed from the terrible to the fantastic and as the Communist threat has grown.

Our "policy" since General Marshall made his famous China report has been to wait until Chiang Kai-shek has made drastic governmental reforms, including posts for Chinese Communists in his cabinet. Chiang retorts that he has several times invited Communists in but that they will co-operate only on their own terms, meanwhile keeping their private army on the attack in the north. As a matter of fact, some extensive political reforms have lately been made in the Nanking regime.

For a nation, now energetically helping French and Italian governments which have thrown out their Communist ministers, to insist upon Communism officials in China seems worse than quibbling. Every informed observer suspects that there must be some other motive behind what passes for our China policy. Perhaps Secretary Marshall fears that a plea for Chinese aid now would complicate the Administration program of immediate and long-term aid for Europe.

Actually, private citizens and members of Congress who want to aid Europe are asking why that aid is so much more important than saving the most populous country on earth and a traditional friend of the United States from the embrace of the Russian bear.

Marriage in China costs two cents American, but in job lots the price probably could be whittled down to three for a nickel.

Martin Displays Stamina Required For Presidency

The manner in which Joseph W. Martin Jr., Speaker of the House of Representatives, stood up under the reception accorded him in the Black Hills of South Dakota last week demonstrated without a doubt that he has the stamina to tackle the job of President. And the accolade accorded him by the South Dakotans is the stuff of which presidential booms are fashioned.

Speaker Martin planned to stop off in the Black Hills for a little rest on the tail end of his nationwide tour. Apparently no one had told him that they never rest in Rapid City and Deadwood. The Alex Johnson in Rapid City is a metropolitan hotel, but it wasn't big enough for the banquet they threw for Martin. It seemed as if the population of the entire state had turned out.

For a week the Massachusetts Congressman was deluged by Western hospitality. He was taken on a buffalo hunt in the state game preserve, he went down into the nation's largest gold mine, the Homestake, at Lead. If there was anything in the Black Hills he didn't see, or anybody in South Dakota he didn't meet, the Speaker no doubt would be surprised to be told so.

But Representative Martin had a warning of what he was in for when he arrived at the Rapid City municipal airport, which uses the facilities of the Army Air Field. The reception committee advanced to the plane to meet the honored guest through a military guard and amid the din of a 17-gun salute—the first time the Speaker was greeted by a military salute, according to his secretary.

Appreciation of Martin's stature has grown tremendously in recent months, as the enthusiastic and spontaneous reception given him in the Black Hills proves. The Rapid City Daily Jounral summed it up: "The Black Hills of South Dakota have never been more honored than by his visit."

Would it help if Truman held his press conferences on baloney-less Tuesday hereafter?

A New Political Angle With Population Changes

The wartime shift in population has more than economic significance to the future of the nation. It may well have a very important bearing on national politics, especially in the event of a close presidential election after 1950.

Because of population increases and shifts, 18 states will probably gain or lose in the House of Representatives as the result of the 1950 census. Based on present estimates, seven states will gain and 11 will lose members of the House. Since the electoral votes of each state are equal to the number of representatives plus two senators, this means that, as things look now, these 18 states are going to gain or lose influence in a future Presidential election, the one in 1948 not included.

Most significantly, the Solid South stands to lose four electoral votes. Among states normally Republican, the gains and losses just about balance. But the big gainer, California, will profit by seven more votes. With things balanced up, it would appear that the four almost sure Democratic votes from the South will be transferred to California which, while it has voted Republican more often than Democratic, can hardly be considered a sure supporter of the elephant.

California has always been a key state. It jumps from 25 to 32 electoral votes makes it even more important. In a close election, such as the Hayes-Tilden affair of 1876, this gain of just seven votes could well decide the outcome. And that possibility, especially in view of the fact that California's gain in population has been mostly from the ranks of labor, is something to think about.

One statesman suggests that surplus C-rations be sent to Europe. Apparently he is convinced what Europe needs is more rugged individualism.

THE SEQUEL TO STARVATION

FOR soms time we have been reading about the starving peoples of Europe and Asia. We visualize the victims as thin and desperate for food but rarely think of the influence of famine on the nation as a whole. The aftermath of such a disaster often has far-reaching effects.

Life is dear to Americans and we take the infirmities of others seriously. A crowd will collect whenever a woman faints in a public place. But swooning is so common in communities where starvation exists that few take notice. Men and women standing in line or working begin to sway and collapse, more so when cold weather adds to the plight. The inhabitants of such nations are frequently apathetic, irritable, and quick to tire. Some remain in bed as they do not care to be bothered with a bread line.

Here physicians are greatly handicapped, having to contend with the ordinary illnesses that arise in any group as well as the consequences of nutrition in slowing recovery. This is true particularly in ailments where food plays an important role in treatment. Furthermore faulty diets lead to recurrences of disorders which had healed previously, as any individual with stomach ulcers can testify. Other factors include shortages of drugs such as insulin. In some instances the lack of this hormone was compensated for by smaller feedings but in severe diabetes, especially in the younger age group, this was not true.

The incidence of tuberculosis, dysenteries, and typhoid was increased markedly. Furthermore, poisoning from mushrooms and beechnuts was fairly widespread in the Netherlands, where the natives tried to consume whatever they could lay their hands on. As a result of bombings, sanitation reached a low point and epidemics added insult to injury. Low rations also hindered the growth and development of children. Girls seemed to suffer more than boys and Lohr explains this on the theory that the boys probably had more ways to obtain or steal morsels here and there.

Every one who is starving loses weight but a peculiar swelling of the tissues of the body can be produced by an adequate amount of protein. The puffing is likely to give a false idea of the state of nutrition. In reality, the individual is waterlogged and far from healthy. In others, this phenomenon does not occur and we have the more typical picture of the skeletonlike figure we are accustomed to seeing.

One of the most pitiful abnormalities is hunger osteopathy, in which the bones are affected. The disorder is due to a combined deficiency of all foods especially animal protein and vitamin D. Pain and stiffness of the back, legs, and feet are likely to appear at first and may be so extreme that the victim must heave himself up by his hands when rising from a chair. As the bones continue to lose calcium they become softer and more pliable, fracturing with great ease. Comfort is possible only by remaining in bed. If fed a suitable diet, rich in protein and calcium, symptoms subside within two weeks.

Time will tell whether the sequel to such baneful experiences will alter the outlook and behavior of the sufferers. In all probability, it will show rehabilitation of the country.

The presence of floaters is not unusual, altho I never heard of the color combination mentioned. Most persons disregard this phenomenon, particularly if it occurs on looking at certain lights. If the specks are fixed rather than movable on arising, examination by an eye specialist is indicated.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Sunday the press photographers held a masquerade ball for all the celebrities and it was almost a failure. Can you imagine a Hollywood star hiding his face with photographers around?

Ciro's was so crowded, for a minute I thought they had gone back to their original dollar cup of coffee.

Everybody was there and Sidney Greenstreet had a very novel costume—he put a cactus in his hair and came as the fate of Texas.

Some of the people represented motion picture titles—Profesor Colonna combed the hair away from the holes in his head and came as "Crossfire."

Orson Welles came to the ball dressed as a farmer. All night he walked around from table to table and asked "What's Hayworth?"

Frank Sinatra came as meatless Tuesday.

Lassie fooled everybody with her disguise. She put on a mustache and came as Rin-Tin-Tin.

Madman Muntz, the used car dealer, put on a ragged old suit and came as a customer.

Johnny Meyer was having a good time—he came as a baby and somebody spiked his pablum.

I wanted to do something different but I was a little undecided and that's the reason I was late. I finally made it though. I found a grasshopper, slipped him two benzedrine tablets, threw a saddle over him, held a flashlight in my hand, and drove up to Ciro's as a hot rod.

If Europe Fully Realized American Generosity Danger Of War Would End; Letters Endorsing "Friendship Train" Given Insight Into Heart Of America

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—One of the great things about the American people is the way they rise to emergencies—especially to emergencies requiring generosity. If the people of Europe fully understood this fact, I am sure there never would be real danger of war in the future.

A friend of mine returning from Europe the other day said he was impressed by the hustle and materialistic drive of the USA and made the criticism that we were engrossed only in the business of making money. I think that I shall send that friend copies of several hundred letters I have received from all sorts of people, high and low, regarding the idea of a "Friendship Train" to collect food from the heart of America as a token of friendship to the people of Western Europe.

They are wonderful, heart-warming letters, the kind that make you proud to be an American, the kind that remind you once again that in a democracy the people are ahead of their Government. In fact, these letters are so fine that they should not be read merely by me, but by millions. To that end, I am printing parts of them below as an inspiring cross section of how this country feels toward the people—not necessarily the governments—of Europe. I am also sending copies to some of my newspaper friends in France and Italy in the hope that they may be published in Europe.

Paul L. Brandt, Mechanicsburg, Pa.—"Our Cumberland County has a lot of churches and every church has a missionary society, but they have seldom had an opportunity to work together to accomplish anything as concrete as helping put another loaded car on your 'Friendship Train.' That's a wonderfully fine plan, and I have proposed that we do it. When does the train leave its western terminal?"

Mr. Harry E. McConnell, Pittsburgh, Pa.—"should this train be routed via PRR Conemaugh Div. to Altoona, I would regard it an honor to serve in the capacity of conductor without pay between Pittsburgh and Altoona, as I am now employed by PRR as freight conductor between these two points."

J. A. Osborne, Louisville, Ky.—"If the average folk of foreign countries, who are drawn upon to bear the actual brunt of fighting wars, knew the mind and heart of the mothers and dads of the average American family, who in turn are called upon to bear the hardship and horror of war, it would take some pretty slick leadership to arouse them to the killing stage."

Mrs. Paul Boyd Glass, Joliet, Ill.—"Most of us have still not fully comprehended what starvation means. I have been receiving letters from stricken families over there. Put some of these letters on the sides of the Friendship Train and I know the heart of America will, really respond."

Emmet M. Kelly, San Fernando Valley, Calif.—"The idea of starting a train in Los Angeles, traveling eastward and adding carload after carload of food donations from each city as it passes through is a gigantic and marvelous idea. It would be a pleasure and an honor for us to print the labels and stickers for donations to the Friendship Train."

Mrs. Lillian M. Woehrle, Easton, Pa.—"As a national officer of the Mothers of World War II, I am confident that if and when your train leaves Los Angeles, we mothers all along the route will turn out and assist in any way possible."

Dabney R. Yarbrough, Sr., Columbia, S. C.—"As a rule the people of European countries where our food is sent hardly know where it comes from, and often they are made to believe it is coming from Russia. It seems to me we should educate the people and tell them about the 'American Train,' and that the food is coming from a democratic country. Is it not possible to have the information printed in their language and have booklets enclosed in the sacks of flour or grain?"

Mrs. Karl B. Cuesta, Tampa, Fla.—"Why can't our embassies see that newsreels of food being collected here are placed in the movie theatres of European cities, towns and hamlets?"

F. E. Simkins, Lynchburg, Ohio—"I have no corn, wheat or potatoes. Nevertheless I think your idea good and I will send you a check that will buy a few bushels of the above mentioned. Why would it not be all right to include old clothing?"

A. Luce, Tacoma, Wash.—"I'm sure there will be no difficulty in filling a train to extend from coast to coast—but after that, what? Is there any way of routing these goods on a similar train through France so these people will know who their friends are?"

Mrs. Edward W. Cooch, Newark, Del.—"Your train is all right but it does not go far enough—it should cross the Atlantic. We are asked to save one slice of bread—have not yet heard anyone ask those who drink liquor to give up one or more drinks of it a day."

Charles W. Livingston, Ship Bottom, N. J.—"I believe that we should print labels in the language of the country to which the things are sent saying the flour from which this bread is made is a gift from the people of the United States. Or, this article is a gift from the people of the United States."

Elbert Baldwin, Washington, D. C. — "The train to begin, may be only an engine and a boxcar, but I concur 100 per cent in your faith in the goodness of heart of this country. Such a train, once started, will not only be made known in its progress by every local agency — press, stage, radio, etc., that has voice — but will add boxcars and boxcars and boxcars from community to community. If your engine and boxcar get started, I think you will find it will take a fleet of ships to accommodate the response.

Ira E. Warren, Coulee City, Wash. —"How about the Navy escorting the ships that will carry the 'friendship cargoes' overseas? The gifts will be from American hearts and the Navy is a party of American hearts. After all, the fleet really belongs to the people. Let the ships go in with guns roaring salutes, bands playing, flags waving—aircraft flying overhead—a never-to-be-forgotten 'Operation Friendship.' "

Truman Placing Self On Spot In Coming Session Of Congress

By MARK SULLIVAN

For weeks American opinion has been groping toward crystallization about aid to Europe. Congress, which must make the decisions, has been moving toward conclusion, with differences and shadings of attitude on the questions involved.

The whole of our aid to Europe is of three kinds and amounts. First, the immediate aid, to facilitate which we are now saving food. About this urgent aid to avert immediate distress in Europe there is little or no contention. This aid is expected to last Europe until about December 1st.

A second and larger installment of aid, amounting to something over 500 million dollars, is called for to tide Europe over the winter, a period described by President Truman as from December until March. This, like the immediate aid, would be mainly in the form of food and fuel. It is about the manner of giving this aid that the suggestion of a special session of Congress arose.

Third Form Of Help

It is the third form of aid about which there is discussion, accompanied by differences of opinion that up to now are tentative rather than conclusive. The decision will be made by Congress. The amount will be large, a figure frequently mentioned is some 16 billion dollars over some four years. This aid would be in the form, not merely of food and fuel but largely of materials and industrial products for the reconstruction of Europe. The proposal for this aid is commonly referred to as the "Marshall Plan," though Secretary of State Marshall makes clear that up to now it is on our part more a suggestion than a plan. How Secretary Marshall came to make the suggestion is the essential basis of decision about it.

Last spring our government observed two conditions in Europe vital to our interest. First, two years after the ending of war, we were still providing immense amounts to save European peoples from distress. It was apparent that this burden upon us would continue until Europe recovered. To end the burden, by bringing about recovery and self-support on the part of European countries, was part of the motive of the Marshall suggestion.

The second thing we observed was that Russia did not want Europe to recover. Our officials, incontact with Russian officials, including especially the then Secretary of State Byrnes who was conducting direct negotiations with the Russians, looking to establishment of peace, came to a dismaying conclusion—that the Russians did not want a state of peace in Europe.

Our officials were forced to believe that the Russians felt that that country and Communism would profit by continued prostration of Europe, in two ways. First, continued prostration in Europe would make the people susceptible to Communism and Russian domination. Second, continued drain on us to keep Europe alive would serve Communism by bringing threat of insolvency and collapse to the leading capitalist country in the world.

Marshall Proposed Self-Help

Faced by these conclusions, Secretary Marshall suggested that if the European countries would cooperate among themselves for self-help toward recovery, we might thereafter provide the material and financial aid they would need. Sixteen European nations got together and made the plan for self-help. In this status the decision ahead of us and Congress is whether to provide the needed financial and material aid to their recovery.

Meanwhile, the mere tonic of motion toward self-help and expected aid from us has encouraged the European countries to check Communism. In recent elections in France and Italy, the two largest nations in the European continent (except Germany) the Communists suffered serious setback.

This accounts for the stepped-up violence with which the Russians are now attacking the Marshall Plan and us. It is the ferocity of frustration. They hurl bitter epithets at former Secretary of State Byrnes because, in his book "Speaking Frankly," he tells the story of the impossibility of arriving at agreement with the Russians about achieving a state of peace.

Of all the important public men in America, Mr. Byrnes was the one most likely to come to agreement with the Russians, if agreement were possible at all. The record of Mr. Byrnes in American public life was conspicuously one of bringing about agreement between contending groups. It was this for which he was praised, and in which he took pride. So much so that when he was appointed Secretary of State, there was some questioning about whether he was the best man to conduct negotiations with the Russians. It turned out that not even his urbanity and disposition to adjust differences was enough. Nothing could be enough. The Russians did not want agreement. That is the condition America must face and act upon.

Three Forms Of Aid To Europe Confronting American People

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. — A seven-week special session to precede and run through the start of the regular session of Congress attains importance as a decision of President Truman only because of the nature of the emergency which he is asking Congress to consider. Actually, the interval is too short to consider or complete action on the Marshall Plan or any long-range project for the relief of Europe.

The President would have liked to avoid the extra session. Also, once he found it necessary to get authority for a temporary or stop-gap plan, he realized that it was not palatable to the American people to ask their Congress to meet with respect to the emergency abroad without doing something about the emergency at home. That is why Mr. Truman mentioned high prices as an additional subject for consideration.

The President will, of course, explain that the European demand for our products has helped to create shortages and to force our prices upward. But at the same time that Mr. Truman introduces the price question, he brings up the problem of controls. This, in turn, introduces domestic politics.

To Be Of Help To Republicans

The episode will be of considerable help to the Republicans, who have been observing the line of attack from the Democratic speakers that have been blaming high prices on the removal of OPA controls. If the President takes the responsibility for the restoration of even a moderate amount of controls and Congress gives him what legislation he asks for, there will be little point for the stump speakers to go back to the OPA as a basic cause. Indeed, the Republicans will watch to see how far Mr. Truman is willing to go in reviving controls in order to meet the high prices of today.

There is talk of a plan for allocating basic materials. This appears logical, especially with respect to those articles for which the demand is far greater than the supply. But the Administration will have to find some answer that it failed to find before—how to eliminate black markets and the still higher prices that are paid when materials are made scarcer and scarcer by means of controls.

It was right, of course, for the President to call Congress into session. It was predicted in these dispatches that he would call Congress back by December first. With the certainty that time will be lost during the Christmas holidays, Mr. Truman apparently decided that he could get four or five weeks of consideration by Congress if he summoned the legislators on November 17th.

Other Current Legislation Looms

There is always the chance that Congress will get tangled up in other current legislation. For, once Congress is called back, it cannot be limited to the subjects mentioned in a President's proclamation. All pending legislation left on the calendar in the last session remains active and can be pressed further to passage by either or both Houses. Committees do not need to reconsider or go through hearings or make their reports again. Congress moves on from the exact point where it left off last Summer.

Members of Congress are fortunate to have had as long a rest as has been given them since July. Many of them have used the interval to consult with their constituents. Others have gone abroad to investigate conditions there. It is estimated that nearly 200 members of Congress have visited the Far East, Europe and South America since adjournment. Many of them will express themselves on what they saw.

The pressure of domestic legislation and particularly the growing demand for tax revision will be a factor. Undoubtedly, the House ways and means committee will be making recommendations by mid-December on the tax legislation it believes should be adopted.

Mr. Truman will not only have to present a persuasive plan with adequate facts concerning the European-aid program but he will have to take a stand on tax revision. The chances are that much of the special session will be devoted to debate on domestic problems, especially the impact of any long-rang control of materials by the government on the future economic situation inside the United States.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Navy Day

THERE are some who say that the day of great navies is over, that hereafter war will be fought in the air. They would scrap the navy, abolish the infantry and depend solely on bombs. The British have actually reduced their fleet until it amounts to almost nothing. Russia has no fleet, Japan, which before the war was the third greatest naval power, now possesses no navy. The only remaining fighting navy on all this Earth is that of the United States of America.

That is today. Who can say what the facts will be in five years.

The Marshall Plan, as drawn up by the Committee of European Economic Cooperation, of which Ernest Bevin of England was Chairman, contained this paragraph:

"The participating countries intend, during the next four years, to make good their wartime losses of 22 million gross registered tons of shipping tonnage. Part of this gap will be filled by purchases, but a far larger tonnage will be built in the participating countries' own shipyards. At the end of 1951 the merchant fleets at the disposal of the participating countries will be somewhat larger than in 1938, but against this must be set the disappearance of the German fleet."

This, of course, refers to the Merchant Marine, but what it means is that all the mercantile nations of Europe plan to have larger fleets than ever before and that they will require navies to protect their vessels and the lanes of commerce, because war has not been abolished as an instrument of international settlement of differences. Granted that the air is increasingly more important both in offensive and defensive warfare, and that this country is pursuing the mad policy of permitting its air arm to deteriorate in the face of danger, it would be equally foolhardy to permit our navy to be weakened.

The United States is beset by envy, jealousy and ill-will. Its defenses must not be weakened.

This year, Navy Day, as usual, is related to the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, who translated a show into an effective navy. And for such a navy, recruits are needed, particularly as 350,000 young men will leave it, after serving two years. Their places must be taken by volunteers.

Also this year, Navy Day will be important because the bodies of our dead are being brought back home to those who love and honor them. Here in New York, a religious ceremony at sea will be conducted to honor those dead who will come on an Army Transport, the Joseph V. Connolly, dedicated to the memory of a newspaperman, the late President of the King Features Syndicate. Prayers will be spoken in our three traditional languages of religion, Hebrew, Latin and English, and wreaths of flowers will be cast into the sea to form a garland of honor and love. Parents of the dead will have an opportunity to salten the waters of the ocean with their tears.

Admiral Nimitz has offered a prayer that must be an inspiration, particularly for the parents of boys who have served. His prayer reads:

". . . This will be a fittinfi occasion to offer at Divine services on ships and stations gratitude to God for His blessings and especially for the love of our families which is so vitally related to our happiness and the quality of our service and achievements. It is hoped that all of us will renew our sense of moral values, our duty to our families, and our loyalty to our country, with a united prayer that peace shall cover the earth 'as the waters cover the sea'."

The value of such traditions of Navy Day is not so much in whatever propaganda is done for a larger navy or for recruiting, nor as an exhibition of physical strength nor even for the retention of as large a navy as we have. It is rather that every reminder of our national achievement serves to bind us together more fervently in national unity—for in spite of One World, nationalism, love of country, pride in country is still the strongest American ideal.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

How To Live A Life

Not very many of us learn the art of living. Too much of our life is wasted and diverted from the ways that lead to personal satisfaction and inward happiness. Too much stress is set upon material accumulations — so that when life should show its richest gains, the desire for spiritual wealth has all been dissipated.

A friend once told me of a man who had suddenly become wealthy in his later years. He built a big house—and thinking that it should have a library, had a bookman buy sufficient books to fill the shelves of a big room. Then he engaged an art man to select expensive works of art to hang upon his walls. Then, when all was completed, he examined many of the books and walked about his house, looking at the examples of beauty, for which he had paid so dearly. Then he confessed that he had no understanding of any of these things. They were just furniture. They meant nothing to him—he had never developed the ability to love and appreciate them.

How poor, blank and dark is life without a love for the simple things that so enrich the mind and heart. I commend the reading of Thoreau's great classic "Walden," especially that chapter entitled "Where I lived, and What I Lived For." Just before Thoreau died someone asked him if he had made his peace with God, and his answer was: "We have never quarreled!" And his own sister remarked that "he was the most upright man she had ever known."

It seems to me that the happiest possible life is that one that has been lived the most simply and which has not spread its influence.

All about us are beauty and wonder. This beautiful October—every October—is a thing of wonder, a natural miracle. Its coloring, matchless in its gradual change, tinting the very atmosphere with its rainbow reflections, and its peacefulness are things to enrich the soul. How the air is saturated with its fragrance, and how each falling leaf stirs the emotions as it gently leaves its tree nest to enrich the earth below for another Springtime.

And, in the words of Michael Fairless: "After all, what do we ask of life, here or indeed hereafter, but leave to serve, to live, to commune with our fellowmen and with ourselves; and from the lap of earth to look up into the face of God?"

United States Policy In China—If It Has Any

For five weeks Lt. Gen. Wedemeyer's report on China has been buried in State Department files. It will not be made public because the department—meaning Secretary Marshall—thinks it might be "actually harmful to the interests of the countries concerned, including the United States."

If there were concrete evidence that the United States has any China policy at all, this explanation might be accepted at face value. But we have been doing nothing about China for months, aside from twiddling our diplomatic thumbs, as the economic crisis at Nanking has changed from the terrible to the fantastic and as the Communist threat has grown.

Our "policy" since General Marshall made his famous China report has been to wait until Chiang Kai-shek has made drastic governmental reforms, including posts for Chinese Communists in his cabinet. Chiang retorts that he has several times invited Communists in but that they will co-operate only on their own terms, meanwhile keeping their private army on the attack in the north. As a matter of fact, some extensive political reforms have lately been made in the Nanking regime.

For a nation, now energetically helping French and Italian governments which have thrown out their Communist ministers, to insist upon Communism officials in China seems worse than quibbling. Every informed observer suspects that there must be some other motive behind what passes for our China policy. Perhaps Secretary Marshall fears that a plea for Chinese aid now would complicate the Administration program of immediate and long-term aid for Europe.

Actually, private citizens and members of Congress who want to aid Europe are asking why that aid is so much more important than saving the most populous country on earth and a traditional friend of the United States from the embrace of the Russian bear.

Marriage in China costs two cents American, but in job lots the price probably could be whittled down to three for a nickel.

Martin Displays Stamina Required For Presidency

The manner in which Joseph W. Martin Jr., Speaker of the House of Representatives, stood up under the reception accorded him in the Black Hills of South Dakota last week demonstrated without a doubt that he has the stamina to tackle the job of President. And the accolade accorded him by the South Dakotans is the stuff of which presidential booms are fashioned.

Speaker Martin planned to stop off in the Black Hills for a little rest on the tail end of his nationwide tour. Apparently no one had told him that they never rest in Rapid City and Deadwood. The Alex Johnson in Rapid City is a metropolitan hotel, but it wasn't big enough for the banquet they threw for Martin. It seemed as if the population of the entire state had turned out.

For a week the Massachusetts Congressman was deluged by Western hospitality. He was taken on a buffalo hunt in the state game preserve, he went down into the nation's largest gold mine, the Homestake, at Lead. If there was anything in the Black Hills he didn't see, or anybody in South Dakota he didn't meet, the Speaker no doubt would be surprised to be told so.

But Representative Martin had a warning of what he was in for when he arrived at the Rapid City municipal airport, which uses the facilities of the Army Air Field. The reception committee advanced to the plane to meet the honored guest through a military guard and amid the din of a 17-gun salute—the first time the Speaker was greeted by a military salute, according to his secretary.

Appreciation of Martin's stature has grown tremendously in recent months, as the enthusiastic and spontaneous reception given him in the Black Hills proves. The Rapid City Daily Jounral summed it up: "The Black Hills of South Dakota have never been more honored than by his visit."

Would it help if Truman held his press conferences on baloney-less Tuesday hereafter?

A New Political Angle With Population Changes

The wartime shift in population has more than economic significance to the future of the nation. It may well have a very important bearing on national politics, especially in the event of a close presidential election after 1950.

Because of population increases and shifts, 18 states will probably gain or lose in the House of Representatives as the result of the 1950 census. Based on present estimates, seven states will gain and 11 will lose members of the House. Since the electoral votes of each state are equal to the number of representatives plus two senators, this means that, as things look now, these 18 states are going to gain or lose influence in a future Presidential election, the one in 1948 not included.

Most significantly, the Solid South stands to lose four electoral votes. Among states normally Republican, the gains and losses just about balance. But the big gainer, California, will profit by seven more votes. With things balanced up, it would appear that the four almost sure Democratic votes from the South will be transferred to California which, while it has voted Republican more often than Democratic, can hardly be considered a sure supporter of the elephant.

California has always been a key state. It jumps from 25 to 32 electoral votes makes it even more important. In a close election, such as the Hayes-Tilden affair of 1876, this gain of just seven votes could well decide the outcome. And that possibility, especially in view of the fact that California's gain in population has been mostly from the ranks of labor, is something to think about.

One statesman suggests that surplus C-rations be sent to Europe. Apparently he is convinced what Europe needs is more rugged individualism.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

THE SEQUEL TO STARVATION

FOR some time we have been reading about the starving peoples of Europe and Asia. We visualize the victims as thin and desperate for food but rarely think of the influence of famine on the nation as a whole. The aftermath of such a disaster often has far-reaching effects.

Life is dear to Americans and we take the infirmities of others seriously. A crowd will collect whenever a woman faints in a public place. But swooning is so common in communities where starvation exists that few take notice. Men and women standing in line or working begin to sway and collapse, more so when cold weather adds to the plight. The inhabitants of such nations are frequently apathetic, irritable, and quick to tire. Some remain in bed as they do not care to be bothered with a bread line.

Here physicians are greatly handicapped, having to contend with the ordinary illnesses that arise in any group as well as the consequences of nutrition in slowing recovery. This is true particularly in ailments where food plays an important role in treatment. Furthermore faulty diets lead to recurrences of disorders which had healed previously, as any individual with stomach ulcers can testify. Other factors include shortages of drugs such as insulin. In some instances the lack of this hormone was compensated for by smaller feedings but in severe diabetes, especially in the younger age group, this was not true.

The incidence of tuberculosis, dysenteries, and typhoid was increased markedly. Furthermore, poisoning from mushrooms and beechnuts was fairly widespread in the Netherlands, where the natives tried to consume whatever they could lay their hands on. As a result of bombings, sanitation reached a low point and epidemics added insult to injury. Low rations also hindered the growth and development of children. Girls seemed to suffer more than boys and Lohr explains this on the theory that the boys probably had more ways to obtain or steal morsels here and there.

Every one who is starving loses weight but a peculiar swelling of the tissues of the body can be produced by an adequate amount of protein. The puffing is likely to give a false idea of the state of nutrition. In reality, the individual is waterlogged and far from healthy. In others, this phenomenon does not occur and we have the more typical picture of the skeletonlike figure we are accustomed to seeing.

One of the most pitiful abnormalities is hunger osteopathy, in which the bones are affected. The disorder is due to a combined deficiency of all foods especially animal protein and vitamin D. Pain and stiffness of the back, legs, and feet are likely to appear at first and may be so extreme that the victim must heave himself up by his hands when rising from a chair. As the bones continue to lose calcium they become softer and more pliable, fracturing with great ease. Comfort is possible only by remaining in bed. If fed a suitable diet, rich in protein and calcium, symptoms subside within two weeks.

Time will tell whether the sequel to such baneful experiences will alter the outlook and behavior of the sufferers. In all probability, it will show rehabilitation of the country.

POLKA DOTS

T. J. S. writes: On awakening in the morning blue and white dots appear before my eyes. What causes this?

REPLY

The presence of floaters is not unusual, altho I never heard of the color combination mentioned. Most persons disregard this phenomenon, particularly if it occurs on looking at certain lights. If the specks are fixed rather than movable on arising, examination by an eye specialist is indicated.

HIGHER WHEN NERVOUS

Mrs. I. I. writes: If a person is very nervous and excited when having her blood pressure taken, would the rate be highe"?

REPLY

This is a natural reaction and a recheck should be made when the individual is not so jittery.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Sunday the press photographers held a masquerade ball for all the celebrities and it was almost a failure. Can you imagine a Hollywood star hiding his face with photographers around?

Ciro's was so crowded, for a minute I thought they had gone back to their original dollar cup of coffee.

Everybody was there and Sidney Greenstreet had a very novel costume—he put a cactus in his hair and came as the fate of Texas.

Some of the people represented motion picture titles—Profesor Colonna combed the hair away from the holes in his head and came as "Crossfire."

Orson Welles came to the ball dressed as a farmer. All night he walked around from table to table and asked "What's Hayworth?"

Frank Sinatra came as meatless Tuesday.

Lassie fooled everybody with her disguise. She put on a mustache and came as Rin-Tin-Tin.

Madman Muntz, the used car dealer, put on a ragged old suit and came as a customer.

Johnny Meyer was having a good time—he came as a baby and somebody spiked his pablum.

I wanted to do something different but I was a little undecided and that's the reason I was late. I finally made it though. I found a grasshopper, slipped him two benzedrine tablets, threw a saddle over him, held a flashlight in my hand, and drove up to Ciro's as a hot rod.

If Europe Fully Realized American Generosity Danger Of War Would End; Letters Endorsing "Friendship Train" Given Insight Into Heart Of America

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—One of the great things about the American people is the way they rise to emergencies—especially to emergencies requiring generosity. If the people of Europe fully understood this fact, I am sure there never would be real danger of war in the future.

A friend of mine returning from Europe the other day said he was impressed by the hustle and materialistic drive of the USA and made the criticism that we were engrossed only in the business of making money. I think that I shall send that friend copies of several hundred letters I have received from all sorts of people, high and low, regarding the idea of a "Friendship Train" to collect food from the heart of America as a token of friendship to the people of Western Europe.

They are wonderful, heart-warming letters, the kind that make you proud to be an American, the kind that remind you once again that in a democracy the people are ahead of their Government. In fact, these letters are so fine that they should not be read merely by me, but by millions. To that end, I am printing parts of them below as an inspiring cross section of how this country feels toward the people—not necessarily the governments—of Europe. I am also sending copies to some of my newspaper friends in France and Italy in the hope that they may be published in Europe.

Paul L. Brandt, Mechanicsburg, Pa.—"Our Cumberland County has a lot of churches and every church has a missionary society, but they have seldom had an opportunity to work together to accomplish anything as concrete as helping put another loaded car on your 'Friendship Train.' That's a wonderfully fine plan, and I have proposed that we do it. When does the train leave its western terminal?"

Mr. Harry E. McConnell, Pittsburgh, Pa.—"Should this train be routed via PRR Conemaugh Div. to Altoona, I would regard it an honor to serve in the capacity of conductor without pay between Pittsburgh and Altoona, as I am now employed by PRR as freight conductor between these two points."

J. A. Osborne, Louisville, Ky.—"If the average folk of foreign countries, who are drawn upon to bear the actual brunt of fighting wars, knew the mind and heart of the mothers and dads of the average American family, who in turn are called upon to bear the hardship and horror of war, it would take some pretty slick leadership to arouse them to the killing stage."

Mrs. Paul Boyd Glass, Joliet, Ill.—"Most of us have still not fully comprehended what starvation means. I have been receiving letters from stricken families over there. Put some of these letters on the sides of the Friendship Train and I know the heart of America will really respond."

Emmet M. Kelly, San Fernando Valley, Calif.—"The idea of starting a train in Los Angeles, traveling eastward and adding carload after carload of food donations from each city as it passes through is a gigantic and marvelous idea. It would be a pleasure and an honor for us to print the labels and stickers for donations to the Friendship Train."

Mrs. Lillian M. Woehrle, Easton, Pa.—"As a national officer of the Mothers of World War II, I am confident that if and when your train leaves Los Angeles, we mothers all along the route will turn out and assist in any way possible."

Dabney R. Yarbrough, Sr., Columbia, S. C.—"As a rule the people of European countries where our food is sent hardly know where it comes from, and often they are made to believe it is coming from Russia. It seems to me we should educate the people and tell them about the 'American Train,' and that the food is coming from a democratic country. Is it not possible to have the information printed in their language and have booklets enclosed in the sacks of flour or grain?"

Mrs. Karl B. Cuesta, Tampa, Fla.—"Why can't our embassies see that newsreels of food being collected here are placed in the movie theatres of European cities, towns and hamlets?"

F. E. Simkins, Lynchburg, Ohio—"I have no corn, wheat or potatoes. Nevertheless I think your idea good and I will send you a check that will buy a few bushels of the above mentioned. Why would it not be all right to include old clothing?"

A. Luce, Tacoma, Wash.—"I'm sure there will be no difficulty in filling a train to extend from coast to coast—but after that, what? Is there any way of routing these goods on a similar train through France so these people will know who their friends are?"

Mrs. Edward W. Cooch, Newark, Del.—"Your train is all right but it does not go far enough—it should cross the Atlantic. We are asked to save one slice of bread—have not yet heard anyone ask those who drink liquor to give up one or more drinks of it a day."

Charles W. Livingston, Ship Bottom, N. J.—"I believe that we should print labels in the language of the country to which the things are sent saying the flour from which this bread is made is a gift from the people of the United States. Or, this article is a gift from the people of the United States."

Elbert Baldwin, Washington, D. C. — "The train to begin, may be only an engine and a boxcar, but I concur 100 per cent in your faith in the goodness of heart of this country. Such a train, once started, will not only be made known in its progress by every local agency — press, stage, radio, etc., that has voice — but will add boxcars and boxcars and boxcars from community to community. If your engine and boxcar get started, I think you will find it will take a fleet of ships to accommodate the response.

Ira E. Warren, Coulee City, Wash. —"How about the Navy escorting the ships that will carry the 'friendship cargoes' overseas? The gifts will be from American hearts and the Navy is a party of American hearts. After all, the fleet really belongs to the people. Let the ships go in with guns roaring salutes, bands playing, flags waving—aircraft flying overhead—a never-to-be-forgotten 'Operation Friendship.' "

Truman Placing Self On Spot In Coming Session Of Congress

By MARK SULLIVAN

For weeks American opinion has been groping toward crystallization about aid to Europe. Congress, which must make the decisions, has been moving toward conclusion, with differences and shadings of attitude on the questions involved.

The whole of our aid to Europe is of three kinds and amounts. First, the immediate aid, to facilitate which we are now saving food. About this urgent aid to avert immediate distress in Europe there is little or no contention. This aid is expected to last Europe until about December 1st.

A second and larger installment of aid, amounting to something over 500 million dollars, is called for to tide Europe over the winter, a period described by President Truman as from December until March. This, like the immediate aid, would be mainly in the form of food and fuel. It is about the manner of giving this aid that the suggestion of a special session of Congress arose.

Third Form Of Help

It is the third form of aid about which there is discussion, accompanied by differences of opinion that up to now are tentative rather than conclusive. The decision will be made by Congress. The amount will be large, a figure frequently mentioned is some 16 billion dollars over some four years. This aid would be in the form, not merely of food and fuel but largely of materials and industrial products for the reconstruction of Europe. The proposal for this aid is commonly referred to as the "Marshall Plan," though Secretary of State Marshall makes clear that up to now it is on our part more a suggestion than a plan. How Secretary Marshall came to make the suggestion is the essential basis of decision about it.

Last spring our government observed two conditions in Europe vital to our interest. First, two years after the ending of war, we were still providing immense amounts to save European peoples from distress. It was apparent that this burden upon us would continue until Europe recovered. To end the burden, by bringing about recovery and self-support on the part of European countries, was part of the motive of the Marshall suggestion.

The second thing we observed was that Russia did not want Europe to recover. Our officials, incontact with Russian officials, including especially the then Secretary of State Byrnes who was conducting direct negotiations with the Russians, looking to establishment of peace, came to a dismaying conclusion—that the Russians did not want a state of peace in Europe.

Our officials were forced to believe that the Russians felt that that country and Communism would profit by continued prostration of Europe, in two ways. First, continued prostration in Europe would make the people susceptible to Communism and Russian domination. Second, continued drain on us to keep Europe alive would serve Communism by bringing threat of insolvency and collapse to the leading capitalist country in the world.

Marshall Proposed Self-Help

Faced by these conclusions, Secretary Marshall suggested that if the European countries would cooperate among themselves for self-help toward recovery, we might thereafter provide the material and financial aid they would need. Sixteen European nations got together and made the plan for self-help. In this status the decision ahead of us and Congress is whether to provide the needed financial and material aid to their recovery.

Meanwhile, the mere tonic of motion toward self-help and expected aid from us has encouraged the European countries to check Communism. In recent elections in France and Italy, the two largest nations in the European continent (except Germany) the Communists suffered serious setback.

This accounts for the stepped-up violence with which the Russians are now attacking the Marshall Plan and us. It is the ferocity of frustration. They hurl bitter epithets at former Secretary of State Byrnes because, in his book "Speaking Frankly," he tells the story of the impossibility of arriving at agreement with the Russians about achieving a state of peace.

Of all the important public men in America, Mr. Byrnes was the one most likely to come to agreement with the Russians, if agreement were possible at all. The record of Mr. Byrnes in American public life was conspicuously one of bringing about agreement between contending groups. It was this for which he was praised, and in which he took pride. So much so that when he was appointed Secretary of State, there was some questioning about whether he was the best man to conduct negotiations with the Russians. It turned out that not even his urbanity and disposition to adjust differences was enough. Nothing could be enough. The Russians did not want agreement. That is the condition America must face and act upon.

Three Forms Of Aid To Europe Confronting American People

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. — A seven-week special session to precede and run through the start of the regular session of Congress attains importance as a decision of President Truman only because of the nature of the emergency which he is asking Congress to consider. Actually, the interval is too short to consider or complete action on the Marshall Plan or any long-range project for the relief of Europe.

The President would have liked to avoid the extra session. Also, once he found it necessary to get authority for a temporary or stop-gap plan, he realized that it was not palatable to the American people to ask their Congress to meet with respect to the emergency abroad without doing something about the emergency at home. That is why Mr. Truman mentioned high prices as an additional subject for consideration.

The President will, of course, explain that the European demand for our products has helped to create shortages and to force our prices upward. But at the same time that Mr. Truman introduces the price question, he brings up the problem of controls. This, in turn, introduces domestic politics.

To Be Of Help To Republicans

The episode will be of considerable help to the Republicans, who have been observing the line of attack from the Democratic speakers that have been blaming high prices on the removal of OPA controls. If the President takes the responsibility for the restoration of even a moderate amount of controls and Congress gives him what legislation he asks for, there will be little point for the stump speakers to go back to the OPA as a basic cause. Indeed, the Republicans will watch to see how far Mr. Truman is willing to go in reviving controls in order to meet the high prices of today.

There is talk of a plan for allocating basic materials. This appears logical, especially with respect to those articles for which the demand is far greater than the supply. But the Administration will have to find some answer that it failed to find before—how to eliminate black markets and the still higher prices that are paid when materials are made scarcer and scarcer by means of controls.

It was right, of course, for the President to call Congress into session. It was predicted in these dispatches that he would call Congress back by December first. With the certainty that time will be lost during the Christmas holidays, Mr. Truman apparently decided that he could get four or five weeks of consideration by Congress if he summoned the legislators on November 17th.

Other Current Legislation Looms

There is always the chance that Congress will get tangled up in other current legislation. For, once Congress is called back, it cannot be limited to the subjects mentioned in a President's proclamation. All pending legislation left on the calendar in the last session remains active and can be pressed further to passage by either or both Houses. Committees do not need to reconsider or go through hearings or make their reports again. Congress moves on from the exact point where it left off last Summer.

Members of Congress are fortunate to have had as long a rest as has been given them since July. Many of them have used the interval to consult with their constituents. Others have gone abroad to investigate conditions there. It is estimated that nearly 200 members of Congress have visited the Far East, Europe and South America since adjournment. Many of them will express themselves on what they saw.

The pressure of domestic legislation and particularly the growing demand for tax revision will be a factor. Undoubtedly, the House ways and means committee will be making recommendations by mid-December on the tax legislation it believes should be adopted.

Mr. Truman will not only have to present a persuasive plan with adequate facts concerning the European-aid program but he will have to take a stand on tax revision. The chances are that much of the special session will be devoted to debate on domestic problems, especially the impact of any long-rang control of materials by the government on the future economic situation inside the United States.

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

Navy Day

THERE are some who say that the day of great navies is over, that hereafter war will be fought in the air. They would scrap the navy, abolish the infantry and depend solely on bombs. The British have actually reduced their fleet until it amounts to almost nothing. Russia has no fleet. Japan, which before the war was the third greatest naval power, now possesses no navy. The only remaining fighting navy on all this Earth is that of the United States of America.

That is today. Who can say what the facts will be in five years.

The Marshall Plan, as drawn up by the Committee of European Economic Cooperation, of which Ernest Bevin of England was Chairman, contained this paragraph:

"The participating countries intend, during the next four years, to make good their wartime losses of 22 million gross registered tons of shipping tonnage. Part of this gap will be filled by purchases, but a far larger tonnage will be built in the participating countries' own shipyards. At the end of 1951 the merchant fleets at the disposal of the participating countries will be somewhat larger than in 1938, but against this must be set the disappearance of the German fleet."

This, of course, refers to the Merchant Marine, but what it means is that all the mercantile nations of Europe plan to have larger fleets than ever before and that they will require navies to protect their vessels and the lanes of commerce, because war has not been abolished as an instrument of international settlement of differences. Granted that the air is increasingly more important both in offensive and defensive warfare, and that this country is pursuing the mad policy of permitting its air arm to deteriorate in the face of danger, it would be equally foolhardy to permit our navy to be weakened.

The United States is beset by envy, jealousy and ill-will. Its defenses must not be weakened.

This year, Navy Day, as usual, is related to the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, who translated a show into an effective navy. And for such a navy, recruits are needed, particularly as 350,000 young men will leave it, after serving two years. Their places must be taken by volunteers.

Also this year, Navy Day will be important because the bodies of our dead are being brought back home to those who love and honor them. Here in New York, a religious ceremony at sea will be conducted to honor those dead who will come on an Army Transport, the Joseph V. Connolly, dedicated to the memory of a newspaperman, the late President of the King Features Syndicate. Prayers will be spoken in our three traditional languages of religion, Hebrew, Latin and English, and wreaths of flowers will be cast into the sea to form a garland of honor and love. Parents of the dead will have an opportunity to salten the waters of the ocean with their tears.

Admiral Nimitz has offered a prayer that must be an inspiration, particularly for the parents of boys who have served. His prayer reads:

". . . This will be a fittinfi occasion to offer at Divine services on ships and stations gratitude to God for His blessings and especially for the love of our families which is so vitally related to our happiness and the quality of our service and achievements. It is hoped that all of us will renew our sense of moral values, our duty to our families, and our loyalty to our country, with a united prayer that peace shall cover the earth 'as the waters cover the sea'."

The value of such traditions of Navy Day is not so much in whatever propaganda is done for a larger navy or for recruiting, nor as an exhibition of physical strength nor even for the retention of as large a navy as we have. It is rather that every reminder of our national achievement serves to bind us together more fervently in national unity—for in spite of One World, nationalism, love of country, pride in country is still the strongest American ideal.

How To Live A Life

Not very many of us learn the art of living. Too much of our life is wasted and diverted from the ways that lead to personal satisfaction and inward happiness. Too much stress is set upon material accumulations — so that when life should show its richest gains, the desire for spiritual wealth has all been dissipated.

A friend once told me of a man who had suddenly become wealthy in his later years. He built a big house—and thinking that it should have a library, had a bookman buy sufficient books to fill the shelves of a big room. Then he engaged an art man to select expensive works of art to hang upon his walls. Then, when all was completed, he examined many of the books and walked about his house, looking at the examples of beauty, for which he had paid so dearly. Then he confessed that he had no understanding of any of these things. They were just furniture. They meant nothing to him—he had never developed the ability to love and appreciate them.

How poor, blank and dark is life without a love for the simple things that so enrich the mind and heart. I commend the reading of Thoreau's great classic "Walden," especially that chapter entitled "Where I lived, and What I Lived For." Just before Thoreau died someone asked him if he had made his peace with God, and his answer was: "We have never quarreled!" And his own sister remarked that "he was the most upright man she had ever known."

It seems to me that the happiest possible life is that one that has been lived the most simply and which has not spread its influence.

All about us are beauty and wonder. This beautiful October—every October—is a thing of wonder, a natural miracle. Its coloring, matchless in its gradual change, tinting the very atmosphere with its rainbow reflections, and its peacefulness are things to enrich the soul. How the air is saturated with its fragrance, and how each falling leaf stirs the emotions as it gently leaves its tree nest to enrich the earth below for another Springtime.

And, in the words of Michael Fairless: "After all, what do we ask of life, here or indeed hereafter, but leave to serve, to live, to commune with our fellowmen and with ourselves; and from the lap of earth to look up into the face of God?"

Sentinels Snap

a Scarlet and White touchdown. Manges pulled the ball out of the air on the Ridgeley 30 and then the Sentinels took to the airways themselves. A 29-yard aerial from Stevenson to Manges placed the ball on the one from where Stevenson plunged it over.

The half ended a few minutes later as Ridgeley attempted to get back into the game with an overhead game from a wide spread formation. However time ran out with the pigskin resting on the Fort Hill 20.

The third quarter was a repitition of the first half as the Cumberland city champs moved at will to score twice more with Stevenson tallying from the four and Glenn Burke taking a long pass from Manges on the 23 and scampered across for the fifth touchdown in a play that covered 45 yards.

Ridgeley dominated play in the final stanza with the Sentinels having possession of the ball only once, but that was enough. Tucker made the longest run of the day when he broke loose for 46 yards and the final Fort Hill touchdown.

With time fast running out Ridgeley started to move against the second and third stringers in the Sentinel lineup and with less than 50 seconds to go tallied its only touchdown on a 19-yard pass on a sleeper play.

Tucker, Stevenson Star

Barney Tucker and Ray Stevenson were the big guns in the backfield for the winners with the former averaging 12 yards per carry as he picked up 132 yards from scrimmage in 11 tries. Stevenson had 105 yards in 15 attempts. Joe Moss, big, plunging fullback for the Mineral County team was the best with 56 yards in 10 carries.

The loss snapped an eight-game winning streak carrying over two seasons for Ridgeley and marked the first time the Blackhawks have been able to score against Fort Hill. The lineups:

Sentinels Snap

a Scarlet and White touchdown. Manges pulled the ball out of the air on the Ridgeley 30 and then the Sentinels took to the airways themselves. A 29-yard aerial from Stevenson to Manges placed the ball on the one from where Stevenson plunged it over.

The half ended a few minutes later as Ridgeley attempted to get back into the game with an overhead game from a wide spread formation. However time ran out with the pigskin resting on the Fort Hill 20.

The third quarter was a repitition of the first half as the Cumberland city champs moved at will to score twice more with Stevenson tallying from the four and Glenn Burke taking a long pass from Manges on the 23 and scampered across for the fifth touchdown in a play that covered 45 yards.

Ridgeley dominated play in the final stanza with the Sentinels having possession of the ball only once, but that was enough. Tucker made the longest run of the day when he broke loose for 46 yards and the final Fort Hill touchdown.

With time fast running out Ridgeley started to move against the second and third stringers in the Sentinel lineup and with less than 50 seconds to go tallied its only touchdown on a 19-yard pass on a sleeper play.

Tucker, Stevenson Star

Barney Tucker and Ray Stevenson were the big guns in the backfield for the winners with the former averaging 12 yards per carry as he picked up 132 yards from scrimmage in 11 tries. Stevenson had 105 yards in 15 attempts. Joe Moss, big, plunging fullback for the Mineral County team was the best with 56 yards in 10 carries.

The loss snapped an eight-game winning streak carrying over two seasons for Ridgeley and marked the first time the Blackhawks have been able to score against Fort Hill. The lineups:

Stuart Hamill, Jr., Will Command Guard Company

By GEORGE HANST

OAKLAND—Appointment of Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., as a first lieutenant of Company C, 121st Engineer Combat Battalion, of the Maryland National Guard, and as commanding officer of the unit, and also the appointment of Stanley L. Calhoun as first lieutenant and platoon commander, were announced by Lt. Col. C. L. Claypoole, of the Department of Maryland.

The appointments were part of general order No. 130, and were effective as of October 15.

This completes the officer strength of the unit as Robert J. Hesen had been named second lieutenant and temporary commanding officer about three weeks ago.

Hamill entered service as an engineer, receiving basic training at Fort Belvoir, Va. He spent nine months in England, returned to the states for officers' candidate school at Fort Custer, Mich. He returned to Europe as an officer in a military police unit of the 87th Infantry and was in England, France, Belgium, Czechoslovakia and Germany, as a prisoner of war officer.

He was in service four years and four months, being discharged December, 1945. He was licensed to practice law in 1941 prior to his entry into the army and since his return to Oakland has been following his profession.

Calhoun spent five years in the service, 32 months of which were spent overseas in Sicily, Italy, Southern France and Germany, with the Seventh, Fifth and Third Armies. He received his commission at Camp Davis, N. C., in the coast artillery and held the rank of captain when he was discharged in January, 1946. He is an employe at the Leighton Brothers garage in Oakland.

All men who have signed up as members of the new unit are to report Friday evening at 7:30 at the Parish House for fingerprinting, Col. Claypoole announced. The unit now has around thirty men.

Upon receipt of federal recognition drill sessions will begin and pay for the men will start. Work continues on the Episcopal Parish house which is being made into temporary quarters for an armory. It will be ready for occupancy in about a month. Work is being done by an army unit.

The gathering was sponsored by the Methodist Sunday School of Hoyes where Mr. DeWitt has been a faithful and consistant member since early manhood. People of that community say the church has been strengthened and inspired all through the years by his courageous leadership and his exemplary life, as he has spent many years laboring for the master.

"Grandpap" was pleasantly surprised by four of his seven children coming with their families, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley DeWitt, Mrs. Bertha Frazee, and Mrs. Clara Deitle, all of Akron, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Loudermilk, of Florida. Two other sons, Joe and Aubrey, were unable to get home for the occasion.

They will be awarded for various types of costumes and attractions seen in the parade which will get under way about 7 o'clock. The parade will form on Oak street and will follow the usual directions through the business section of town.

Marriage Is Announced

Miss Helen Custer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. S. Custer, Friendsville, and Thomas Joseph Stanton, Oakland, were married October 17, at the home of the bride. Rev. W. E. Wade, pastor of the Friendsville Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a street length suit of grey pin-striped flannel with matching accessories and wore a shoulder corsage of pink rosebuds. She had been an instructor in Oakland High School for the past twelve years.

Mr. Stanton, a son of Mrs. Mary C. Stanton and the late J. M. Stanton, is assistant postmaster in the Oakland postoffice. They will reside at his home on Deep Creek Lake.

Plan Halloween Parade

Prizes are being collected this week for the annual Halloween celebration and mummers parade, sponsored by the Oakland Fire Department and the fire department band. Plans are progressing for the event which is scheduled for next Thursday night.

About 80 prizes already have been obtained, according to Fred Tichnell, chairman of the prize committee, and these will be on display in the office windows of the West Maryland Power Company.

They will be awarded for various types of costumes and attractions seen in the parade which will get under way about 7 o'clock. The parade will form on Oak street and will follow the usual directions through the business section of town.

A street carnival is also being planned with square dancing and a portion of Second Street will be roped off for the occasion. Usually 500 or more persons participate in the parade and an additional two or three thousand gather to witness the procession and join in the merrymaking later.

Will Show Film

The sound motion picture film, "And Now I See," will be shown in four Lutheran parishes of this area through the Stewardship department of the United Lutheran Church and the West Virginia Synod.

The first showing will be in the basement of St. Mark's Church, Oakland, Sunday evening, at 7:30. There is no admission charge but an offering will be taken.

On October 29, it will be shown at Red House; Sunday, November 2, at the Accident parish, to three congregations; and on Sunday, November 9, at the Bittinger parish, to three congregations.

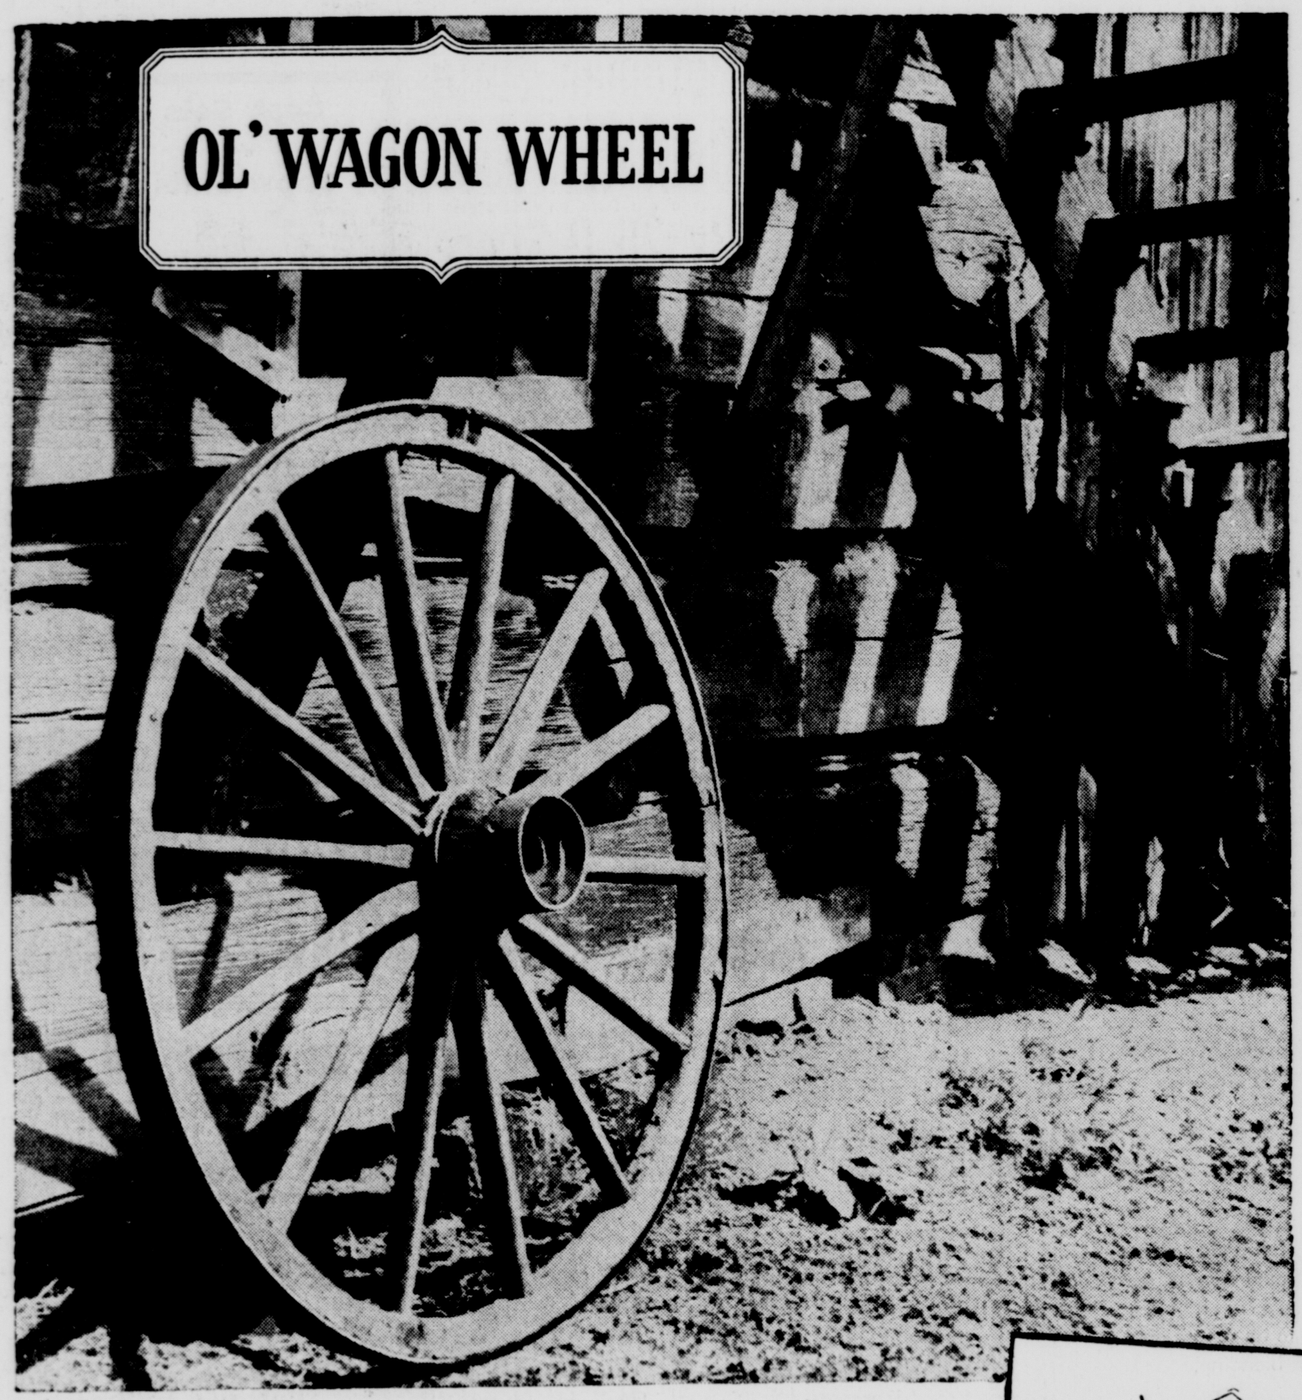
Go to Church this Sunday, your Church, any Church, but go!



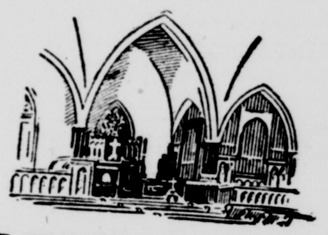
The old wagon wheel in the picture, leaning against the side wall of the old log shop, is fast becoming a relic of a departed era.

Time was when the blacksmith and wheelwright did a thriving business, and the rumble of carts and wagons was a familiar sound in every community. Some of these old vehicles survive on the farms, but they are fast disappearing.

The truck, trailer and tractor today are doing the farm work and hauling the farmer's produce to market. These have ushered in a new era in transportation.

The conditions of human life are thus constantly changing under the impetus of man's inventive genius. Age follows age in rapid succession and change is the order of the world. The only enduring things are the things of the mind and spirit. Love and hope and faith are eternal.

The Church ministers to the spiritual needs of man. It seeks to impart the principles of right living and teach men to love and honor God. These are the changeless and eternal things in a world of constant change, and they are as necessary today for wholesome living as in ages past.



THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily

The old wagon wheel in the picture, leaning against the side wall of the old log shop, is fast becoming a relic of a departed era.

Time was when the blacksmith and wheelwright did a thriving business, and the rumble of carts and wagons was a familiar sound in every community. Some of these old vehicles survive on the farms, but they are fast disappearing.

The truck, trailer and tractor today are doing the farm work and hauling the farmer's produce to market. These have ushered in a new era in transportation.

The conditions of human life are thus constantly changing under the impetus of man's inventive genius. Age follows age in rapid succession and change is the order of the world. The only enduring things are the things of the mind and spirit. Love and hope and faith are eternal.

The Church ministers to the spiritual needs of man. It seeks to impart the principles of right living and teach men to love and honor God. These are the changeless and eternal things in a world of constant change, and they are as necessary today for wholesome living as in ages past.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday and read your Bible daily.

Beall Booters Are Tops

FH Wins 18th For Hahn

Wicker Manages Champs

Duquesne To Meet Best

By C. V. BURNS

Beall High School's soccer teams have gone undefeated in Garrett and Allegany counties since 1941. The only loss handed teams coached by Eddie Finzel over slightly more than three seasons was suffered at the hands of Sparrow Point High School in the state tournament finale, a 60-minute thriller at Boonsboro last fall. The score was 3-2. The Sparrows Point team, incidentally, beat several college freshmen and prep school teams.

Beall's record for 1941, 1945, and 1947 is 36 wins, 1 loss and two ties. No soccer was played during the seasons of 1942, 1943 and 1944. The Mountaineers have won 10 and tied one this season.

When Fort Hill whipped Ridgeley last night it marked the Sentinels' 18th victory since Prof. William P. Hahn took over the reins in 1942. His teams have lost only three out of 24 games. The other three were ties.

In 1942 the Hilltoppers' record was 7 wins, 1 loss and 1 tie; in 1946, 5 wins, 1 loss and 2 ties and this season 6 wins and 1 defeat. Beall, Hagerstown and Allegany are yet to be met by the Fort Hillians.

Paul Gallen, who follows the Middle Atlantic Baseball League graduates pretty closely, has discovered that Kemp Wicker, one-time Cumberland Colts' southpaw pitching star, who later played with the Yankees and Dodgers, managed Columbus to its second straight South Atlantic pennant this year.

Georgians point with pride to the fact that Wicker was not chased by an umpire during the two seasons and that's really something in the Sally League, they say.

What's this we hear about Jonathan "Johnny" Paugh, Moorefield High School's popular basketball and football coach being mentioned for the coaching job at Shepherd College, W. Va.?

There's quite a flock of students from Cumberland and nearby West Virginia now attending the Shepherdstown school.

The Cambria County (Pa.) American Legion has adopted a resolution directed to Governor James H. Duff asking that Middleweight Champion Rocky Graziano be barred from boxing in Pennsylvania for life.

Today Altoona and Johnstown will meet on the gridiron for the first time since 1940 when the game between the neighboring rivals ended in a riot.

Following the disturbance seven years ago the P.I.A.A. banned the games for a two-year period and it has taken five more years to get the teams together for another contest.

Johnstown will be the scene of today's game.

Wheeling newspapers are conducting a contest to select a nickname for the city's entry in the All-American Basketball League in which Cumberland's Dukes also will be represented. The contest ends November 2. A $50 victory bond will be presented to the fan whose suggestion is accepted by the judges.

The Baltimore Colts are drawing large crowds at home but success has not prompted Owner Bob Rodenberg to put the squeeze on the football faithful. You can still see a Colt game for a buck and a half or you can buy a ticket for $2.75 or a season ticket for $3 per game. Those who insist on box seats can pay $5, of course.

Coach "Chick" Davies' Duquesne University quint which plays an exhibition game with the Cumberland Dukes here November 16 will play 20 college games this season, commencing December 9 with Brigham Young at Pittsburgh.

Other teams to be met in Pittsburgh are Bowling Green, Utah State, Santa Clara, Arizona, Geneva, Texas Wesleyan, Bucknell, Lafayette, Seton Hall and Loyola of Chicago.

Games away include Albright (Altoona), Youngstown, Akron (Altoona), Cincinnati, Kentucky Moorehead (Louisville), Geneva (Beaver Falls), Baldwin-Wallace (Cleveland) and Akron.

Long Island U. will be met at Madison Square Garden, New York, Feb. 17.

Duquesne won 20 of 21 games last season and lost to Utah in the Metropolitan Invitational Tournament in New York.

CLARKSBURG IS HOST TO ALLEGANY TONIGHT

Allegany High School's football team will play Roosevelt-Wilson High School tonight at 8 o'clock in Clarksburg, W. Va.

It will be the sixth game of the season for the Campers, who have won only one game, lost three and tied one.

In their first meeting on the gridiron here last fall, the Presidents took the Blue and White into camp by the score of 14 to 7.

OUTDOOR SHOOTERS MEET WINCHESTER

The team representing the Cumberland Outdoor Club will meet Winchester, Va., shooters in a trapshooting match this afternoon on the Carl O'Neal Farm, Bedford Road. Shooting will start at 2 p. m.

Firing for the local team will be Russ McElfish, "Chick" Rodenhauser, Charley Simpson, Paul Nycum, Tony Francis, Harry Barton, "Lefty" Jordan, and Roy Maphis. Only the five highest scores will count.

Central High School of Lonaconing provided an upset yesterday when it defeated Bruce High School of Westernport, by the score of 2 to 1 at Lonaconing to throw the race for the Class "C" soccer championship of Allegany County into a tie, thus necessitating a play-off game between the same teams next week.

Alex Patton's field goal in the fourth quarter broke the 1-1 deadlock and enabled Coach Johnny Meyers' eleven to atone for an earlier season 1-0 setback at the hands of the Westernport eleven.

Stafford Ties Score

The teams battled to a scoreless tie in the first half but in the third stanza Verdeen Parsons gave Bruce a 1-0 edge by kicking a field goal. Alan Stafford, Orange and Black freshman, who came into the game in a substitute role, booted a penalty goal later in the same period to knot the score at one-all.

Paul Green and Patton were outstanding for the winners while Moran and Parsons were Bruce High's best bets.

Next week's playoff game will determine whether Central or Bruce will represent the county in the Class C inter-county tourney.

Beall Cops Title

Beall High School of Frostburg clinched the W.M.I. League championship for the fourth straight time by defeating a stubborn Barton High eleven at Barton by the score of 2-0. Barton was playing its second game in as many days—120 minutes of action—and gave Beall a hot battle throughout.

Blanked in the first half, Beall scored both of its goals in the third quarter. Williams' shot grazed the under-side of the cross-bar and bounded under for the first score while Wilt's hard drive made a direct hit at the target later in the period.

Beall has qualified for the state Class "A" tourney while Barton will vie for Class "D" honors in inter-county compitition.

Alleged Race Fixer Is Freed On Bond

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Oct. 24 (AP)—After spending a night in the Jefferson County jail, Peter Del Pozzo of New York and Baltimore today was free on $2,500 bond for a court hearing next January on charges of attempting to fix a horse race here.

Del Pozzo was indicted last month by the county grand jury on a charge of trying to fix a race at the local track December 18, 1945.

His is the first case to come under the law passed by the 1945 legislature providing a prison sentence of one to three years and/or a $1,000 fine on conviction of attempting to fix a race.

Carver Gridders Lose To Ramer Here, 24-18

Carver High School's six-man football team went down to defeat for the second time this season yesterday when Ramer Memorial High School of Martinsburg, W. Va., topped the locals at Community Park by the score of 24 to 18.

The West Virginians rallied in the final period to nose out the locals after Carver held the long end of an 18-7 score at halftime.

Redskin Is Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Dick McCann, general manager for the Washington Redskins, said today that Ralph Ruthstrom, 220-pound fullback from Houston, Tex., has been suspended for the season.

"There was a rule infraction," said McCann. "Never mind which one."

Pro Gridder Dies In Plane Crash

Burkett Was Flying To Rejoin Cardinals

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (INS)—Officials of the Chicago Cardinals professional football team said today that their ace rookie halfback, Jefferson Davis Burkett, was among the victims of the United Air Lines plane crash near Bryce Canyon, Utah.

Burkett was flying to Chicago to rejoin the Cardinals after undergoing an emergency appendectomy in Los Angeles last Saturday when the Cards were there to play the Los Angeles Rams in a National Football League game Sunday.

The 26-year-old Burkett, who rose to football stardom at Louisiana State, was leading the league in punting in his first year of pro football and already had gained renown as one of the finest defensive backs in the game.

He and his wife lived in Chicago. They had no children.

The passenger list for the doomed plane carried the name of J. Burkhart, but Cardinal officials said that was a misspelling of Burkett. They said he had informed them he was on the passenger list booked for the ill-starred flight.

The sputtering Potomac State gridiron machine came to life in the second half to trounce the Salem College Tigers 26 to 0 before a crowd of 1,500 spectators yesterday on Stayman Field, Keyser, in a West Virginia Conference tilt.

In winning their fifth straight game against one tie Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's gridders pounded across three second half T.D.'s to sew up what looked at first to be a tight contest.

After having drives stopped on the Salem 29 and 13 yard lines in the first quarter, Potomac State finally clicked in the second period to march 53 yards to paydirt. Jack Dorsey returned Wes Swisher's punt from the State 39 to the PSC 47 to start the drive. With Joe Stanislawczyk and Charles Ruyak alternating on the ball carrying Potomac moved to the Salem 3-yard ribbon in eight plays and Stanislawczyk hit the right side of his line to score standing up. Stan Szafran tacked on the extra point from placement and Potomac led 7-0. The clock stopped another State drive on the Salem goal line in the second quarter.

Midway in the third quarter Salem began to weaken and Potomac State drove 57 yards to a second T. D. Stanislawczyk climaxed the march by circling his right end from the three-yard stripe. Szafran added the point from placement and Potomac led 14-0. A few plays before the end of the third quarter Wes Swisher passed from his 24 to the Salem 38 where Roy Ashcraft raced in to intercept the ball and romp 38 yards into the end zone. Szafran's kick for the point was wide and Potomac State entered the final quarter with a 20-0 advantage.

In the opening minutes on the final chapter Potomac State started its final touchdown drive. Brooks Harris returned Ross's boot from the Potomac 40 to the State 49. Five line bucks by Ashcraft, Stanislawczyk and Riggins moved the ball to the Salem 30. Then Stanislawczyk cut over his right tackle and raced to the Salem 14 where he fumbled dribbled the ball and recovered on the Tiger 13. An unnecessary roughness penalty set Salem back to its one-yard ribbon but a holding and offside violation moved State back to the Salem 20. Ruyak lost two yards through the center then Harris passed to Bobby Bero on the three yard ribbon and on the next play Harris scooted around his right end into the end zone for the final score. Szafran's kick was wide.

The Potomac State and Salem second and third teams finished the game with the Cats' reserve having a first down and 10 on the Salem 24 as the game ended.

Fleet-footed Brooks Harris along with Joe Stanislawczyk and Charles Ruyak supplied the power for State in the first three quarters with swivel-hipped Tracy Riggins running wild in the latter portions of the third and throughout the fourth chapter. Ralph "Meatball" Basilio was the big gun on the State line. Cackowski and Yurchek led the Salem offense while Vanscoy was best on the Tiger line. Lineups:

Mooseheart And LaSalle Will Clash Here Tonight

Band Contest Precedes Game At Stadium

LaSalle High School's Gridiron warriors will play hosts to Mooseheart (Illinois) High School's eleven tonight in the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

Mooseheart is a private, preparatory and vocational school maintained by the Moose fraternity to educate and care for children of members of the order.

Coach John J. Long's Explorers will be striving to shake a three game losing streak (Fort Hill 55-0, St. Francis Prep 33-25 and Bedford 26-21) against the Illinois Red Ramblers who have bagged two wins against three setbacks. The locals have won two games.

Band Contest Scheduled

The game will be preceded by a band contest in which musical units from high schools in Morgantown, W. Va., 114 pieces; Romney, W. Va., 55 pieces; Hyndman, Pa., 55 pieces; Windber, Pa., 94 pieces, and Homestead, Pa., 65 pieces, will vie for three cash prizes totaling $225. Judges will be William E. Capaldi, Walter Fisher and Joseph M. Fradiska. The contest will get under way at 6 p. m. in the stadium.

Fort Hill and Allegany bands will not compete but will give a concert during intermission.

The Red Ramblers' new suits which are scarlet and have a white stripe down each side from headgear to shoes were designated by Coach John Williams in 1938.

The visitors in executing their offense use a ten man shift that helps screen any one of their nine formations, and have at their command over 100 plays.

Head Coach John Williams and Jesse Hendrix, assistant coach, are graduates of that school. Williams is in his 25th season as coach at Mooseheart and for the past 12 years has been varsity coach.

Last year the Mooseheart team played before an average crowd of 7,000 people per game in a 10-game schedule.

Clyde Gaydosh, one of the Mooseheart ends, who hails from Mt. Hope, W. Va., claims he never wore shoes until he came to Mooseheart.

The team's current schedule carries the Ramblers into four states —Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Maryland. Games this year have been played with Harrison, Tech, Chicago; Champaign, Ill.; Davenport, Iowa; Belleville and Aurora, Ill.

Expect Large Turnout

With a large advance sale of tickets conducted by Moose lodges of the district, the game is expected to attract one of the largest crowds of the season to the local stadium tonight.

It was in Maryland 37 years ago that action was taken to establish a home and school for dependent children of deceased members of the Moose fraternity. That action was taken at the 1910 Moose convention in Baltimore. A committee was named to select a site and on July 27, 1913, Mooseheart was dedicated by the then, vice president of the United States, Thomas R. Marshall, Mooseheart is maintained by the order through annual dues received from its members.

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 24—Forward passes produced two of Moorefield High School's four touchdowns today as the Yellow Jackets took the measure of Franklin High School's Panthers in a Potomac Valley Conference game by the score of 27 to 0.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Jackets marched 45 yards to their initial touchdown, a 10-yard pass from Johnny Vance to Bill Raines in the end zone producing the six-pointer. George Hott kicked the extra point. Raines, Harman and Hott alternated in carrying the ball, the latter making a 15-yard run on an off tackle play to advance the leather to the 12-yard mark.

Eight plays after the third period got under way Coach Paugh's team scored its second touchdown. Vance passed to Welton to move the ball to the two-yard line and Harman bucked it over on the next play. Vance converted on a kick for the extra point.

Recovery of a Franklin fumble on the visitors' 25 by Johnny Vance paved the way to Moorefield's third score. Welton snared Vance's pass in the end zone for the touchdown and Vance split the uprights with the kick for extra point.

George Hott dashed 30 yards for the final touchdown in the last quarter. Hott passed to Wilson on the Franklin 48 and on the next play Hott gathered in Vance's aerial on the 30 and galloped to the goal line. A penalty nullified the kick for the extra point.

Franklin was limited to 18 net yards on the ground but the Panthers picked up 67 yards by completing 7 out of 13 passes. Moorefield rolled up 119 net yards rushing and 142 yards in the air, completing 10 of 17 passes.

Coach William P. Hahn's Fort Hill High Sentinels guarded well the laurels and bouquets tossed their way this season with a smashing 42-6 victory over the hitherto unbeaten Ridgeley High Blackhawks last night at Fort Hill Stadium.

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a football contest at the local oval—an overflowing gathering of approximately 7,600—was crammed into every nook and cranny available to watch the spectacle.

A forewarning of things to come occurred in the opening phase of the fray after the Scarlet and White clad warriors from the hilltop received the initial kickoff. Jim Manges and Barney Tucker alternated to pick up a first on the Sentinel 41 and then Ray Stevenson—city's leading scorer and scatback in the Sentinel backfield—broke loose for a 51-yard scamper through the entire Ridgeley team for what looked like the first touchdown of the game. However the score was called back and Fort Hill penalized 15 yards for clipping from the Blackhawks 17.

This penalty just delayed the inevitable as Tucker and Stevenson racked up nine yard runs to place the ball on the Ridgeley 15. Manges made another first on the one and it appeared the Scarlet and White scoring machine was off to the races. A fumble by Stevenson when he hit a stonewall in the effort to score was recovered by Fats Wilson for Ridgeley on the 5-yard line.

Deluge Begins after Kick

Ridgeley kicked out of danger and then the deluge began. Short plunges by Stevenson and Don Sensabaugh put the ball on the Ridgeley 22 and then Manges cracked over tackle, swivel-hipped his way into the secondary, broke loose from the safety man who apparently had him trapped and raced the remaining distance to the goal lone for the first tally in the game. Manges then stepped back and booted the first of six consecutive placements through the uprights for the extra point.

From that moment on the race was on as the steamroller from Greenway Avenue plowed through the heavier Blackhawk line almost at will to score in every period.

A Roy Comer pass was intercepted by Charlie Lattimer on the Ridgeley 35 and set up the second touchdown for the Sentinels.

The Hahnmen, in chalking up their sixth straight win after their opening game loss to Washington and Lee High at Arlington, Va., cracked the crumbling Ridgeley line for three more first downs before Sansabaugh hit the center of the forward wall for the score from the two.

Pass Interception Paves Way

Another intercepted pass moments later again paved the way for

Wicker Manages Champs

Duquesne To Meet Best

By C. V. BURNS

Beall High School's soccer teams have gone undefeated in Garrett and Allegany counties since 1941. The only loss handed teams coached by Eddie Finzel over slightly more than three seasons was suffered at the hands of Sparrow Point High School in the state tournament finale, a 60-minute thriller at Boonsboro last fall. The score was 3-2. The Sparrows Point team, incidentally, beat several college freshmen and prep school teams.

Beall's record for 1941, 1945, and 1947 is 36 wins, 1 loss and two ties. No soccer was played during the seasons of 1942, 1943 and 1944. The Mountaineers have won 10 and tied one this season.

When Fort Hill whipped Ridgeley last night it marked the Sentinels' 18th victory since Prof. William P. Hahn took over the reins in 1942. His teams have lost only three out of 24 games. The other three were ties.

In 1942 the Hilltoppers' record was 7 wins, 1 loss and 1 tie; in 1946, 5 wins, 1 loss and 2 ties and this season 6 wins and 1 defeat. Beall, Hagerstown and Allegany are yet to be met by the Fort Hillians.

Paul Gallen, who follows the Middle Atlantic Baseball League graduates pretty closely, has discovered that Kemp Wicker, one-time Cumberland Colts' southpaw pitching star, who later played with the Yankees and Dodgers, managed Columbus to its second straight South Atlantic pennant this year.

Georgians point with pride to the fact that Wicker was not chased by an umpire during the two seasons and that's really something in the Sally League, they say.

What's this we hear about Jonathan "Johnny" Paugh, Moorefield High School's popular basketball and football coach being mentioned for the coaching job at Shepherd College, W. Va.?

There's quite a flock of students from Cumberland and nearby West Virginia now attending the Shepherdstown school.

The Cambria County (Pa.) American Legion has adopted a resolution directed to Governor James H. Duff asking that Middleweight Champion Rocky Graziano be barred from boxing in Pennsylvania for life.

Today Altoona and Johnstown will meet on the gridiron for the first time since 1940 when the game between the neighboring rivals ended in a riot.

Following the disturbance seven years ago the P.I.A.A. banned the games for a two-year period and it has taken five more years to get the teams together for another contest.

Johnstown will be the scene of today's game.

Wheeling newspapers are conducting a contest to select a nickname for the city's entry in the All-American Basketball League in which Cumberland's Dukes also will be represented. The contest ends November 2. A $50 victory bond will be presented to the fan whose suggestion is accepted by the judges.

The Baltimore Colts are drawing large crowds at home but success has not prompted Owner Bob Rodenberg to put the squeeze on the football faithful. You can still see a Colt game for a buck and a half or you can buy a ticket for $2.75 or a season ticket for $3 per game. Those who insist on box seats can pay $5, of course.

Coach "Chick" Davies' Duquesne University quint which plays an exhibition game with the Cumberland Dukes here November 16 will play 20 college games this season, commencing December 9 with Brigham Young at Pittsburgh.

Other teams to be met in Pittsburgh are Bowling Green, Utah State, Santa Clara, Arizona, Geneva, Texas Wesleyan, Bucknell, Lafayette, Seton Hall and Loyola of Chicago.

Games away include Albright (Altoona), Youngstown, Akron (Altoona), Cincinnati, Kentucky Moorehead (Louisville), Geneva (Beaver Falls), Baldwin-Wallace (Cleveland) and Akron.

Long Island U. will be met at Madison Square Garden, New York, Feb. 17.

Duquesne won 20 of 21 games last season and lost to Utah in the Metropolitan Invitational Tournament in New York.

CLARKSBURG IS HOST TO ALLEGANY TONIGHT

Allegany High School's football team will play Roosevelt-Wilson High School tonight at 8 o'clock in Clarksburg, W. Va.

It will be the sixth game of the season for the Campers, who have won only one game, lost three and tied one.

In their first meeting on the gridiron here last fall, the Presidents took the Blue and White into camp by the score of 14 to 7.

OUTDOOR SHOOTERS MEET WINCHESTER

The team representing the Cumberland Outdoor Club will meet Winchester, Va., shooters in a trapshooting match this afternoon on the Carl O'Neal Farm, Bedford Road. Shooting will start at 2 p. m.

Firing for the local team will be Russ McElfish, "Chick" Rodenhauser, Charley Simpson, Paul Nycum, Tony Francis, Harry Barton, "Lefty" Jordan, and Roy Maphis. Only the five highest scores will count.

Central High School of Lonaconing provided an upset yesterday when it defeated Bruce High School of Westernport, by the score of 2 to 1 at Lonaconing to throw the race for the Class "C" soccer championship of Allegany County into a tie, thus necessitating a play-off game between the same teams next week.

Alex Patton's field goal in the fourth quarter broke the 1-1 deadlock and enabled Coach Johnny Meyers' eleven to atone for an earlier season 1-0 setback at the hands of the Westernport eleven.

Stafford Ties Score

The teams battled to a scoreless tie in the first half but in the third stanza Verdeen Parsons gave Bruce a 1-0 edge by kicking a field goal. Alan Stafford, Orange and Black freshman, who came into the game in a substitute role, booted a penalty goal later in the same period to knot the score at one-all.

Paul Green and Patton were outstanding for the winners while Moran and Parsons were Bruce High's best bets.

Next week's playoff game will determine whether Central or Bruce will represent the county in the Class C inter-county tourney.

Beall Cops Title

Beall High School of Frostburg clinched the W.M.I. League championship for the fourth straight time by defeating a stubborn Barton High eleven at Barton by the score of 2-0. Barton was playing its second game in as many days—120 minutes of action—and gave Beall a hot battle throughout.

Blanked in the first half, Beall scored both of its goals in the third quarter. Williams' shot grazed the under-side of the cross-bar and bounded under for the first score while Wilt's hard drive made a direct hit at the target later in the period.

Beall has qualified for the state Class "A" tourney while Barton will vie for Class "D" honors in inter-county compitition.

Alleged Race Fixer Is Freed On Bond

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Oct. 24 (AP)—After spending a night in the Jefferson County jail, Peter Del Pozzo of New York and Baltimore today was free on $2,500 bond for a court hearing next January on charges of attempting to fix a horse race here.

Del Pozzo was indicted last month by the county grand jury on a charge of trying to fix a race at the local track December 18, 1945.

His is the first case to come under the law passed by the 1945 legislature providing a prison sentence of one to three years and/or a $1,000 fine on conviction of attempting to fix a race.

Carver Gridders Lose To Ramer Here, 24-18

Carver High School's six-man football team went down to defeat for the second time this season yesterday when Ramer Memorial High School of Martinsburg, W. Va., topped the locals at Community Park by the score of 24 to 18.

The West Virginians rallied in the final period to nose out the locals after Carver held the long end of an 18-7 score at halftime.

Redskin Is Suspended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—(AP)—Dick McCann, general manager for the Washington Redskins, said today that Ralph Ruthstrom, 220-pound fullback from Houston, Tex., has been suspended for the season.

"There was a rule infraction," said McCann. "Never mind which one."

Ruthstrom is a former Southern Methodist University star.

Both touchdowns were registered in the first quarter.

Pro Gridder Dies In Plane Crash

Burkett Was Flying To Rejoin Cardinals

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (INS)—Officials of the Chicago Cardinals professional football team said today that their ace rookie halfback, Jefferson Davis Burkett, was among the victims of the United Air Lines plane crash near Bryce Canyon, Utah.

Burkett was flying to Chicago to rejoin the Cardinals after undergoing an emergency appendectomy in Los Angeles last Saturday when the Cards were there to play the Los Angeles Rams in a National Football League game Sunday.

The 26-year-old Burkett, who rose to football stardom at Louisiana State, was leading the league in punting in his first year of pro football and already had gained renown as one of the finest defensive backs in the game.

He and his wife lived in Chicago. They had no children.

The passenger list for the doomed plane carried the name of J. Burkhart, but Cardinal officials said that was a misspelling of Burkett. They said he had informed them he was on the passenger list booked for the ill-starred flight.

The sputtering Potomac State gridiron machine came to life in the second half to trounce the Salem College Tigers 26 to 0 before a crowd of 1,500 spectators yesterday on Stayman Field, Keyser, in a West Virginia Conference tilt.

In winning their fifth straight game against one tie Coach Dana "Horse" Lough's gridders pounded across three second half T.D.'s to sew up what looked at first to be a tight contest.

After having drives stopped on the Salem 29 and 13 yard lines in the first quarter, Potomac State finally clicked in the second period to march 53 yards to paydirt. Jack Dorsey returned Wes Swisher's punt from the State 39 to the PSC 47 to start the drive. With Joe Stanislawczyk and Charles Ruyak alternating on the ball carrying Potomac moved to the Salem 3-yard ribbon in eight plays and Stanislawczyk hit the right side of his line to score standing up. Stan Szafran tacked on the extra point from placement and Potomac led 7-0. The clock stopped another State drive on the Salem goal line in the second quarter.

Midway in the third quarter Salem began to weaken and Potomac State drove 57 yards to a second T. D. Stanislawczyk climaxed the march by circling his right end from the three-yard stripe. Szafran added the point from placement and Potomac led 14-0. A few plays before the end of the third quarter Wes Swisher passed from his 24 to the Salem 38 where Roy Ashcraft raced in to intercept the ball and romp 38 yards into the end zone. Szafran's kick for the point was wide and Potomac State entered the final quarter with a 20-0 advantage.

In the opening minutes on the final chapter Potomac State started its final touchdown drive. Brooks Harris returned Ross's boot from the Potomac 40 to the State 49. Five line bucks by Ashcraft, Stanislawczyk and Riggins moved the ball to the Salem 30. Then Stanislawczyk cut over his right tackle and raced to the Salem 14 where he fumbled dribbled the ball and recovered on the Tiger 13. An unnecessary roughness penalty set Salem back to its one-yard ribbon but a holding and offside violation moved State back to the Salem 20. Ruyak lost two yards through the center then Harris passed to Bobby Bero on the three yard ribbon and on the next play Harris scooted around his right end into the end zone for the final score. Szafran's kick was wide.

The Potomac State and Salem second and third teams finished the game with the Cats' reserve having a first down and 10 on the Salem 24 as the game ended.

Fleet-footed Brooks Harris along with Joe Stanislawczyk and Charles Ruyak supplied the power for State in the first three quarters with swivel-hipped Tracy Riggins running wild in the latter portions of the third and throughout the fourth chapter. Ralph "Meatball" Basilio was the big gun on the State line. Cackowski and Yurchek led the Salem offense while Vanscoy was best on the Tiger line. Lineups:

GEORGE PAYTON DIES OF INJURIES SUFFERED IN AUTO CRASH OCT. 9

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 (AP)—George Payton, 24, Virginia State Open Golf champion, died today of a "severe brain injury" and fracture of the left thigh suffered in an automobile accident Oct. 9.

Hospital attendants said he had not regained consciousness since the automobile in which he was riding with four other men struck a railroad viaduct on Chicago's west side.

Payton, whose home was in Newport News, Va., was riding with Ralph Guldahl, Chicago golf professional; Edward Wooley, 47, of Oak Park, Ill., sporting goods manufacturer; Ben Kapp, Chicago, sporting goods buyer, and Reginald Speakman, 45, Miami, Fla., sporting goods buyer, all of whom escaped serious injury.

LEADS MOOSEHEART—Eugene Gurley, No. 19, left tackle, from Hickory, N. C., is captain of the Mooseheart (Ill.) High School team which plays LaSalle High School tonight at the local stadium at 8 o'clock. Gurley is a senior and tips the beam at 145 pounds. He made letters in track, basketball, baseball and football, the four major sports at the Illinois school.

Mooseheart And LaSalle Will Clash Here Tonight

Band Contest Precedes Game At Stadium

LaSalle High School's Gridiron warriors will play hosts to Mooseheart (Illinois) High School's eleven tonight in the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

Mooseheart is a private, preparatory and vocational school maintained by the Moose fraternity to educate and care for children of members of the order.

Coach John J. Long's Explorers will be striving to shake a three game losing streak (Fort Hill 55-0, St. Francis Prep 33-25 and Bedford 26-21) against the Illinois Red Ramblers who have bagged two wins against three setbacks. The locals have won two games.

Band Contest Scheduled

The game will be preceded by a band contest in which musical units from high schools in Morgantown, W. Va., 114 pieces; Romney, W. Va., 55 pieces; Hyndman, Pa., 55 pieces; Windber, Pa., 94 pieces, and Homestead, Pa., 65 pieces, will vie for three cash prizes totaling $225. Judges will be William E. Capaldi, Walter Fisher and Joseph M. Fradiska. The contest will get under way at 6 p. m. in the stadium.

Fort Hill and Allegany bands will not compete but will give a concert during intermission.

The Red Ramblers' new suits which are scarlet and have a white stripe down each side from headgear to shoes were designated by Coach John Williams in 1938.

The visitors in executing their offense use a ten man shift that helps screen any one of their nine formations, and have at their command over 100 plays.

Head Coach John Williams and Jesse Hendrix, assistant coach, are graduates of that school. Williams is in his 25th season as coach at Mooseheart and for the past 12 years has been varsity coach.

Last year the Mooseheart team played before an average crowd of 7,000 people per game in a 10-game schedule.

Clyde Gaydosh, one of the Mooseheart ends, who hails from Mt. Hope, W. Va., claims he never wore shoes until he came to Mooseheart.

The team's current schedule carries the Ramblers into four states—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Maryland. Games this year have been played with Harrison, Tech, Chicago; Champaign, Ill.; Davenport, Iowa; Belleville and Aurora, Ill.

Expect Large Turnout

With a large advance sale of tickets conducted by Moose lodges of the district, the game is expected to attract one of the largest crowds of the season to the local stadium tonight.

It was in Maryland 37 years ago that action was taken to establish a home and school for dependent children of deceased members of the Moose fraternity. That action was taken at the 1910 Moose convention in Baltimore. A committee was named to select a site and on July 27, 1913, Mooseheart was dedicated by the then, vice president of the United States, Thomas R. Marshall. Mooseheart is maintained by the order through annual dues received from its members.

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 24—Forward passes produced two of Moorefield High School's four touchdowns today as the Yellow Jackets took the measure of Franklin High School's Panthers in a Potomac Valley Conference game by the score of 27 to 0.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Jackets marched 45 yards to their initial touchdown, a 10-yard pass from Johnny Vance to Bill Raines in the end zone producing the six-pointer. George Hott kicked the extra point. Raines, Harman and Hott alternated in carrying the ball, the latter making a 15-yard run on an off tackle play to advance the leather to the 12-yard mark.

Eight plays after the third period got under way Coach Paugh's team scored its second touchdown. Vance passed to Welton to move the ball to the two-yard line and Harman bucked it over on the next play. Vance converted on a kick for the extra point.

Recovery of a Franklin fumble on the visitors' 25 by Johnny Vance paved the way to Moorefield's third score. Welton snared Vance's pass in the end zone for the touchdown and Vance split the uprights with the kick for extra point.

George Hott dashed 30 yards for the final touchdown in the last quarter. Hott passed to Wilson on the Franklin 48 and on the next play Hott gathered in Vance's aerial on the 30 and galloped to the goal line. A penalty nullified the kick for the extra point.

Franklin was limited to 18 net yards on the ground but the Panthers picked up 67 yards by completing 7 out of 13 passes. Moorefield rolled up 119 net yards rushing and 142 yards in the air, completing 10 of 17 passes.

Coach William P. Hahn's Fort Hill High Sentinels guarded well the laurels and bouquets tossed their way this season with a smashing 42-6 victory over the hitherto unbeaten Ridgeley High Blackhawks last night at Fort Hill Stadium.

One of the largest crowds ever to witness a football contest at the local oval—an overflowing gathering of approximately 7,600—was crammed into every nook and cranny available to watch the spectacle.

A forewarning of things to come occurred in the opening phase of the fray after the Scarlet and White clad warriors from the hilltop received the initial kickoff. Jim Manges and Barney Tucker alternated to pick up a first on the Sentinel 41 and then Ray Stevenson—city's leading scorer and scatback in the Sentinel backfield—broke loose for a 51-yard scamper through the entire Ridgeley team for what looked like the first touchdown of the game. However the score was called back and Fort Hill penalized 15 yards for clipping from the Blackhawks 17.

This penalty just delayed the inevitable as Tucker and Stevenson racked up nine yard runs to place the ball on the Ridgeley 15. Manges made another first on the one and it appeared the Scarlet and White scoring machine was off to the races. A fumble by Stevenson when he hit a stonewall in the effort to score was recovered by Fats Wilson for Ridgeley on the 5-yard line.

Deluge Begins after Kick

Ridgeley kicked out of danger and then the deluge began. Short plunges by Stevenson and Don Sensabaugh put the ball on the Ridgeley 22 and then Manges cracked over tackle, swivel-hipped his way into the secondary, broke loose from the safety man who apparently had him trapped and raced the remaining distance to the goal lone for the first tally in the game. Manges then stepped back and booted the first of six consecutive placements through the uprights for the extra point.

From that moment on the race was on as the steamroller from Greenway Avenue plowed through the heavier Blackhawk line almost at will to score in every period.

A Roy Comer pass was intercepted by Charlie Lattimer on the Ridgeley 35 and set up the second touchdown for the Sentinels.

The Hahnmen, in chalking up their sixth straight win after their opening game loss to Washington and Lee High at Arlington, Va., cracked the crumbling Ridgeley line for three more first downs before Sansabaugh hit the center of the forward wall for the score from the two.

Pass Interception Paves Way

Another intercepted pass moments later again paved the way for

Trojans, Bears Will Meet Today In Feature Tilt

Lions Are Favored Over West Virginia

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—California and Southern California, two of the nation's unbeaten football elite, clash tomorrow in the most significant game of a bulging mid-season program that might determine the western Rose Bowl representative.

Important games pop up all over the nation with such pairings as Penn-Navy, Texas-Rice, Michigan-Minnesota, Illinois-Purdue, Notre Dame-Iowa, Wake Forest-Duke, Penn State-West Virginia and Army-Columbia hogging the headlines.

Despite five straight wins for Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf's California Bears, they are ranked as underdogs to the strong Southern Cal Trojans whose record is slightly marred by a 7-7 early-season tie with Rice.

Wolverines Play Gophers

Michigan, ranked the No. 1 team of the nation by a wide margin in the weekly poll of football writers, wrestles with once-beaten Minnesota for the little brown jug at Ann Arbor, Mich.

The Illinois team that drubbed Minnesota last week, 40-13, expects a rugged struggle with improving Purdue at Lafayette, Ind.

Navy and Penn figure to provide the most interesting contest in the east at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania also draws another top eastern game at State College, Pa., the meeting of Penn State and West Virginia, both unbeaten and untied. Although State has played no top flight clubs, there is a strong impression that they rank with the best in the east and near the top in the national rankings. Fullback Joe Colone is out with injuries but Penn State has been established a strong three-touchdown favorite.

Army's string of 32 straight games without a loss becomes more difficult to carry each week. Now they face Columbia, an offensive-minded team that has been bowled over by Yale and Penn in its last two starts.

Notre Dame, the No. 2 club in the Associated Press poll, entertains Iowa in what is expected to be a passing duel between the Irish's Johnny Lujack and Al DiMarco.

Texas Faces Rice

Coach Blair Cherry's Texas Longhorns, rated third in the nation, face Rice, which was reported to be a powerhouse in pre-season calculations, but has lost to Louisiana State and Southern Methodist and tied Southern Cal.

Wake Forest, a team that has been climbing steadily toward the first 10, gives once-tied Duke a shot in its spotless record on the home field in the big game of the southern program.

Other major southern games include North Carolina at Florida, Auburn at Tulane, high-flying Virginia at Virginia Military, strong Georgia Tech in a home breather with the Citadel, Tennessee at Tennessee Tech, Hardin-Simmons at Mississippi State, Davidon at Washington and Lee, Maryland at Virginia Tech and Arkansas-Mississippi at Memphis with Ole Miss' Charles Conerly, the nation's top ground gainer, in action.

Kentucky, which knocked off Vanderbilt last week, plays an intersectional game at Michigan State, which has been coming back strong after its 55-0 rout by Michigan.

16 MAY GO TO POST IN SELIMA STAKES

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 24—(AP)—With the names of 16 fine two-year-old fillies in the entry box, the young lassies of the turf will have one of their big days tomorrow in the 22nd running of the rich Selima Stakes. If all 16 go, the race will gross $53,190, with $40,590 to the winner.

With Calumet Farm's Bewitch on the sidelines it looks like an open contest, although the Brookmeade Stable entry of Inheritance and Slumber Song—coupled with the more lightly regarded She Dares—probably will be the public choice. The Selima route is a mile and a sixteenth.

In place of Bewitch, which has been retired for the season to have a leg growth fired, Calumet will shoot for the big prize with Whirl Some, daughter of whirlaway-Some Pep. Whirl Some hasn't done much in her first year, winning a couple of allowance races but no stakes.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Rosalind Russell

The second will be called "Jolson Sings Again" and Larry Parks will be conspicious by his absence. What a shame that Larry got himself mixed up with this inquiry at Washington and is named in the investigation.

This would have been the right picture for him to put him back where he started—on top.

Columbia has started looking for a young Jolson, or should I say another Larry Parks?

Margaret Sullavan is reading "Never Again," Adela Rogers St. Johns' dramatic Cosmopolitan short story. As I told you sometime ago, Adela and Douglas MacLean are doing a stage adaptation of "Never Again" and Adela feels it is just perfect as a Sullavan vehicle.

Was wondering what Jesse Lasky was doing on the Columbia lot.

Putting two and two together, he's there to talk with the Columbia executives about a deal to release his Caruso picture. Apparently he and RKO are parting.

Lasky is making the life of Caruso, the greatest of all tenors.

I'm surprised at the King Brothers and I'm saying so right out loud. Five years ago they made a picture with two unknowns named Robert Mitchum and Rhonda Fleming and the title of this opus was "When Strangers Marry."

Now that Bob is going hotter than a firecracker and Rhonda Fleming has just been signed as Bing Crosby's leading lady, the Kings are reissuing this quickie under the title of "Betrayed."

Chatter in Hollywood: — Monte Proser, who has descended on Hollywood in a big way with two night spots, the Chanteclair and the old Trocadero, which will be re-opened soon with a flourish, is going into the motion picture production business, too.

He and his partners have decided to film "High Button Shoes," the Broadway success which they own. Interested in the project are Stephen Longstreet, who wrote the book, and Sammy Cahn and Jule Styne who composed the songs.

They'll try to get Danny Kaye for the Phil Silvers role on the screen. Chicago and London companies of the show have already been formed.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—Clark Gable has been home for two days with a bad knee. He's almost finished with "Home Coming" and as soon as the picture is finished he'll go on a fishing trip.

Hedy Lamarr was at Mocambo dancing gaily with George Sanders. Well Hedy is his type—he likes these attractive glamor girls.

Walter Winchell, Liz Scott and the Richard Greenes at Ciro's listening again to Kay Thompson, who is packing them in every night.

Doris Day, who is visiting her home town, Cincinnati, plans to bring her four-year-old son Terry back to Hollywood with her.

Paulette Goddard wearing one of her new Paris outfits in pink, red and white, with an ankle length cape with red hood, dining out again with Evelyn Keyes and John Huston. The Hustons and Paulette seems to have become very good friends.

Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson celebrate their sixth wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Dennis Morgan has taken off 20 pounds and looks marvelous.

Dorothy Kirsten, who is here with the opera company, has had a number of movie offers. I still wonder why Harry Cohn doesn't remake "One Night Of Love," Grace Moore's picture, with Dorothy.

Jane Wyman is giving the "Johnny Belinda" company a ringside description of the Washington inquiry. Ronald Reagan, who is in Washington, calls her several times a day to give her the latest news.

Ann Rutherford at Slapsy Maxie's with Warner Taub, Jr. Isn't he the boy who used to escort Gloria Lloyd places?

That's all today.

Trojans, Bears Will Meet Today In Feature Tilt

Lions Are Favored Over West Virginia

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—California and Southern California, two of the nation's unbeaten football elite, clash tomorrow in the most significant game of a bulging mid-season program that might determine the western Rose Bowl representative.

Important games pop up all over the nation with such pairings as Penn-Navy, Texas-Rice, Michigan-Minnesota, Illinois-Purdue, Notre Dame-Iowa, Wake Forest-Duke, Penn State-West Virginia and Army-Columbia hogging the headlines.

Despite five straight wins for Coach Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf's California Bears, they are ranked as underdogs to the strong Southern Cal Trojans whose record is slightly marred by a 7-7 early-season tie with Rice.

Wolverines Play Gophers

The Illinois team that drubbed Minnesota last week, 40-13, expects a rugged struggle with improving Purdue at Lafayette, Ind.

Navy and Penn figure to provide the most interesting contest in the east at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

Pennsylvania also draws another top eastern game at State College, Pa., the meeting of Penn State and West Virginia, both unbeaten and untied. Although State has played no top flight clubs, there is a strong impression that they rank with the best in the east and near the top in the national rankings. Fullback Joe Colone is out with injuries but Penn State has been established a strong three-touchdown favorite.

Army's string of 32 straight games without a loss becomes more difficut to carry each week. Now they face Columbia, an offensive-minded team that has been bowled over by Yale and Penn in its last two starts.

Notre Dame, the No. 2 club in the Associated Press poll, entertains Iowa in what is expected to be a passing duel between the Irish's Johnny Lujack and Al DiMarco.

Texas Faces Rice

Coach Blair Cherry's Texas Longhorns, rated third in the nation, face Rice, which was reported to be a powerhouse in pre-season calculations, but has lost to Louisiana State and Southern Methodist and tied Southern Cal.

Wake Forest, a team that has been climbing steadily toward the first 10, gives once-tied Duke a shot in its spotless record on the home field in the big game of the southern program.

Other major southern games include North Carolina at Florida, Auburn at Tulane, high-flying Virginia at Virginia Military, strong Georgia Tech in a home breather with the Citadel, Tennessee at Tennessee Tech, Hardin-Simmons at Mississippi State, Davidon at Washington and Lee, Maryland at Virginia Tech and Arkansas-Mississippi at Memphis with Ole Miss' Charles Conerly, the nation's top ground gainer, in action.

Kentucky, which knocked off Vanderbilt last week, plays an intersectional game at Michigan State, which has been coming back strong after its 55-0 rout by Michigan.

16 MAY GO TO POST IN SELIMA STAKES

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 24—(AP)—With the names of 16 fine two-year-old fillies in the entry box, the young lassies of the turf will have one of their big days tomorrow in the 22nd running of the rich Selima Stakes. If all 16 go, the race will gross $53,190, with $40,590 to the winner.

With Calumet Farm's Bewitch on the sidelines it looks like an open contest, although the Brookmeade Stable entry of Inheritance and Slumber Song—coupled with the more lightly regarded She Dares—probably will be the public choice. The Selima route is a mile and a sixteenth.

In place of Bewitch, which has been retired for the season to have a leg growth fired, Calumet will shoot for the big prize with Whirl Some, daughter of whirlaway-Some Pep. Whirl Some hasn't done much in her first year, winning a couple of allowance races but no stakes.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Rosalind Russell

The second will be called "Jolson Sings Again" and Larry Parks will be conspicious by his absence. What a shame that Larry got himself mixed up with this inquiry at Washington and is named in the investigation.

This would have been the right picture for him to put him back where he started—on top.

Columbia has started looking for a young Jolson, or should I say another Larry Parks?

Margaret Sullavan is reading "Never Again," Adela Rogers St. Johns' dramatic Cosmopolitan short story. As I told you sometime ago, Adela and Douglas MacLean are doing a stage adaptation of "Never Again" and Adela feels it is just perfect as a Sullavan vehicle.

Was wondering what Jesse Lasky was doing on the Columbia lot.

Putting two and two together he's there to talk with the Columbia executives about a deal to release his Caruso picture. Apparently he and RKO are parting.

Lasky is making the life of Caruso, the greatest of all tenors.

I'm surprised at the King Brothers and I'm saying so right out loud. Five years ago they made a picture with two unknowns named Robert Mitchum and Rhonda Fleming and the title of this opus was "When Strangers Marry."

Now that Bob is going hotter than a firecracker and Rhonda Fleming has just been signed as Bing Crosby's leading lady, the Kings are reissuing this quickie under the title of "Betrayed."

Chatter in Hollywood: — Monte Proser, who has descended on Hollywood in a big way with two night spots, the Chanteclair and the old Trocadero, which will be re-opened soon with a flourish, is going into the motion picture production business, too.

He and his partners have decided to film "High Button Shoes," the Broadway success which they own. Interested in the project are Stephen Longstreet, who wrote the book, and Sammy Cahn and Jule Styne who composed the songs.

They'll try to get Danny Kaye for the Phil Silvers role on the screen. Chicago and London companies of the show have already been formed.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—Clark Gable has been home for two days with a bad knee. He's almost finished with "Home Coming" and as soon as the picture is finished he'll go on a fishing trip.

Hedy Lamarr was at Mocambo dancing gaily with George Sanders. Well Hedy is his type—he likes these attractive glamor girls.

Walter Winchell, Liz Scott and the Richard Greenes at Ciro's listening again to Kay Thompson, who is packing them in every night.

Doris Day, who is visiting her home town, Cincinnati, plans to bring her four-year-old son Terry back to Hollywood with her.

Paulette Goddard wearing one of her new Paris outfits in pink, red and white, with an ankle length cape with red hood, dining out again with Evelyn Keyes and John Huston. The Hustons and Paulette seems to have become very good friends.

Rosalind Russell and Freddie Brisson celebrate their sixth wedding anniversary tomorrow.

Dennis Morgan has taken off 20 pounds and looks marvelous.

Dorothy Kirsten, who is here with the opera company, has had a number of movie offers. I still wonder why Harry Cohn doesn't remake "One Night Of Love," Grace Moore's picture, with Dorothy.

Jane Wyman is giving the "Johnny Belinda" company a ringside description of the Washington inquiry. Ronald Reagan, who is in Washington, calls her several times a day to give her the latest news.

Ann Rutherford at Slapsy Maxie's with Warner Taub, Jr. Isn't he the boy who used to escort Gloria Lloyd places?

That's all today.

Commissioners Transfer Garrett School Building Fund Account

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND — Transfer of the school building fund to the new account as provided by law passed at the last session of the legislature, was affected this week by the County Commissioners in a resolution passed at their regular session.

It was resolved that the balance of funds remaining in the bank in the name of County Commissioners and Board of Education, "Oakland High School Fund," be transferred to the new account in the name of Arthur H. Green, county treasurer of Garrett County, "School Building Fund," in accordance with provisions of law.

The sum of $9,100 received by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, as set out in his letter to the board, was also ordered transferred to the same fund.

The $9,100 was in payment of the incentive fund for school buildings from the state treasurer, from the first quarterly installment. It was also explained that the fund in the local bank amounted to about $910.-20. An additional $60,000 of the school building fund is in government bonds, it was stated.

A delegation consisting of Mr. Hughes, teachers and trustees of East Vindex School, was before the board asking for repairs, an additional room and playground for that school.

Neil C. Fraley, attorney to the board, outlined the provisions of the recent law in regard to school buildings and the Board advised that they felt sure the matter would be taken care of after a survey of schools of the county was made but that nothing on a large scale would be done until the survey was made.

In a discussion of "America's Alcohol Problem," Dr. Frederick W. Smith, Baltimore, told Central High School students at an assembly program yesterday morning that alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant, and that all persons are affected differently by liquor.

Stacks, pastor of First Methodist Church here, and Rev. C. H. Goshorn, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Urges Bird Conservation

Stating that many birds have become extinct through lack of proper conservation practices, Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, science instructor at Central High School and a member of the Audubon Society, told the Mt. Savage Lions Club in an address Thursday evening that "the placing of bounties on certain groups of birds and animals must be stopped."

Hodgen explained that the state of Florida spent large sums for bounties to kill off hawks and owls because it was believed those birds were killing pheasants. Actually, he said, rats and mice were eating the pheasant eggs, while owls and hawks were merely collecting over the pheasant area to kill the rats.

He urged that more bird clubs be formed in the county and that additional bird feeding stations be built and maintained.

Commissioners Transfer Garrett School Building Fund Account

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND — Transfer of the school building fund to the new account as provided by law passed at the last session of the legislature, was affected this week by the County Commissioners in a resolution passed at their regular session.

It was resolved that the balance of funds remaining in the bank in the name of County Commissioners and Board of Education, "Oakland High School Fund," be transferred to the new account in the name of Arthur H. Green, county treasurer of Garrett County, "School Building Fund," in accordance with provisions of law.

The sum of $9,100 received by F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools, as set out in his letter to the board, was also ordered transferred to the same fund.

The $9,100 was in payment of the incentive fund for school buildings from the state treasurer, from the first quarterly installment. It was also explained that the fund in the local bank amounted to about $910.-20. An additional $60,000 of the school building fund is in government bonds, it was stated.

A delegation consisting of Mr. Hughes, teachers and trustees of East Vindex School, was before the board asking for repairs, an additional room and playground for that school.

Neil C. Fraley, attorney to the board, outlined the provisions of the recent law in regard to school buildings and the Board advised that they felt sure the matter would be taken care of after a survey of schools of the county was made but that nothing on a large scale would be done until the survey was made.

A meeting of representatives of all organizations of town and nearby areas is scheduled to be held in the City Hall, Oakland, on Monday evening, October 27, to make preliminary plans for Oakland's centennial celebration in 1949.

Report On Cows

In making their monthly report on the high producing cows of Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1, members made a number of suggestions in feeding and methods of saving grain where practical. They suggested that dairymen feed milk cows according to production, make more use of good hay and ensilage and cull unprofitable cows.

They were of the opinion that the feed situation would get worse by the first of the year and suggested that dairymen inventory their feed supplies or sources where they could get the same.

Raymond J. Tice had the highest producing herd with 600 pounds average milk and butterfat content averaging 33 pounds. Averages of the other four high herds: Leslie J. Stanton, 777, milk and 32.4 butterfat; Sherman Beachy, 671 milk, 31.7 butterfat; Paul Kinsinger, 668 milk, 31.5 butterfat; I. J. Maust, 585 milk, 30.2 butterfat.

Alcohol Problem Cited

In a discussion of "America's Alcohol Problem," Dr. Frederick W. Smith, Baltimore, told Central High School students at an assembly program yesterday morning that alcohol is a depressant, not a stimulant, and that all persons are affected differently by liquor.

He stressed the danger inherent in taking even one drink of any beverage containing alcohol.

Dr. Smith, who addressed an audience of over 400 students and faculty members, was introduced by Rev. Watson E. Holley, pastor of First Methodist Church, Frostburg. Guests included Rev. John E. Stacks, pastor of First Methddist Church here, and Rev. C. H. Goshorn, pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

Urges Bird Conservation

Stating that many birds have become extinct through lack of proper conservation practices, Kendrick Y. Hodgdon, science instructor at Central High School and a member of the Audubon Society, told the Mt. Savage Lions Club in an address Thursday evening that "the placing of bounties on certain groups of birds and animals must be stopped."

Hodgen explained that the state of Florida spent large sums for bounties to kill off hawks and owls because it was believed those birds were killing pheasants. Actually, he said, rats and mice were eating the pheasant eggs, while owls and hawks were merely collecting over the pheasant area to kill the rats.

He urged that more bird clubs be formed in the county and that additional bird feeding stations be built and maintained.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who passed away one year ago today, October 25, 1946.

Though on earth you are no more,
Still in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.

Four Grid Games To Be Carried By Networks Today

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 — A double-header broadcast is to be found in Saturday's network schedule of footballing. It will be on the CBS list, tutored by Sports Director Red Barber. Thus altogether the four networks will have four games, with two of them on the same one. Here's the lineup:

Army vs. Columbia — MBS at 1:45 p. m.

Alabama vs. Georgia at Athens, Ga.—NBC at 2:15.

Notre Dame vs. Iowa at South Bend, Ind.—CBS and ABC at 2:45. California vs. Southern California at Berkeley—Also CBS at approximately 5:15.

This will give CBS listeners something more than four straight hours of football.

In the radio world of music, Arturo Toscanini is to return to the NBC symphony for his tenth season. The first group of his directions, to total 16, will run through December 13. The orchestra now has the new time of 6:30 on NBC. Toscanini's re-opener will be an all-Beethoven concert.

Another music item is a radio version of Carmen in the hour of the Chicago Theater Of the Air of MBS at 10. Winifred Heidt and Richard Tucker are to do the singing co-roles.

ABC advises that no longer is it "I Deal in Crime," but "Ross Dolan, Detective," that 8 o'clock mystery story. . . Earlier at 7:30 ABC has scheduled recorded excerpts of testimony before the house committee on un-American activities.

Four Grid Games To Be Carried By Networks Today

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 — A double-header broadcast is to be found in Saturday's network schedule of footballing. It will be on the CBS list, tutored by Sports Director Red Barber. Thus altogether the four networks will have four games, with two of them on the same one. Here's the lineup:

Army vs. Columbia — MBS at 1:45 p. m.

Alabama vs. Georgia at Athens, Ga.—NBC at 2:15.

Notre Dame vs. Iowa at South Bend, Ind.—CBS and ABC at 2:45.

California vs. Southern California at Berkeley—Also CBS at approximately 5:15.

This will give CBS listeners something more than four straight hours of football.

In the radio world of music, Arturo Toscanini is to return to the NBC symphony for his tenth season. The first group of his directions, to total 16, will run through December 13. The orchestra now has the new time of 6:30 on NBC. Toscanini's re-opener will be an all-Beethoven concert.

Another music item is a radio version of Carmen in the hour of the Chicago Theater Of the Air of MBS at 10. Winifred Heidt and Richard Tucker are to do the singing co-roles.

ABC advises that no longer is it "I Deal in Crime," but "Ross Dolan, Detective," that 8 o'clock mystery story. . . . Earlier at 7:30 ABC has scheduled recorded excerpts of testimony before the house committee on un-American activities.

Public Found Unwilling To Undergo Food Rationing To Help Europe

Poll Shows People Are Against Controls

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24—President Truman is in step with the American people when he opposes "police state" food rationing rather than a voluntary effort to save grain for Europe's hungry.

The weight of public opinion now strongly opposes a resort to rationing, which is a complete reversal from the mood prevailing a year ago. Evidently, the people, together with their chief executive, are weary of restrictions which they accepted as a necessary evil in wartime.

Less than a fourth of the population now favors government control over the nation's eating habits. In June of 1946, almost seven out of 10 said they would be willing to undergo rationing again in order to save enough food for Europe's needs.

This reversal does not mean, however, that the people are callous to the food crisis in other countries. The first article in this series yesterday showed that a majority of those with opinions on the subject believe that a real need does exist in Western European countries for food from the United States.

In a survey of opinion throughout the country the Institute interviewers asked this question:

"It has been suggested that in order to get enough food to feed people in Western European countries this winter, this country should go back to food rationing. Do you approve or disapprove of having rationing again to feed people in other nations?"

The answers:

Approve rationing	22%
Disapprove	68
No opinion	10

At the height of the Famine Emergency Committee's food-saving effort in 1946 the vote on a similar question was almost completely reversed from the present results.

In June, 1946, a coast-to-coast sample of representative voters was asked this question:

"Would you be willing to go back to rationing in order to send food to the people in other nations?"

These were the replies at this time:

Willing to have rationing	65%
Not Willing	31
Undecided	4

In considering the anti-rationing vote at the present time, it must be remembered that the question put to the respondents applies only to rationing for the specific purpose of saving food for other nations. The answers, accordingly, do not necessarily apply to how the persons interviewed might feel about rationing designed to bring about lower prices in this country or how they would feel about a return to price controls.

Major Stock Leaders Are Upset By Plans For Special Congress

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Selling tumbled leading stocks and major commodities today, following the summoning of a special Congressional session, but low-quoted motor shares contested the retreat with modest advances and relatively heavy volume.

Dealings, fast in the forenoon, tapered after midday and extreme losses of 1, 59 3 or more points were reduced in most cases at the close. Transfers of 1,650,000 shares compared with 1,190,000 Thursday and were a top since Monday. It was the 10th successive full day with the million mark exceeded.

Graham-Paige again was the speediest sprinter, up fractionally at a 1947 top along with Hayes Mfg. and U. S. Lines. Small plus signs were retained by Packard Motors, Hupp, Willys-Overland Continental Motors. Quaker State Oil was up ¾ at 23½. Deep Rock Oil advanced 1¼ at 40¾. North American edged up ½ at 25¾. Improved were International Harvester, Owens-Illinois and Cerro De Pasco.

Down 1 to 3 were U. S. Steel at 74⅞, Bethlehem 92. Youngstown Sheet 79½ Chrysler 63¾, Montgomery Ward 57¼, Deere 44¾, Douglas Aircraft 59½, Boeing 22, Sperry 22⅝, Standard Gas Preferred 28⅝, Phelps Dodge 43¾, American Can 87½ du Pont 188½, Allied Chemical 189, Santa Fe 84, Southern Pacific 45, Great Northern Railway 39⅝, Union Pacific 149, Illinois Central 27¾, Texas Co. 58½, Phillips Petroleum, 61, Schenley 26, American Woolen 46 and J. I. Case 43¾, Goodyear 46¾.

Forward curb leaners included Colts Mfg., Crystal Oil, Graham-Paige Preferred, Root Petroleum and American Gas. Backward were Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share, Sherwin-Williams and Derby Oil. Turnover here was 440,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

Railroad issues supplied the motive power for a general decline in the bond market. Total turnover of $4,670,000 topped Thursday's $4,463,000.

U. S. Governments showed little variation in the over-the-counter market.

Damage Suit Filed In Car-Truck Crash

A suit by titling was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Harry Logue against Harry Williamson as a result of a car-truck collision last March 26 on Greene Street.

William H. Geppert, attorney for Logue, said that Harold Donahue was operating the Logue truck when Williamson backed his machine into the street. It was raining at the time and the truck skidded into the auto. Logue is charging negligence on Williamson's part for backing into the street. Damages of $300 will be asked, Geppert said.

Public Found Unwilling To Undergo Food Rationing To Help Europe

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 24—President Truman is in step with the American people when he opposes "police state" food rationing rather than a voluntary effort to save grain for Europe's hungry.

The weight of public opinion now strongly opposes a resort to rationing, which is a complete reversal from the mood prevailing a year ago. Evidently, the people, together with their chief executive, are weary of restrictions which they accepted as a necessary evil in wartime.

Less than a fourth of the population now favors government control over the nation's eating habits. In June of 1946, almost seven out of 10 said they would be willing to undergo rationing again in order to save enough food for Europe's needs.

This reversal does not mean, however, that the people are callous to the food crisis in other countries. The first article in this series yesterday showed that a majority of those with opinions on the subject believe that a real need does exist in Western European countries for food from the United States.

In a survey of opinion throughout the country the Institute interviewers asked this question:

"It has been suggested that in order to get enough food to feed people in Western European countries this winter, this country should go back to food rationing. Do you approve or disapprove of having rationing again to feed people in other nations?"

The answers:

Approve rationing	22%
Disapprove	68
No opinion	10

At the height of the Famine Emergency Committee's food-saving effort in 1946 the vote on a similar question was almost completely reversed from the present results.

In June, 1946, a coast-to-coast sample of representative voters was asked this question:

"Would you be willing to go back to rationing in order to sent food to the people in other nations?"

These were the replies at this time:

Willing to have rationing	65%
Not Willing	31
Undecided	4

In considering the anti-rationing vote at the present time, it must be remembered that the question put to the respondents applies only to rationing for the specific purpose of saving food for other nations. The answers, accordingly, do not necessarily apply to how the persons interviewed might feel about rationing designed to bring about lower prices in this country or how they would feel about a return to price controls.

Major Stock Leaders Are Upset By Plans For Special Congress

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Selling tumbled leading stocks and major commodities today, following the summoning of a special Congressional session, but low-quoted motor shares contested the retreat with modest advances and relatively heavy volume.

Dealings, fast in the forenoon, tapered after midday and extreme losses of 1, 59 3 or more points were reduced in most cases at the close. Transfers of 1,650,000 shares compared with 1,190,000 Thursday and were a top since Monday. It was the 10th successive full day with the million mark exceeded.

Graham-Paige again was the speediest sprinter, up fractionally at a 1947 top along with Hayes Mfg. and U. S. Lines. Small plus signs were retained by Packard Motors, Hupp, Willys-Overland Continental Motors. Quaker State Oil was up ¾ at 23½. Deep Rock Oil advanced 1⅛ at 40¾. North American edged up ½ at 25¾. Improved were International Harvester, Owens-Illinois and Cerro De Pasco.

Down 1 to 3 were U. S. Steel at 74⅞, Bethlehem 92, Youngstown Sheet 79½, Chrysler 63¾, Montgomery Ward 57¼, Deere 44⅝, Douglas Aircraft 59½, Boeing 22, Sperry 22¾, Standard Gas Preferred 28⅝, Phelps Dodge 43¼, American Can 87½ du Pont 188½, Allied Chemical 189, Santa Fe 84, Southern Pacific 45, Great Northern Railway 39¾, Union Pacific 149, Illinois Central 27¾, Texas Co. 58½, Phillips Petroleum, 61, Schenley 25, American Woolen 46 and J. I. Case 43¾, Goodyear 46¾.

Forward curb leaners included Colts Mfg., Crystal Oil, Graham-Paige Preferred, Root, Petroleum and American Gas. Backward were Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share, Sherwin-Williams and Derby Oil. Turnover here was 440,000 shares, the same as yesterday.

Railroad issues supplied the motive power for a general decline in the bond market. Total turnover of $4,670,000 topped Thursday's $4,463,000.

U. S. Governments showed little variation in the over-the-counter market.

Damage Suit Filed In Car-Truck Crash

A suit by titling was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Harry Logue against Harry Williamson as a result of a car-truck collision last March 26 on Greene Street.

William H. Geppert, attorney for Logue, said that Harold Donahue was operating the Logue truck when Williamson backed his machine into the street. It was raining at the time and the truck skidded into the auto. Logue is charging negligence on Williamson's part for backing into the street. Damages of $300 will be asked, Geppert said.

Rubber Union Favors 30-Hour Work Week

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, has gone on record as favoring steps to promote a six-hour day and a 30-hour week in the rubber industry, A. E. Johnson, president, reported yesterday.

He asserted such a schedule will not only secure maximum production for each man-hour of work but will protect and furnish work for returned veterans.

Johnson said he will name a committee to study the possibility of establishing a co-operative store in conjunction with other labor groups. The union, he added, is urging Congress to enact an effective price control law which "should not only halt increases in the cost of living but bring about a roll back."

Kenneth William Everly, Plaintiff, vs. Sarah Elizabeth Everly, Defendant. No. 20337 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff, Kenneth William Everly from the defendant, Sarah Elizabeth Everly, a vinculo matrimonii: and to secure to the plaintiff the care, custody and control of their infant child, Elizabeth.

The bill states that the parties were married at Oakland, Maryland on February 26, 1941 and lived together until March 1, 1943, when the defendant, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and has declared her intention to live with him no longer, that such abandonment is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the said defendant on divers days and times since their marriage and the filing of this bill has committed the crime of adultery with certain men whose names are unknown to the plaintiff and that he has not lived or cohabited with her since he has discovered her said adulteries. The plaintiff alleges that he has always behaved himself as a faithful, chaste and affectionate husband towards his said wife.

The bill states that one child has been born of this marriage, a daughter, Elizabeth Everly, born December 22, 1941, and that she is now under the care and control of the plaintiff. That the plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year before the bringing of his suit, but that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and does not reside therein.

It is thereupon this 3rd day of October, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Allegany County, once in each of four weeks before the 4th day of November, 1947, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 20th day of November, next, to show cause, if any she have, why a decree ought not to pass as prayed.

Korns, who resided on Maryland Avenue, became the bride of Mr. Kabosky, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Kabosky, who came here from Germany and resided on the Williams Road, October 6, 1897. City Auditor Reports Satisfactory Balance

Less than half the amount appropriated for city operations had been expended as the city reached the midway point in the 1947-48 fiscal year September 30, with all accounts in good condition, according to a report issued by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

The report shows $333,520 expended and $361,909 remaining. The balance is not as great as appears as there are some items, such as election expenses, which are not charged until the end of the year. On the other hand, major expenses for parks, Constitution Park and playgrounds have already been charged.

On the collection side $771,984 has been received of a levy of $889,330. The major item not yet credited is $62,446 for taxes, but there appears no doubt that this money will be collected before the end of the year.

Income from police fines is running ahead of expectations. A total of $10,000 was levied and already $7,527 has been received.

Petitions Ask Action On Flood Control

The Chamber of Commerce is circulating petitions calling for the Mayor and Council "to take immediate action to provide ways and means through which the city can assume its share of the cost and take such other measures as are necessary to have this project included in the federal flood control appropriation at the next session of Congress."

According to Harold W. Smith, secretary, the petitions are being sent to business houses and property owners in the flood district, with the request that the petitions be returned to the Chamber of Commerce office by November 5.

The petition points out that the problem has been studied for many years and a plan prepared to provide protection for a flood of 20 per cent in excess of that of 1936.

It likewise asserts that under a Congressional Act of 1937 the federal government will pay approximately 75 per cent of the cost, whereas newer projects are on a 50-50 basis.

Haren Will Address Townsend Meeting

Herbert F. Haren, promotion director from national headquarters in Cleveland, O., will address the monthly mass meeting of Townsend Clubs tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the WOW Hall, 144 Union Street, on activities in behalf of the Townsend insurance bill in Washington.

Rubber Union Favors 30-Hour Work Week

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, has gone on record as favoring steps to promote a six-hour day and a 30-hour week in the rubber industry, A. E. Johnson, president, reported yesterday.

He asserted such a schedule will not only secure maximum production for each man-hour of work but will protect and furnish work for returned veterans.

Johnson said he will name a committee to study the possibility of establishing a co-operative store in conjunction with other labor groups. The union, he added, is urging Congress to enact an effective price control law which "should not only halt increases in the cost of living but bring about a roll back."

Kenneth William Everly, Plaintiff, vs. Sarah Elizabeth Everly, Defendant. No. 20337 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff, Kenneth William Everly from the defendant, Sarah Elizabeth Everly, a vinculo matrimonii; and to secure to the plaintiff the care, custody and control of their infant child, Elizabeth.

The bill states that the parties were married at Oakland, Maryland on February 26, 1941 and lived together until March 1, 1943, when the defendant, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted the plaintiff and has declared her intention to live with him no longer, that such abandonment is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the said defendant on divers days and times since their marriage and the filing of this bill has committed the crime of adultery with certain men whose names are unknown to the plaintiff and that he has not lived or cohabited with her since he has discovered her said adulteries. The plaintiff alleges that he has always behaved himself as a faithful, chaste and affectionate husband towards his said wife.

The bill states that one child has been born of this marriage, a daughter, Elizabeth Everly, born December 22, 1941, and that she is now under the care and control of the plaintiff. That the plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year before the bringing of his suit, but that the defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland and does not reside therein.

It is thereupon this 3rd day of October, 1947, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, ordered that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Allegany County, once in each of four weeks before the 4th day of November, 1947, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 20th day of November, next, to show cause, if any she have, why a decree ought not to pass as prayed.

Clerk.

Mr., Mrs. Kabosky Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Kabosky, 419 Arch Street, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary tomorrow. The observance will begin with a reception in St. Mary's Hall following the 8:30 o'clock mass, which Rev. Lawrence Landrigan will celebrate. A family dinner will be held later.

The former Miss Elizabeth Korns, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George H. Korns, who resided on Maryland Avenue, became the bride of Mr. Kabosky, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Kabosky, who came here from Germany and resided on the Williams Road, October 6, 1897. The ceremony was performed in SS. Peter and Paul Church with Father Ross, O. F. M. Cap., officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Kabosky are the parents of 17 children, nine of whom are living. They have 19 grandchildren.

City Auditor Reports Satisfactory Balance

Less than half the amount appropriated for city operations had been expended as the city reached the midway point in the 1947-48 fiscal year September 30, with all accounts in good condition, according to a report issued by City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

The report shows $333,520 expended and $361,909 remaining. The balance is not as great as appears as there are some items, such as election expenses, which are not charged until the end of the year. On the other hand, major expenses for parks, Constitution Park and playgrounds have already been charged.

On the collection side $771,984 has been received of a levy of $889,330. The major item not yet credited is $62,446 for taxes, but there appears no doubt that this money will be collected before the end of the year.

Income from police fines is running ahead of expectations. A total of $10,000 was levied and already $7,527 has been received.

Rural Mail Carrier Position Is Open

Applications for the position of rural mail carrier at Oldtown will be accepted at the Cumberland Postoffice Building until November 13. The date of examination will be stated on cards mailed to applicants.

Form 1977 and application blanks may be obtained from the Oldtown Postoffice or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

The salary of a rural carrier on a standard route of 30 miles is $2,020 per year, with an additional $20 per mile a year for each mile or fraction in excess of 30 miles.

According to Harold W. Smith, secretary, the petitions are being sent to business houses and property owners in the flood district, with the request that the petitions be returned to the Chamber of Commerce office by November 5.

The petition points out that the problem has been studied for many years and a plan prepared to provide protection for a flood of 20 per cent in excess of that of 1936.

Flames Sweep Over 300 Maryland Acres

Exhausted Crews Patrolling Areas

Over 300 acres of woodland in Garrett and Allegany counties have been burned over in the last 48 hours, as forestry and volunteer crews neared the point of exhaustion last night, William A. Parr, district forester, reported at 10 p. m.

Throughout the area, crews were still working on a half dozen blazes in scattered sections, but all fires were reported under control.

Lane Makes Appeal

Gov. William Preston Lane appealed to all Marylanders last night to take special precautions to prevent forest fires.

He suggested that citizens eliminate all burning of debris and brush in or near forests and woodlands . . . until after a steady rain, and that motorists do not toss cigarets and matches from their automobiles.

On Dan's Mountain, where fire started two days ago, 50 acres had been burned over last night, and a crew was still beating out the flames in a rugged, rocky area, where it was impossible to take mechanical or automatic equipment, and there is little or no water for fire-fighting. Parr said the blaze was under control and confined to a single area, but there was still plenty of work to be done.

A six-acre fire at Turkey Neck, on Deep Creek Lake, which threatened several cottages and dwellings was under control last night, and a two-acre fire on the Deer Park-Oakland road was extinguished late yesterday afternoon. On both these fires the forestry department's new beetle tractor was used effectively and Parr said the machine can do the work of 20 men.

Large Areas Burn

At Hutton in Garrett County, a fire caused by a spark from a locomotive burned over a 50-acre tract and a crew of 30 men from the railroad helped fight the blaze. It was under control, but being patroled late last night.

A 50-acre fire on Bear Hill and a 150-acre blaze on Backbone Mountain which started Thursday were about out last night, but both these areas were being patroled by forest guards, wardens and volunteers.

Five acres were burned over yesterday on Meadow Mountain near Grantsville, and 30 men, including Potomac Edison Company employes helped fight this fire.

At 8 o'clock last night, two fires were reported near Westernport. About an acre was burning "on the point, near the old ball diamond" between Westernport and Luke, and a large blaze was reported in the Stoney Run area, burning toward Garrett County.

Volunteers Alerted

Volunteers from Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, responded to a call from Forest Warden Clarence Groves, and members of the fire companies at Luke and Westernport were standing by with equipment at a late hour, in case dwellings and other buildings in the area were threatened.

Parr said the situation late last night was much better than it had been earlier in the day, but that his crews are exhausted and in need of rest. Some of the men have been going steadily since Wednesday afternoon, he said.

Fighting woodland fires is hard work, he explained, and in most instances involves beating the flames out with brushes, shovels, brooms, or cutting brush and felling timber to make fire breaks and trails.

Asked if he had any definite plans for obtaining additional help if needed, Parr said the department has a number of trained men available in all localities, volunteer fire companies are very co-operative, and there are always volunteers.

Can Call Troops

The foresters can deputize citizenry if necessary, he explained, but this has not been resorted to here this season. He also explained that the state has a working agreement to get troops from Fort George G. Meade, Camp Albert C. Ritchie and Camp Detrick if needed, and the National Guard could be called by the Governor if a serious situation developed. The American Legion and Veteran of Foreign Wars posts are always ready and willing to furnish manpower when asked, he added.

At some schools, older students have been trained as forest fire fighters and yesterday a crew of 14 boys was called out of Bruce High School, Westernport, by Brook Bodkin, forest supervisor, and Parr.

The local forestry district, most heavily wooded in Maryland, includes Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties. Parr said last night everything east of here, including the Green Ridge area, in this county and in Washington and Frederick counties was clear last night.

However, fires were reported in Kent County, Cecil County and Baltimore County, according to State Forester H. C. Buckingham, but all were under control last night.

Raese's Financial Condition Probed At Radio Hearing

Testimony Ends After Two Days

The wealth of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Greer, Morgantown, W. Va., and their newspaper and radio holdings were aired yesterday at a Federal Communications Commission hearing here, when Richard A. Raese, Morgantown, W. Va., applicant for a local radio station license, and son-in-law of the Greers, was cross-examined by counsel for the opposing license applicant, the Tri-State Broadcasting Company, Cumberland.

Raese, present vice president of a steel company owned by Greer, took the stand at 10:30 a. m. on the second day of the hearing, after 22 Tri-State Company and eight character and reference witnesses had presented plans for the station if the Tri-State company is granted the license.

Tri-State counsel, during the four hours of cross-examination of Raese, brought out that a bank account, said by Raese to be earmarked to finance the local station, providing the permit is granted, was made up mostly of money derived from the sale of a home owned by his wife, and deposited under his name.

Reconvenes Later

The FCC hearing, conducted in the Grand Jury Room of the Post Office building, recessed at 4 p. m. following two days of testimony by Tri-State Broadcasting stockholders and Raese to determine which of the two interests will be granted a permit to operate a standard radio station here on 1230 kilocycles.

Hearing Examiner Jack Blume said the hearing will reconvene in Washington, D. C., at a date to be announced by the FCC when the engineering personnel of each interest will be examined along with additional stockholders of the Tri-State Company.

During the direct examination, Raese told the commission examiner that he became interested in radio while working in a liaison capacity at Station WAJR, Morgantown, of which Greer is president, and Mrs. Greer the majority stockholder, but the applicant testified that he intended to sever all connections with the radio station and other Greer interests if the FCC grants him a permit to operate a radio station in Cumberland.

During the cross-examination, Raese repeatedly told the examiner that he intended to assume full financial responsibility for the local station, providing the permit were granted, but opposing counsel, through numerous questions, sought to establish the fact that the bulk of the financial aid was being supplied by Raese's wife, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Greer.

At one point in the questioning, Tri-State counsel informed Raese that he was making an assumption and had no figures to back up his belief but queried, "If I were to ask you if you believed Mr. and Mrs. Greer are worth $5,400,000 would you agree?" Raese replied that while he was not sure, he had no reason to doubt the statement. "They certainly are not hard up," he replied.

Raese, however, reiterated his statement that the Greers, who control the Morgantown station, along with one in Dover, Ohio, and one under construction in Elkins, W. Va., and an FM station in Pittsburgh, would have no part either in the financial control or the formation of policy for his proposed local station.

Following Raese to the stand was George James Kapel, who the applicant said would resign his position with WAJR and come here to develop and direct programs.

Explains Proposed Policy

Kapel, who introduced himself as a former California radio man, explained at length the type of program Raese's station would offer, along with its policy toward commercial and sustained programs, and told the examiner that the station would operate 18 hours out of each 24, and would endeavor to develop public interest programs that would originate in the area.

Thursday the Tri-State Company presented its plans for operating a radio station in the city, if granted the permit, and showed that approximately 22 persons would be employed to run the station along with an auxiliary station in Frostburg, besides three engineers. The station to be known by its call letters, WTSH, would also operate on an 18 out of 24-hour basis, going on the air at 6 a. m. and leaving at midnight.

Both parties indicated that they intend to become affiliated with the Mutual Broadcasting Company, but witnesses stated they would use

Strip Mine Bill To Be Introduced At Special Session

Legislative Council's Approval Expected

A bill to regulate strip mining in Allegany County will be introduced at the special session of the Legislature, according to Delegate William H. Geppert, sponsor of a similar bill vetoed by Gov. William Preston Lane at the regular session.

Geppert said the bill will be presented to the Legislative Council on October 28 at its last meeting prior to the special session which may begin November 3.

The Legislative Council visited Allegany County early in August and at that time expressed their concern over destruction of the country-side by strip mining operators.

Members of the Council likewise expressed the view that a law should be passed regulating strip mining and looked with favor upon Geppert's measure that was vetoed.

Because of these comments of members of the Legislative Council, Geppert said he expects the Council to approve the measure and submit it at the special session.

He added that Sen. Robert B. Kimble has been co-operating with him and that Kimble will present the bill to the Council.

With favorable Council action, the bill will be sent to the state printer for preparation and be submitted when the Legislature convenes.

Geppert's original bill was twice amended before being passed by both Houses of the Legislature only to be vetoed by Gov. Lane who said he based his rejection on the fact that the title of the bill failed to mention that Garrett County was excluded although the bill itself specifically exempted Garrett County from the regulation.

A series of floods struck the Georges Creek section in August and residents of communities in that section blamed the high water and widespread damage on failure of strip operators to backfill, with gaping holes in the country-side consequently filling like lakes and running off in torrents.

Snyder Held On Bad Check Charge

A Martinsburg, W. Va., man is being held in default of $1,000 bond for action of federal court in Baltimore on a fraud charge in connection with sending a worthless check through the mails, according to Deputy United States Marshal Howard P. Loughrie.

Bond was set when the man, identified as Robert N. Snyder, 55, appeared before United States Commissioner C. Welles Little in Hagerstown on Thursday. Loughrie said Snyder is being held in Baltimore City Jail.

E. L. Frase, post office inspector of Martinsburg, who investigated the case with J. P. Turner, local inspector, said Snyder is charged with sending a worthless check to the American Mail Order Company in Newark, N. J., in payment for an insured package containing 25 cartons of cigarets which he called for at the Hagerstown Postoffice last July.

Loughrie arrested Snyder in Sharpsburg, Md., on Thursday.

In 1922, the inspectors said, Snyder was convicted on the first of three fraudulent check charges, and served a total of nine years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., after being sentenced successively on charges brought by authorities in Baltimore, Elkins, W. Va., and Philadelphia, Pa.

Edward R. Burkey, of Burkey Brothers grocery, 146 North Centre Street, has purchased a four-story brick building at 164-166 North Centre Street, and is remodeling it preparatory to moving the business.

Robert J. Burkey, the other brother in the partnership said last night they acquired their business about 18 months ago. The new quarters will permit them to carry out plans to operate a self-serve market.

The building was formerly owned by the Snyder estate, and Snyder Brothers operated at the location for about 40 years. Upper floors have been utilized as apartments, but Burkey plans to convert the entire structure to an office building, his brother indicated.

Crossing Victim's Condition Is Fair

There was no change last night in the condition of Miss Wandalean Adams, 21, daughter of Mrs. Nora Adams, 312 Frederick Street, who was struck by a B. and O. passenger train on the Frederick Street crossing Thursday night.

She was reported in "fair" condition and semi-conscious yesterday in Allegany Hospital and X-rays were scheduled to determine the extent of possible skull injuries.

Knobley Mountain Blaze Still Raging

Appeals for volunteer fire fighters became more urgent in Mineral County yesterday as several homes in the county were threatened by a fresh series of fires which broke out just as weary and blackened foresters announced that a fire which had raged on New Creek Mountain since Tuesday was brought under control.

Sheriff James A. Dixon, who led one band of fire fighters yesterday stated that two properties belonging to Isaac Umstott were threatened for several hours and that a "Miller" house was miraculously spared when the flames burned entirely around it. Flames had licked to within 20 feet of the Umstott properties before they were brought under control.

Keyser authorities said a fire broke out over the top of Knobley Mountain, about four miles east of there, and spread through about 500 acres of the Miller and Cox orchards.

Another fire in the Pennyroyal section had swept over New Creek Mountain and was reported creeping toward the homes on Laurel Dale Road.

Fire Fighters Needed

Conservation Officer Claude Rice said fire fighters are still needed urgently, adding that "if an easterly wind should spring up," the fire in the Waxler Section would probably burn clear to the stone quarry east of Keyser: "We're all keeping our fingers crossed," he declared.

The blaze which has burned over a reported 1,000 acres of land on Knobley Mountain endangered some valuable orchard properties and to within about four miles of the Hercules Powder Company Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

Plant authorities said last night there seemed to be no immediate danger from the flames and said they understood the portion of the fire which could burn toward that section was pretty well under control.

Conservation officers praised the suspension of all hunting in Mineral, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton and Morgan Counties of West Virginia, although one officer said the step should have been taken several days ago.

Some Improvement Noted

Lester McClung, Romney, district forester, said early last night that the general picture in Mineral, Hardy, Morgan and Hampshire Counties was not too pessimistic.

The fire which has raged on New Creek Mountain in the Antioch section, he said, was under control late yesterday afternoon. He added that conservation officers hope to be able to hold their lines surrounding the blaze which has blackened from 700 to 800 acres of woodland since it broke out Monday.

Although no exact estimate of damages was available, the loss would amount to at least $3,500 using the value usually assigned to land of that type.

The blaze will also be a distinct loss to sportsmen since that area has been one of the best wild turkey sections in this area. Fire fighters reported seeing a number of wild turkeys flying away as the flames rages through the rocky area. A number of terrified deer and squirrels, which abound in that area, were also seen fleeing wildly from the forest fire.

Many of the men who have fought the fire on 12 hour shifts have been male students from Potomac State School. Forest wardens said there has been no personal injury and no property damage save to the woods which have been destroyed by the blaze.

Fire Still Rages

McClung said the fire on Knobley Moupntain, in the Gerstell area, was still out of control last night, adding that no exact details were available.

Control of the blaze has been difficult, he said he was told, due to the fact that orchardists were backfiring to protect their own properties.

The Hoover Hollow fire near Keyser, he said, is reported under control.

A small blaze in the Cabin Run section which was discovered early yesterday morning was apparently under control last night. McClung said a crew was put on the blaze early yesterday and that they had reason to believe the situation was under control.

Another fire was reported in the Sleepy Creek Mountain section of Morgan County and County Forest Protector R. B. Coughenour left Romney at once with a crew to fight the blaze. No report on that fire was available.

There were no new fires in Hampshire County yesterday and no new outbreak from a fire in the north end of Hardy county which was brought under control Thursday afternoon.

Navy Day Observance Is Planned By Cumberland, Frostburg Units

Street Parade, Dance Scheduled

Observance of Navy Day on Monday in this area will include an informal dance sponsored by the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division, and a street parade and speaking program in Frostburg.

Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer of the division, said approximately 150 couples are expected to attend the dance, which will be held Monday from 9 p. m. until midnight at the Knights of Columbus Hall, North Mechanic Street.

Music will be furnished by Jimmy Andrews' orchestra. Refreshments, prepared by ship's cooks of the reserve division, will be served at intermission. Members of the division and other Naval personnel on active duty are requested to wear their uniforms.

After payment of expenses, all funds raised through the sale of tickets will be placed in the division's welfare and recreation fund, which has been established to purchase athletic equipment, library books and magazines, and other equipment for the enlisted men's lounge at the new naval armory.

In Frostburg, members of the Naval Reserve in that area will assemble at the corner of Main and Grant Streets at 7 p. m. for a parade to the Gunter Hotel.

Flames Sweep Over 300 Maryland Acres

Exhausted Crews Patrolling Areas

Over 300 acres of woodland in Garrett and Allegany counties have been burned over in the last 48 hours, as forestry and volunteer crews neared the point of exhaustion last night, William A. Parr, district forester, reported at 10 p. m.

Throughout the area, crews were still working on a half dozen blazes in scattered sections, but all fires were reported under control.

Lane Makes Appeal

Gov. William Preston Lane appealed to all Marylanders last night to take special precautions to prevent forest fires.

He suggested that citizens eliminate all burning of debris and brush in or near forests and woodlands . . . until after a steady rain, and that motorists do not toss cigarets and matches from their automobiles.

On Dan's Mountain, where fire started two days ago, 50 acres had been burned over last night, and a crew was still beating out the flames in a rugged, rocky area, where it was impossible to take mechanical or automatic equipment, and there is little or no water for fire-fighting. Parr said the blaze was under control and confined to a single area, but there was still plenty of work to be done.

A six-acre fire at Turkey Neck, on Deep Creek Lake, which threatened several cottages and dwellings was under control last night, and a two-acre fire on the Deer Park-Oakland road was extinguished late yesterday afternoon. On both these fires the forestry department's new beetle tractor was used effectively and Parr said the machine can do the work of 20 men.

Large Areas Burn

At Hutton in Garrett County, a fire caused by a spark from a locomotive burned over a 50-acre tract and a crew of 30 men from the railroad helped fight the blaze. It was under control, but being patroled late last night.

A 50-acre fire on Bear Hill and a 150-acre blaze on Backbone Mountain which started Thursday were about out last night, but both these areas were being patroled by forest guards, wardens and volunteers.

Five acres were burned over yesterday on Meadow Mountain near Grantsville, and 30 men, including Potomac Edison Company employes helped fight this fire.

At 8 o'clock last night, two fires were reported near Westernport. About an acre was burning "on the point, near the old ball diamond" between Westernport and Luke, and a large blaze was reported in the Stoney Run area, burning toward Garrett County.

Volunteers Alerted

Volunteers from Potomac Fire Company, Westernport, responded to a call from Forest Warden Clarence Groves, and members of the fire companies at Luke and Westernport were standing by with equipment at a late hour, in case dwellings and other buildings in the area were threatened.

Parr said the situation late last night was much better than it had been earlier in the day, but that his crews are exhausted and in need of rest. Some of the men have been going steadily since Wednesday afternoon, he said.

Fighting woodland fires is hard work, he explained, and in most instances involves beating the flames out with brushes, shovels, brooms, or cutting brush and felling timber to make fire breaks and trails.

Asked if he had any definite plans for obtaining additional help if needed, Parr said the department has a number of trained men available in all localities, volunteer fire companies are very co-operative, and there are always volunteers.

Can Call Troops

The foresters can deputize citizenry if necessary, he explained, but this has not been resorted to here this season. He also explained that the state has a working agreement to get troops from Fort George G. Meade, Camp Albert C. Ritchie and Camp Detrick if needed, and the National Guard could be called by the Governor if a serious situation developed. The American Legion and Veteran of Foreign Wars posts are always ready and willing to furnish manpower when asked, he added.

At some schools, older students have been trained as forest fire fighters and yesterday a crew of 14 boys was called out of Bruce High School, Westernport, by Brook Bodkin, forest supervisor, and Parr.

The local forestry district, most heavily wooded in Maryland, includes Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties. Parr said last night everything east of here, including the Green Ridge area, in this county and in Washington and Frederick counties was clear last night.

However, fires were reported in Kent County, Cecil County and Baltimore County, according to State Forester H. C. Buckingham, but all were under control last night.

Rubber Workers Will Organize PAC Group

Plans for the Political Action Committee activities of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, will be made in the near future, A. E. Johnson, president, reported yesterday.

He said he will call a meeting next week of the local's legislative committee which will be in charge of the drive. Pans for the PAC action have been somewhat delayed due to the illness of Harry E. Castle, committee chairman.

False Fire Alarm

East Side Fire Company answered a false alarm last night at 9:59 o'clock from Box 51, at the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Broadway. Firemen said some of the celebrating students coming from the Fort Hill-Ridgeley game pulled the alarm box.

Raese's Financial Condition Probed At Radio Hearing

Testimony Ends After Two Days

The wealth of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Greer, Morgantown, W. Va., and their newspaper and radio holdings were aired yesterday at a Federal Communications Commission hearing here, when Richard A. Raese, Morgantown, W. Va., applicant for a local radio station license, and son-in-law of the Greers, was cross-examined by counsel for the opposing license applicant, the Tri-State Broadcasting Company, Cumberland.

Raese, present vice president of a steel company owned by Greer, took the stand at 10:30 a. m. on the second day of the hearing, after 22 Tri-State Company and eight character and reference witnesses had presented plans for the station if the Tri-State company is granted the license.

Tri-State counsel, during the four hours of cross-examination of Raese, brought out that a bank account, said by Raese to be earmarked to finance the local station, providing the permit is granted, was made up mostly of money derived from the sale of a home owned by his wife, and deposited under his name.

Reconvenes Later

The FCC hearing, conducted in the Grand Jury Room of the Post Office building, recessed at 4 p. m. following two days of testimony by Tri-State Broadcasting stockholders and Raese to determine which of the two interests will be granted a permit to operate a standard radio station here on 1230 kilocycles.

Hearing Examiner Jack Blume said the hearing will reconvene in Washington, D. C., at a date to be announced by the FCC when the engineering personnel of each interest will be examined along with additional stockholders of the Tri-State Company.

During the direct examination, Raese told the commission examiner that he became interested in radio while working in a liaison capacity at Station WAJR, Morgantown, of which Greer is president, and Mrs. Greer the majority stockholder, but the applicant testified that he intended to sever all connections with the radio station and other Greer interests if the FCC grants him a permit to operate a radio station in Cumberland.

During the cross-examination, Raese repeatedly told the examiner that he intended to assume full financial responsibility for the local station, providing the permit were granted, but opposing counsel, through numerous questions, sought to establish the fact that the bulk of the financial aid was being supplied by Raese's wife, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Greer.

At one point in the questioning, Tri-State counsel informed Raese that he was making an assumption and had no figures to back up his belief but queried, "If I were to ask you if you believed Mr. and Mrs. Greer are worth $5,400,000 would you agree?" Raese replied that while he was not sure, he had no reason to doubt the statement. "They certainly are not hard up," he replied.

Raese, however, reiterated his statement that the Greers, who control the Morgantown station, along with one in Dover, Ohio, and one under construction in Elkins, W. Va., and an FM station in Pittsburgh, would have no part either in the financial control or the formation of policy for his proposed local station.

Following Raese to the stand was George James Kapel, who the applicant said would resign his position with WAJR and come here to develop and direct programs.

Explains Proposed Policy

Kapel, who introduced himself as a former California radio man, explained at length the type of program Raese's station would offer, along with its policy toward commercial and sustained programs, and told the examiner that the station would operate 18 hours out of each 24, and would endeavor to develop public interest programs that would originate in the area.

Thursday the Tri-State Company presented its plans for operating a radio station in the city, if granted the permit, and showed that approximately 22 persons would be employed to run the station along with an auxiliary station in Frostburg, besides three engineers. The station to be known by its call letters, WTSH, would also operate on an 18 out of 24-hour basis, going on the air at 6 a. m. and leaving at midnight.

Both parties indicated that they intend to become affiliated with the Mutual Broadcasting Company, but witnesses stated they would use

Legislative Council's Approval Expected

A bill to regulate strip mining in Allegany County will be introduced at the special session of the Legislature, according to Delegate William H. Geppert, sponsor of a similar bill vetoed by Gov. William Preston Lane at the regular session.

Geppert said the bill will be presented to the Legislative Council on October 28 at its last meeting prior to the special session which may begin November 3.

The Legislative Council visited Allegany County early in August and at that time expressed their concern over destruction of the country-side by strip mining operators.

Members of the Council likewise expressed the view that a law should be passed regulating strip mining and looked with favor upon Geppert's measure that was vetoed.

Because of these comments of members of the Legislative Council, Geppert said he expects the Council to approve the measure and submit it at the special session.

He added that Sen. Robert B. Kimble has been co-operating with him and that Kimble will present the bill to the Council.

With favorable Council action, the bill will be sent to the state printer for preparation and be submitted when the Legislature convenes.

Geppert's original bill was twice amended before being passed by both Houses of the Legislature only to be vetoed by Gov. Lane who said he based his rejection on the fact that the title of the bill failed to mention that Garrett County was excluded although the bill itself specifically exempted Garrett County from the regulation.

A series of floods struck the Georges Creek section in August and residents of communities in that section blamed the high water and widespread damage on failure of strip operators to backfill, with gaping holes in the country-side consequently filling like lakes and running off in torrents.

Forest Fires Imperil Mineral County Homes

Knobley Mountain Blaze Still Raging

Appeals for volunteer fire fighters became more urgent in Mineral County yesterday as several homes in the county were threatened by a fresh series of fires which broke out just as weary and blackened foresters announced that a fire which had raged on New Creek Mountain since Tuesday was brought under control.

Sheriff James A. Dixon, who led one band of fire fighters yesterday stated that two properties belonging to Isaac Umstott were threatened for several hours and that a "Miller" house was miraculously spared when the flames burned entirely around it. Flames had licked to within 20 feet of the Umstott properties before they were brought under control.

Keyser authorities said a fire broke out over the top of Knobley Mountain, about four miles east of there, and spread through about 500 acres of the Miller and Cox orchards.

Another fire in the Pennyroyal section had swept over New Creek Mountain and was reported creeping toward the homes on Laurel Dale Road.

Fire Fighters Needed

Conservation Officer Claude Rice said fire fighters are still needed urgently, adding that "if an easterly wind should spring up," the fire in the Waxler Section would probably burn clear to the stone quarry east of Keyser; "We're all keeping our fingers crossed," he declared.

The blaze which has burned over a reported 1,000 acres of land on Knobley Mountain endangered some valuable orchard properties and to within about four miles of the Hercules Powder Company Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

Plant authorities said last night there seemed to be no immediate danger from the flames and said they understood the portion of the fire which could burn toward that section was pretty well under control.

Conservation officers praised the suspension of all hunting in Mineral, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton and Morgan Counties of West Virginia, although one officer said the step should have been taken several days ago.

Some Improvement Noted

Lester McClung, Romney, district forester, said early last night that the general picture in Mineral, Hardy, Morgan and Hampshire Counties was not too pessimistic.

The fire which has raged on New Creek Mountain in the Antioch section, he said, was under control late yesterday afternoon. He added that conservation officers hope to be able to hold their lines surrounding the blaze which has blackened from 700 to 800 acres of woodland since it broke out Monday.

Although no exact estimate of damages was available, the loss would amount to at least $3,500 using the value usually assigned to land of that type.

The blaze will also be a distinct loss to sportsmen since that area has been one of the best wild turkey sections in this area. Fire fighters reported seeing a number of wild turkeys flying away as the flames rages through the rocky area. A number of terrified deer and squirrels, which abound in that area, were also seen fleeing wildly from the forest fire.

Many of the men who have fought the fire on 12 hour shifts have been male students from Potomac State School. Forest wardens said there has been no personal injury and no property damage save to the woods which have been destroyed by the blaze.

Fire Still Rages

McClung said the fire on Knobley Moupntain, in the Gerstell area, was still out of control last night, adding that no exact details were available.

Control of the blaze has been difficult, he said he was told, due to the fact that orchardists were backfiring to protect their own properties.

The Hoover Hollow fire near Keyser, he said, is reported under control.

A small blaze in the Cabin Run section which was discovered early yesterday morning was apparently under control last night. McClung said a crew was put on the blaze early yesterday and that they had reason to believe the situation was under control.
